VIRGINIA BEACH — The first meeting of the new advisory board of the Volunteer Service Bureau was held Wednesday in the board room of the Bank of Virginia Beach with the chairman, Mrs. Robert C. Goodman, presiding.

Mrs. Virgil Laws, president of the Health, Welfare and Recreation Planning Council, explained the role of the council in the communities.

White Praises Assembly Work

VIRGINIA BEACH — Del. P. B. White said Thursday the 1963-64 session of the General Assembly had accomplished more than any former session he has attended.

White called attention to the appropriation of $9,000,000 for the general fund in the new budget; a 26% increase for public schools and increases in teachers' salaries.

"We adopted the best formula for appropriating state funds in the nation," he said. "It was based on the need, effort and ability of its participants and it put the equity and welfare of all children in Virginia above any narrow viewpoint of decision."

White and Del. William P. Kelem were guest speakers at a luncheon of the Virginia Beach Democratic Women's Club Thursday at the Americana Motor Lodge.

White said the increase in school population has demanded an enormous increase in new public and state schools and college buildings.

Kelem told club members the real problem facing the state is "not the erosion of our land or our beaches but that of our population."

He said Virginia continues to lose residents who move to other states, presumably seeking higher education and better industries.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Elwood Hudson, president; Mrs. S. K. Wilson, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Troy Brown, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. J. R. Moore, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Kelem, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Garrett, treasurer; and Mrs. Elizabeth Hatcher, chairman.

METHODS MAY AMAZE BUT RESULTS COUNT IN COX MEMORY TEACHING

by Bob Baldwin

LYNNHAVEN — The mental gimmicks used by a group of budding memory experts at Cox High School may seem ridiculous at first, but they help raise grades and offer students new methods of remembering anything from algebra equations to the price of pole beans.

The young people belong to the Frank W. Cox-Mnemonics Club which meets regularly for the purpose of developing the memories of its members.

Recently the club amazed a meeting of the Malibu P-TA with a startling demonstration of memory feats.

The audience of adults was asked to call out words at random which were then listed on a blackboard numbered one through fifty. After a few minutes of study the board was reversed so it was only visible to the students.

The spectators were then asked to call any numbers listed on the board. In every case each student was able to respond immediately with the corresponding word.

According to the students themselves, anybody can do it. Basically, the method consists of first memorizing a list of "key words," a task made easy by associating the letters of the word with numbers in sequence.

When a student has firmly locked the key words in his mind, he can use them as "hooks" on which to hang mental pictures of other words, lists, and even abstract thoughts.

A student who was asked to memorize a list of words beginning with "canal," explains the process this way:

"The first of my key words is 'tea' so I made myself think of a bunch of teabags floating through the Panama Canal."

"The more outlandish the image, the better the system works," says John A. Fahey, faculty sponsor for the extra-curricular group.

Fahey, who began teaching at Cox after retiring as a Naval commander, began using the system about 10 years ago.

Once, before taking over the instruction of a class in the U. S. Naval Post Graduate School, he memorized the identity of each of his 80 students by studying photographs of them.

When the students walked into his class for the first time, Fahey astonished them by not only correctly identifying each man, but by also knowing the assigned seat number of each.

Last fall, when Fahey met his home room students at Cox on the opening day of school, he decided to spend an hour of free time showing them the basics of memory improvement.

The students were fascinated and three of them, James Blais, Sam Gunter and Dale Talley, suggested to Fahey that they organize the Mnemonics Club.

Man Charged In Shooting

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police Thursday charged a 34-year-old parolee with the fatal shooting of Bertie Lee Snowden, 20, of North Landing Road, earlier the same day.

According to witnesses Curtis Henry Perkins entered the workroom of the Snow White Laundry on Virginia Beach Boulevard at about 8:40 a.m. and fired several shots at Miss Snowden, an employee.

Perkins, who was paroled last year after serving eight years for the 1955 slaying of his wife, had been arrested Wednesday on a warrant obtained by Miss Snowden. He charged her with threatening her with a gun.

He was released on bond at 7:30 a.m., less than an hour before the young woman was shot. Following the shooting Perkins fled but surrendered to police shortly before 2 p.m.

Miss Snowden, a native of Princess Anne County, was a daughter of Lewis and Mrs. Ruth Snowden. She was a member of Campbell Chapel A.M.E. Church, where she sang in the choir and was a member of Willing Workers Club.

Besides her parents, she is survived by a daughter, Joyce Snowden; a brother, Vernon Snowden; and three sisters, Miss Mary Snowden, Miss Josephine Snowden and Mrs. Estelle Phillips. All live in Virginia Beach.

Since then the club has grown to include 17 members.

Mnemonics, which simply means the art of developing memory, is derived from Mnemosyne, the name of the Greek goddess of memory.

Aside from Fahey, few of the faculty members at Cox have any idea what the club is all about. "Most of the teachers can't even pronounce it," according to one of the members.

Pat Jelley, the club's treasurer, credits mnemonics with helping her to remember difficult algebraic formulas. "I used to be a D student in algebra," she revealed, "but now I make A's."

Other club members say they have used the method successfully in English, World History, and Biology courses.

Sam Gunter, president, who works part time in a supermarket, used to have a difficult time when a customer would ask the current price of various vegetables. Whether or not the store manager has noticed it, Sam's quick responses to the same questions are always correct now.

The students plan to fatten the club treasury by operating a booth at a coming student fair. They intend to give a prize to anyone who can stump their memory of a list of 50 random words, presented on the spot.

Those who try but don't succeed will pay a penny.

STAGECOACH TRIP KEEPS SCHEDULE

MANNING, S.C. — Hot weather has taken some of the starch out of the stagecoach caravan making its way to Virginia Beach from Florida but the leader repeats "everything's fine."

A communication from Frank Luter, who is driving the Frontier City stagecoach, said the group had experienced no major troubles...so far.

The team of horses, picked up in Florida, have been shot four times, Luter said.

Friday's note was mailed from Manning, S.C. and Luter said the caravan has come over 400 miles since leaving Ocala, Fla., in March.

They are scheduled to arrive in Virginia Beach by July 4 and will be greeted with fireworks, a rodeo and other festivities at Frontier City.

P. A. High School

STATE GOP CHAIRMAN WILL SPEAK WED. AT MOCK CONVENTION

LYNNHAVEN — Horace E. Henderson, chairman of the Republican Party of Virginia, will deliver the keynote address for the Princess Anne High School Mock Republican Convention Wednesday in the school auditorium.

Scheduled to get underway at 9 a.m., the event has been designed to create an atmosphere as authentic as a regular national party convention. Jim Landis is chairman and will be assisted by the Convention Executive Committee and students of the Social Studies Department.

Henderson, a realtor and insurance representative in McLean, Va., was the Republican candidate for Congress in the First District in 1954 and received the largest vote of any non-incumbent candidate in the South. He is a former Williamsburg Councilman.

Under the Eisenhower administration, he served as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs and served as the U.S. delegate to many international conferences, including five appointments by President Eisenhower.

In 1962-63 Henderson was the National President of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and in 1964 was recipient of a Special Citizenship Award and grant from the American Heritage Foundation which enabled him to visit 50 nations to organize young men's civic groups as a "positive weapon against Communism." In Mexico City that same year he was named the "Outstanding Jaycee of the World" by young men from 55 nations.

GOP Gaining
Since assuming office in 1962, Henderson has led the Republican Party of Virginia in spectacular gains. It obtained 49.8 per cent of the statewide vote in the six contested congressional contests of 1962 and has gained seats on City Councils in many communities for the first time in modern history.

In two previous mock conventions at Princess Anne, in 1956 and 1960, the senior students were successful in naming the candidates ultimately chosen by their party.

The convention will be organized into 50 state and four territorial delegations, with a chairman and co-chairman of the head of each.

In order to maintain authenticity, the delegation chairmen have obtained campaign equipment and candidate preferences from the actual state GOP leaders.

By the end of the third ballot, the students are expected to select one of nine Republican candidates: Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. William Scranton, Gov. George Romney, Sen.

Barry Goldwater, Richard Nixon, Harold Stassen, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge or Sen. George D. Aiken.

Other student leaders of the mock convention include: Buster O'Brien, temporary chairman; Larry Legum, executive committee chairman; Ben Hubbard, parliamentarian; Lynn Oliver, publicity; Jane Harrison, balloting; Kathy Gehman, rules and order of business; Linda Gruffy, seating; John Han, credentials; and Charles Carr, permanent organization. E. E. Cox, head of the Social Studies Department, will be the faculty sponsor.

Henderson is scheduled to arrive at Norfolk Airport at 7:51 a.m. and will be escorted by students to the school auditorium for the convention.

From the Near East, long a lover of garlic aroma, comes this delicious recipe for skewered meat balls.

GARLIC USE FINALLY BECOMING U.S. HABIT

Garlic has acquired a brand new image in the United States during the past decade, for some of the best cooks in town are taking it in their "bragging" dishes. That's because they've learned to use garlic as it should be used: as a seasoning, with "the art of the cook's art."

It had been estimated by students of the American cuisine that there has been well over a 100% increase in garlic use during the last decade. Credit for this seeming popularity should go to the delectable garlic products which were put on the shelves of some two decades ago. They are very easy to use, pick apart, and are in powder, garlic oil, and instant minced garlic. Garlic in these forms is easy to use, and it is of uniform quality and when exact amounts of garlic are called for, as in some of the recipes from the Near East, the use of the American products is a boon. It is possible to measure and add the precise amount of garlic needed for each recipe.

Garlic, garlic or garlic salt can be added into a soup, sauce or meat at the last minute to adjust the seasoning, if necessary. Instant garlic powder is full-strength garlic salt is garlic powder mixed with ordinary table salt. Instant minced garlic is intended for use in products which require a certain amount of garlic, but this form can also be used to give aroma to meat, poultry and vegetable dishes. It is allowed to remain in the cold liquid for at least an hour.

Even though garlic is a somewhat recent discovery for many Americans, it is actually a very old, well-known flavoring and medicine. Records show that it was used by Egyptian workmen about 6,000 years ago. The Chinese of Israel learned to use garlic when they lived in the land of the Pharaohs. The Greeks loved it; Rome of the Caesars did so, although their descendants did not. It is truly, as the Near East has said, "the king of the kitchen."

by Douglas Arnold Barnes
VIRGINIA BEACH — Professional models and a commentary sprinkled with southern anecdotes added color to the fashion show presented by Rose Hall for the Democratic Women's Club of Virginia Beach Wednesday at the Americana Motor Lodge.

Describing the outfits was Colin Studd, owner of Rose Hall, and models were Mrs. Sally Minnick, Miss Carol Thompson, Mrs. Bert Harper and Mrs. Selma Susler. The hour-long extravaganza was coordinated by Mrs. Louise Pennington, wearing a pink and green silk print suit with such fabrics as textile cottons, synthetic light wools, lacy chiffons, taffetas and silks and accented the outfits with patent leather and straw accessories.

Of particular interest were the cotton beach shifts, shorter than the street shifts, one featuring a large corn stalk appliqued in golden shades across the front.

For evening there was an aqua cocktail Cleopatra gown, with a large collar to emphasize a plunging neckline, and a solid black formal featuring a detachable full length split skirt which unzipped to create a short cocktail or afternoon dress. A single white rose was worn on a glove rather than the dress to introduce a novel new idea.

The models added to the picture of high fashion with perfectly groomed wigs and hair styles and heavy eye make-up.

Local Captain Gets Honors

U.S. FORCES, Vietnam — Army Capt. Fielding L. Tyler, whose wife, Mary, lives at 216 Sixty-sixth St., Virginia Beach, received the Combat Infantryman Badge while assigned to the Army element of the U.S. Military assistance Advisory Group (MAAG), in Vietnam.

Captain Tyler received the award for having been under fire while serving as an advisor with a Vietnamese ground combat unit.

MAAG, Vietnam, is an Army-Navy-Marine-Air Force organization which advises the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam on training, use of equipment and tactical operations.

The 31-year-old officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gordon Tyler, Linkhorn Park, Virginia Beach, entered the Army in November 1961 and was last stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga.

He was graduated from Norfolk Academy in 1951 and from Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, in 1955.

College Honors Beach Students

FARMVILLE, Va. — Two Virginia Beach area students have recently been elected to positions on the "Rotunda", the Longwood College newspaper. Miss Patricia Sue Wallace and Miss Marcia Lee Siegfried are both juniors.

Miss Wallace, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lachman, Jr., of 329 Southside Road, was elected editor. Miss Wallace is a member of the Nathaniel Macon Society, the Longwood Players, and Pi Delta Epsilon, a national honorary collegiate journalism fraternity.

Miss Siegfried was elected copy editor. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Siegfried of 308 Indian Hill Road, Bayside. Miss Siegfried is serving this year as president of the Longwood Players and as secretary of Gamma-Delta International Association of Lutheran Students. She is also a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary dramatic fraternity, and the French Club.

The group celebrated the club's 10th birthday with a cake and punch served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edward Sadler and Mrs. W. O. Stokes.

It was announced that the club would be represented at the state convention to be held May 11-13 at the Chamberlain Hotel in Old Point Comfort by Mrs. Thelma Byrd and Mrs. Johnson.

TEEN TOPICS . . .

By Lucy S. Oliver
Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

Lovely warm weather is trying to arrive, it seems, sometime soon. Perhaps you have already gotten out some of your spring or summer clothes to wear.

There is one thing about changing wardrobes to warm weather garb, and that is simply this—ironing those garments to wear.

If you are like most teenagers I know, there comes a time when you have to do your own ironing. Whether you iron all your clothes, iron occasionally, or only press once in awhile. Doing a good job is so much easier if you know how.

Fellows—don't turn the page—it comes in handy for men to know how to keep themselves looking nice.

Here are some basic rules of ironing that will always be of help.

1. Dampen clothes correctly—if you are ironing something that the correct temperature setting on your iron will not take the wrinkles out of, correct dampening is very important. Dampen slightly and avoid getting double thicknesses very wet. Sprinkling clothes with warm water helps the fabric to absorb moisture quicker. Fold each sprinkled piece loosely to prevent unnecessary wrinkling. Place sprinkled garments in a plastic bag and let stand at least 30 minutes for best results.

2. Locate equipment for convenience—Put your ironing board, iron, dampened clothes, and hangers in a place where you need good light, can work comfortably, and where everything you need is within easy reach.

3. Arrange pieces to be ironed according to temperature settings required—Plan to iron synthetic garments with low temperature settings first.

4. Learn to use both hands. It is not impossible. If you will get into the habit of sliding the iron where possible instead of lifting it, you surely will save your energy for better things.

5. Place each garment on the board for maximum ironing surface. As you iron, move garments from you to prevent wrinkling.

Here are some ironing hints to follow for different types of garments.

1. Iron dark garments on the wrong side to avoid shine.
2. Iron one part dry before starting on another.
3. Iron collars, cuffs, pockets, and hems on the wrong side then on the right side.
4. Iron laces, veiling, loosely woven materials and knit goods with a stamping motion.
5. Iron synthetic fabrics, when possible, on the wrong side to prevent shine.

Why not learn to do ironing the easy way while you are young. Perhaps then you won't find it to be such a chore when you get older and have a great deal more of it to do.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

"STOP! Before Using Any Pesticide—Read The Label!"

That is the slogan of the pesticide safety project for 1964. The motivating force behind this project is the National Agricultural Chemicals Association. And a distinguished list of other organizations, such as the National Safety Council and the Department of Agriculture, are cooperating.

The campaign is a big one, involving brochures, program aids, TV spots and newsfilms, and radio features. It is directed to all rural young people, all parents in rural and suburban areas, farmers and others who have to do with the use of pesticides. And it is predicated on the soundest of bases—that pesticides are absolutely essential to modern agriculture, and that what is needed is a wider knowledge of basic safety precautions.

Reading the label, of course, is the first step. Then comes storage—pesticides must be kept out of the reach of children, irresponsible or uninformed people. Then they must be applied precisely as directed. Finally, adequate provision must be made for disposal of used containers. It is suggested that the best means of doing this is to bury them at least 18 inches deep in an isolated area away from water supplies.

This is an education project of the highest importance. Over 350,000 tons of pesticides are used each year to control destructive insects. The accidents they cause are totally unnecessary and are the result of sheer carelessness. So, when you use a pesticide, read that label and take the other simple and essential precautions.

A Better World

Why do people go abroad? There are, of course, quite a list of reasons. Some go on business. Some go just to see the sights. Some go to visit places where their forebears were born. Some go to study at the universities of the Old World.

But, whatever the reason in any individual case, one thing is sure—every traveler learns something. He meets people of other lands and heritage and is given an insight into their hopes, interests and problems. This is the way that misunderstandings are dissolved—and that hands-across-the-sea friendships are made.

And this is the true significance of the age of the jet plane, which can encompass continents in a matter of hours and offer the utmost in flying comfort while it is doing so. It is, of course, an agent of commerce. But, more, it is a means of establishing and cementing understanding between peoples of far-apart lands.

That significance has been multiplied by our own principal overseas airline, Pan American. Its constant policy, going back into a comparatively primitive time of commercial air transportation, has been to reduce fares whenever possible. Its purpose is to make world air travel the province of the many, not just the few. And the result is seen in the statistics, as tourism by air increases sharply year after year. This weary old world becomes the better because of that.

No Risk-No Progress

Writing in the Dayton, Ohio, Daily News, Oliver W. Brown, Jr., says: "Dr. Thomas P. Sharkey of Dayton believes mountains of governmental paper work and red tape may greatly delay the use of the new discoveries for the treatment of diabetes."

Dr. Sharkey is president of the American Diabetes Association. And the reason for this somber attitude is found in new regulations imposed by the Food and Drug Administration some months ago. In his words, "The regulations put a penalty on the conscientious investigator. There's no reward in this. It's an all or none law."

These regulations, needless to say, are not confined to research in the field of diabetes or any other ailment. They cross the entire spectrum of drug development and experiment. And they are the sort of regulations which, in all probability, would have prevented the production of such valuable drugs as the cortisones, penicillin, and others had they existed in past times. The problem, basically, is this: Absolute safety and effectiveness in drugs cannot be guaranteed—there is some element of risk in every forward looking human endeavor. And if we attempt to achieve that absolute, progress will inevitably come to a stop.

The drug industry, in full cooperation with the interested government authorities, seeks the highest possible level of safety—that is commensurate with research and experiment. It is this policy that has led to the production of drugs which, literally, have done wonders for millions of people. They have alleviated untold misery and pain, and prolonged life. We must not allow a regulatory policy—no matter how well intended—to stand in the way of this vast and continuing effort.

Wheat Signups Being Taken By ASC Office

PRINCESS ANNE — Farmers who seeded a wheat crop last fall and haven't yet signed the 1964 voluntary wheat program should lose no time in checking with the ASCS county office.

Most such farmers who planted within, or very near to, their 1964 allotments gain several advantages by participating in the new program, Chris Krahenbill, Chairman of the Virginia Beach County ASCS Committee said yesterday.

"I believe farmers will find many attractive features in this wheat program that merit their careful consideration," Mr. Krahenbill said. This is particularly true where they've complied, or nearly complied, with the 1964 wheat allotments we sent them last May. All they have to do now is drop by the ASCS office. If they have planted within the allotment, or adjusted to that allotment, they can participate in the new program in several ways. They can get (1) diversion payments on acreage put to conservation use; (2) Price Support payments on planted acreage of wheat based on normal yield; and (3) price-support loans on the wheat harvested."

To realize these advantages under the 1964 wheat program Mr. Krahenbill emphasized that they must sign for participation by May 15. There's no extension of that deadline date.

After signing up and qualifying as a participant, the Chairman said that such growers may:

(1) stay within the farm's 1964 acreage allotment from which the minimum diversion has already been deducted.

(2) devote to conserving use at least 11.1% of the farm allotment. (That's because the allotment already reflects a 10 per cent National allotment reduction from 65 to 49.5 million acres.)

(3) stay within the wheat allotment on any other allotment farms in which the grower has an interest in wheat.

By participating in the voluntary wheat program, a wheat grower will be eligible for an acreage diversion payment in Virginia Beach County at an average rate of $8.55 per acre; this plus price support payments bring the total payment in many cases to $125.00 per acre diverted!

The program provides for certificate payments on wheat planted within the farm allotment based on normal production. The certificates will have a cash value of 70 cents per bushel for the domestic marketing certificates, representing the producer's share of the wheat allocated for U. S. food, and 25 cents per bushel for the export marketing certificates, covering his share of the export marketing allocation.

Mr. Krahenbill urged farmers not yet signed under the new wheat program to get details at the ASCS county office before the May 15 deadline date.

10 BEACH PLACES OFF ABC LIST

RICHMOND — Ten Virginia Beach businesses had their ABC licenses briefly suspended during the first quarter, ending Mar. 31, according to the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control of the state's ABC Board.

They included: Allen's Grill, Bayside, 10 days; Bill's Restaurant, Colonial Road, 7 days; lifted upon payment of $50; Brinn's Inn, Bayside, 7 days; Chuck Warren, Military Highway, 7 days, lifted upon payment of $50; Clyde's Open Air Market, Shore Drive, 30 days; Craig's Atlantic Ave., 7 days; Gregory's Drive In, Virginia Beach Blvd., 7 days; and Hilltop Market, First Colonial Road, 10 days.

VEPCO Settles Out Of Court

RICHMOND — A. H. McDowell Jr., President of Virginia Electric and Power Company, announced that Veppo had settled out of court its anti-trust damage suit against one of the electrical manufacturers who was charged with price-fixing conspiracy in 1960. Mr. McDowell said that Veppo's settlement would amount to slightly over 3 million dollars, and that these moneys would be available to help pay for the company's $6 million dollar construction program scheduled for this year.

A litigation group of 44 electric utility companies, generally referred to as the Atlantic City Group, representing approximately 16% of the nation's investor-owned utilities, has settled out of court its anti-trust damage suits against General Electric Company for an aggregate settlement amount of $26,500,000. The settlement, which is the culmination of long negotiations, was announced today by Lelan F. Sillin, Jr., President of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, in his capacity as Chairman of the Executive Steering Committee of the group.

These suits arose out of the 1960 charges of price-fixing conspiracy and were based on claims that the 44 utilities had been overcharged for electrical equipment.

Mr. Sillin said that, although discussions are in progress with other suppliers involved in these actions, settlements have not yet been reached with any of them.

The action is pending in the Federal District Court in New York City and an application will be made to the court for dismissal of the action against General Electric.

The 44 plaintiff companies are located in the East and Middle West.

Prom Time Hazard To Safety Care

NORFOLK — Pointing out that prom time is proving to be more and more dangerous from a traffic safety standpoint, the Tidewater Automobile Association has called on high school administrators and instructors to emphasize driving with extreme care on prom night.

"Some school functions, among them prom night, tend to key students to such a point that they are inclined to forget to drive as well as they know how," states E. Wallace Timmons, safety director for the AAA Motor Club. "This is why we are reminding them of their driving responsibility at this time."

He referred to a special mailing, containing safe driving suggestions to be made to students by school administrators and driver education instructors, which was sent by the Motor Club to all high schools in the state this week.

Timmons pointed out that each year a number of youthful drivers are involved in prom night traffic accidents, some of which prove fatal.

"By encouraging high school faculty members and student leaders to emphasize the need of driving safely on prom night, these accidents may be reduced in number," he declared.

BUSINESS PAGE KEEPS RISING

WILLIAMSBURG — The pace of business and economic activity continued to rise in March as eight out of nine indicators registered year-to-year increases, according to the Virginia Business Index.

The Virginia Business Index is published monthly by William and Mary's Bureau of Business Research under the direction of Max B. Jones.

Bank deposits had all other indicators with a 14.3 per cent gain over the preceding year. Electricity consumption and new car registrations followed with year-to-year gains of 9.4 and 8.0 per cent respectively. Only building permits failed to post an advance, off 17.0 per cent from March of 1963.

Retail sales failed to match the spectacular year-to-year gains of last month, but still managed to post a very healthy 5.6 per cent gain over March of 1963. This compares quite favorably with a 4.0 per cent gain for the nation as a whole as reported by the Bureau of the Census report of "Advance Monthly Retail Sales" for March. An early Easter undoubtedly was a large factor in the retail sector.

Virginia's economy also showed a high rate of growth for the first quarter of 1964 with eight of nine indicators ahead of the same three-month period last year. A 7.8 per cent year-to-year gain in retail sales represents a record high for first quarter gains in Virginia's retail sector.

A comparison of current levels of activity with the same month in the base period (1964-1965) shows the continued long-range growth in the Old Dominion economy.

A poet said rightly—"God gave us memory that we may have our sins in December."

The Virginia Beach Branch of the YWCA Ladies Day Out Service and the American Association of University Women for which I have been publicity chairman, will not soon forget the coverage you have given both groups during the past year.

The news items, features, snapshots and valuable time which your staff has always given to us is most appreciated. The "Y" column on Thursdays is now an established custom and our A.A.U.W. Press Booth which was displayed at the State Convention recently in Charlottesville was complimented by state and national officials. It contained mostly writings from the Sun-News.

Douglas A. Barnes, Publicity Chairman

Your Editorial "Apathy on the Atlantic" in your April 30th issue is very apropos. Were it not for the Military blood donors, we would have one of the poorest records in the Nation.

Small communities like Suffolk and Courthouse, Virginia, have recorded over 100 contributions without the military help we receive.

Our record is notoriously shameful and something must be done to correct this blight on our community's reputation. Of what value is the beautiful dogwood, the colorful azaleas, yes, even the "Overton Sunshine" lacks the color when a community does not realize their responsibility neither to themselves, nor their fellow man in a program so vital.

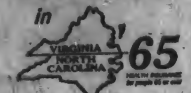

Very sincerely yours, Henry J. Jaffe

RECOVERY CHANCES GOOD FOR 9 OF 10 STROKE VICTIMS

Once a stroke has occurred, the important point to remember is that, in nine cases out of ten, recovery is possible. How fast and how much progress he makes depends largely on the stroke patient himself. There is also a good deal the family can do to help the stroke patient at home.

A stroke results when something interferes with the blood supply to the brain, blanking out one or more of the control centers of the brain, for example those that control muscular movement on one side of the body. Thus after a stroke, the patient may not be able to move his left fingers, hand, arm or his left foot. Sometimes the part of the brain that controls the ability to speak is affected; and sometimes the patient is unable to think clearly.

The doctor should be called immediately when a stroke occurs so that he can determine the proper individualized treatment for each patient. The family's cooperation with the doctor may be essential to the patient's recovery. Often the doctor will arrange for a nurse or physical therapist to come in and care for the patient and show the family what can be done and how to do it.

Soon after a stroke, the doctor may start a program of exercise to restore function of a paralyzed arm or leg in order to prevent stiffening of muscles and joints. If the patient is unable to perform these exercises for himself, the family may have to exercise the paralyzed limbs for the patient. The doctor may also instruct the family in methods of massage to help stimulate circulation, until exercises can be started. Exercises for the patient should not be started until the doctor has prescribed them and instructed the family or patient on what to do and how to do it.

Although most patients can hear and understand what you say to them, some may not be able to speak at all after a stroke, or their speech may be slurred. Speech defects almost always improve after a time but while the trouble exists, the patient is understandably worried and upset. Reassure him that the condition will probably improve and arrange signals so that he can tell you what he wants; for example, to close one eye if he wants water, to open his mouth if he wants food. The doctor may

JULY 1 DEADLINE IN NAVY RESERVE

NORFOLK — Students planning to apply for one of the 160 Naval Reserve appointments to the U.S. Naval Academy in 1965 must affiliate with the reserve by July 1 of this year.

Announcement of the deadline was made today by Chdr. Sterner J. Hall, commanding officer of the Norfolk Naval Reserve Training Center.

Hall said applicants for the 1965-66 academic year at Annapolis must not have reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1965. They must also be members of a drilling unit of the Naval Reserve prior to July 1, 1964, he said.

Further details may be obtained from the Norfolk Naval Reserve Training Center (KI 5-7941) or from Lt. Cmdr. C. W. Howard, III, a member of the faculty at Old Dominion College.

If the patient can write, keep pencil and paper nearby. With a little ingenuity, a bell can be arranged in such a way that even a severely disabled person can ring for attention. It is very reassuring to the patient to know he can ring for help at any time, especially if he has trouble speaking. Such a means of communication will make him feel less anxious when left alone. The doctor will tell you about any special speech therapy he may want for the patient.

When the stroke patient is well enough to get around, there are a number of simple and practical self-help devices that will enable him to do more things for himself. A bit of resourcefulness and imagination can solve many minor but troublesome problems. Some of these are illustrated in a booklet, "Strokes: A Guide to the Family," copies of which are available from Tidewater Heart Association.

Allow the patient to take on more responsibilities for self-care and other activities as he becomes able to do so. If he can brush his teeth, or shave, or comb his hair or dress himself, encourage him to do so, even though it may take a long time. You may need to learn patience and resist frustration as much as he does!

Attitudes—the patient's, the family's, and visitors'—can greatly influence the patient's recovery for better or for worse. The patient must have the will to recover, the desire to be self-sufficient and useful again. Here the family can help by encouraging the disabled person, buoying his spirits when he becomes discouraged, showing confidence in his improvement, permitting him to help himself as much as possible. Only family members can reassure him that he is wanted and needed and still has an important place in the family circle.

When his condition warrants it, encourage friends to spend time with the stroke patient. This will help keep him in contact with the world, will stimulate his interest and satisfy his social needs. Have the patient participate in family planning and activities: feeling useful is a tremendous morale booster. Praise any successful effort he makes but don't be discouraged by his failures. Recovery from severe stroke may be a long slow process.

The recovery may be a difficult period for the family as well as for the patient. It will require much patience and understanding. But the results—the degree of independence and self-confidence the patient achieves—are well worth the persistent efforts and patience.

DAM NECK OFFICER IS WRESTLING HOPEFUL

DAM NECK — Lt. Edmund L. Turner of the Fleet Computer Programming Center, Atlantic here may be one of the United States' prize hopes to bring home a Gold Medal for wrestling from the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

On April 10 and 11, Lt. Turner, along with three other persons from the Center, entered the regional Amateur Athletic Union wrestling match held at McCormick Sports Center at the Naval Station, Norfolk.

Before entering the Navy in 1952, Lt. Turner was a member of the Marine Corps and wrestled for the Naval Preparatory School in Newport, R.I.

During his high school years, Lt. Turner wrestled on the team of Severn School in Severn Park, Md., for two years. Each year, he placed second in state competition in his weight classes of 145 and 155 respectively.

"The only record I profess to hold is that of being pinned in seven seconds in one of my first high school matches. That must be some kind of a record."

Each day during lunch hour, he works out in the station gymnasium, but does not expect to really start concentrating on his training until the first of June.

Lt. Turner, his wife, Carol, and their three children, reside at 521 Cold Spring Rd., Point O'Woods, Virginia Beach.

Little League Opens Despite Bad Weather

ARAGONA — Opening day of the Aragona Little League 1964 season began Saturday despite high winds and cold weather. The program began with a parade of all the Little League Teams marching to the ball park led by the Aragona Band.

Speakers for the occasion were Harold Whitehurst, Director of Physical Education for the city of Virginia Beach, Lawrence Marshall, Bayside Councilman, and Doc Willford, District 8 Little League Administrator.

The Navy Band, led by Chief Bandsman McGullem, provided music for the ceremonies and did much to create the atmosphere.

The first game of the double header was played between the Oilers and the Angels. The game went scoreless for six innings and had to go into extra innings. The top of the seventh gave the Angels two runs and the Oilers failed to better or equal that feat and lost 2 to 1.

The second game, between the All-Americans and the Pirates, was called after four innings of play due to the cold, but since four innings had been played it was a legal game and the Americans won 11 to 0. The winning pitcher was Jimmy Harvey who pitched a no-hitter, and the losing pitcher was Gary Burke.

Bowling Tips...

READY TO 'SHAKE'
"Howdy" is what you should feel like saying immediately following the release of your ball. Your hand should be in a hand-shake position, as demonstrated by Ray Schenck of Milwaukee, one of the nation's top professional bowlers. Ray says that if you keep your thumb well to the left—or at 8 o'clock on an imaginary clock (next)—from backswing to delivery, you'll roll a natural hook without any conscious twisting effort. Professional bowlers agree that a hook or curve ball is preferred because its spinning action strikes the pins and leaves fewer splits. In a proper delivery, the thumb will leave the ball first. The other fingers, being on the right side of the ball, will impart the spin necessary for a hook.

New Road Survey May Be Completed By This September

RICHMOND — The State Highway Department hopes to complete its preliminary surveys and plans for a new route between the oceanfront and City Hall by September, it was announced yesterday. The project would then be ready for right-of-way acquisition.

The new road, which would connect the intersection of 4th St. and Pacific Ave. with Barnes Corner, is the city's first project to be programmed under a new formula approved by the recent General Assembly.

The legislation provides more money for cities and towns and reduces the city's portion of highway costs from 25 to 15 per cent where federal, state and city funds are used, and from 50 per cent to 15 per cent where only state and city funds finance a project.

The General Assembly also provided that no less than 14 per cent of both new tax revenue and former source revenue, except federal-aid for the interstate system, go to cities and towns for maintenance and construction. This will total some $24,121,532 for the coming fiscal year.

Virginia Beach will receive $1,692,746, of which $1,044,076 is for maintenance at the fixed rates of $10,000 per mile for primary highways and $800 per mile for other roads and streets. The remaining $648,670, including the city's 15 per cent, will be available for construction during the fiscal period.

Although the law does not become effective until July 1, the State Highway Commission recently resolved that urban projects programmed after April 1 could be financed under the more liberal law, or the funds could be accumulated.

The 3.4-mile project skirts Camp Pendleton and includes a high level bridge over Rudee Inlet. The work is estimated to cost around $600,000, including surveys, plans, right of way and construction. Federal-aid will be used for $300,000 of the cost, state highway construction funds for $197,200, and city funds for about $102,800.

Initial construction will provide two lanes of high-type pavement designed for future dividing. A public hearing will be held for the proposed location if a request is made in response to posted public notices.

MISSING BOY FOUND SAFE

ARAGONA — An eight-year-old boy, missing for approximately 20 hours, returned to his home Wednesday afternoon hungry but apparently unharmed.

Lester William Talley, who had been the object of an intensive search by helicopter, police and volunteer firemen, wandered home at 1:30 p.m. and told his mother he had spent the night "sleeping under a piece of canvas across the street."

He had been missing since 5:30 p.m. Tuesday according to his mother, Mrs. Elmerette Talley.

She said she began to worry when the child didn't appear after being called in for dinner. She called the police at about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

Upon his return Mrs. Talley said the boy had difficulty remembering how he had spent all his time away from home.

TWO ATTORNEYS OPEN NEW OFFICES HERE

CITY DEMOS. ELECT 115 DELEGATES

VIRGINIA BEACH — The city's Democrats Monday elected 115 at-large delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held in Richmond July 18.

The delegates will have a total of 23 votes, or one-fifth vote apiece, in the selection of Virginia's delegates to the national convention and the election of state officers.

In a mass meeting in Circuit Court at Princess Anne Court-house, the city Democrats also voted unanimously to support a resolution for the appointment of three Young Democratic Club officers to the State Central Committee.

E. A. Culverhouse Jr., who presented the resolution, said, "The young voters of our Commonwealth have demonstrated an increasing interest in the affairs of our great party and its principles."

The group also adopted the unit rule and authorized delegates to the State Convention to cast all 23 votes.

No proxy will be required to use the votes of delegates failing to reach the convention.

Sidney Kellam, 1st District Democratic chairman, said that "whether or not Virginia goes Democratic (in November) will depend on the actions of the 115 delegates, and others like them, elected in conventions across the state."

"There may be those who will vote Republican," he said, "but they'll have to look out for themselves. We'll have to look out for the Democratic candidates."

But Kellam added, "The man I think is going to be the Democratic nominee has already demonstrated he is a President."

John V. Ferreira, clerk of Virginia Beach Circuit Court, who presided over Monday's meeting, said 1st District Rep. Thomas E. Downing and U. S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd are unopposed, which means there will be no Democratic primary in the 1st District (which includes Virginia Beach) this July.

4-H STEER SHOW DOUBLES THIS YEAR

VIRGINIA BEACH — The 1964 4-H Steer Show, to be held Saturday at Frontier City, should be about twice as big as last year's show, according to those who are working on the event. For the first time in its nine-year history the show will be jointly sponsored by the agricultural committees of Virginia Beach and Chesapeake Chambers of Commerce.

The show is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. but this afternoon those working on preparations will begin checking lights, erecting tents and numerous other jobs that must be complete before the big event gets underway.

The show will begin with the Southeastern Virginia Heifer Show.

Ten Angus heifers and one Hereford heifer will be shown by 4-H members from Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Nansemond and Gloucester.

The Steer Show will follow immediately with 37 Hereford and Angus steers parading in the rodeo arena.

Steers from each city will be shown by breed class. Inter-city competition gets strong as the 4-Hers vie for Breed Champions, Grand and Reserve Champion.

A Fitting and Showing class will conclude the show. In this class the showman is judged. All judging will be done by Dr. C. C. Brooks of the Animal Science Department at VPI.

The sale starts at 1:30 under the hammer of Col. Dave Leonard, Fieldman of the Virginia Angus Association. The 37 steers will be sold to the highest bidder.

E. R. Cockrell Jr., Show and Sale Manager, said that in previous sales, steers have been purchased by hotels, restaurants, chain stores, feed companies, meat packers, and individuals.

Arrangements have been made for slaughter and processing for individuals who wish to purchase a steer or part of a steer for the freezer.

HOMEMADE ROCKET KILLS YOUTH

GREAT NECK — Jonathan Lee Nelson, 18, was killed Tuesday when a homemade rocket exploded and struck him in the throat.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric T. Nelson of 2408 Shoreway Lane.

Police said the boy and a 14-year-old companion had made the rocket from an empty carbon dioxide cartridge. It had been filled with live match-heads and fuel from a flare.

The rocket went off accidentally, hitting the Nelson boy who ran about 25 yards to the front yard of his home and died, according to police.

The cartridge was of a type used to power pellet guns. About three inches in length, such cartridges contain carbon dioxide gas under pressure.

ANNUAL PARADE NEXT SAT.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Armed Forces Week will be climaxed in Virginia Beach by the Annual Armed Forces Day Parade on the morning of Saturday, May 16.

Fire Chief E. B. Bayne, who has served as chairman of the Armed Forces Day Parade since its inception in 1959, said 68 groups were already scheduled for the parade. Each group includes from one to nine units.

In addition 11 bands have already been scheduled, he said.

Ed Brogan, chairman of the Armed Forces Day Committee has issued an invitation to all military and civilian organizations to participate.

The invitation is extended to all civic, fraternal and service organizations in the city, as well as garden clubs, women's groups and auxiliaries. All commercial establishments are asked to enter floats.

Those planning to enter should notify Chief Bayne of their plans. Prizes will be awarded for the best window display, first and second place for military floats, first and second place for civilian floats and first and second place for playing bands.

Bailey, Police Dept. representative; Lt. Robert Donovan, Armed Services representative; E. M. Stanton and Roy La Mere, publicity.

Students Elect Lodge As GOP Pres. Hopeful

By
Ruby Jean Phillips

THALIA — If Princess Anne High School's Mock Republican Convention is any indication of the way the national convention will go in July, Henry Cabot Lodge will be the 1964 Republican presidential candidate.

The students elected Lodge in a landslide vote Wednesday shortly after Horace E. Henderson, chairman of the Republican Party of Virginia asked them to think before they voted "who will I have the most confidence in when the phone at the end of the Hot Line rings?"

Early in the mock convention, which got underway at 9 a.m. in the school auditorium, Sen. Barry Goldwater seemed to be the leading contender.

But in the second ballot Lodge won a sweeping victory over Arizona's favorite son by taking 417 of the 547 votes. Goldwater didn't even run a close second. His total was 69 votes.

The 41 remaining votes were scattered among the other running candidates: Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Gov. William Scranton, Gov. George Romney, Richard Nixon, Harold Stassen, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, and Sen. George D. Aiken.

Henderson's comments at the mock convention were a surprise to the present administration brought enthusiastic response from his youthful audience and attempts to maintain order added authenticity to the simulated meeting.

"First the American people get the fair deal. Then the new deal. Now we are getting the first deal," Henderson said. And add-

BEACH PILOT EJECTS

YUMA, Ariz. — Lt. (j.g.) Dennis Bradley of 320 W. Farmington Road, Virginia Beach, escaped injury when he ejected Wednesday from his powerless A4E Skyhawk jet aircraft.

The crash, which occurred 10 miles southeast of Yuma, is believed to have been due to a loss of engine power resulting from a flame-out, Navy sources said.

Lt. Nichols is assigned to Attack Squadron 43, Detachment 48, whose home base is NAS Oceana. The detachment is currently at the Marine Corps Air Station at Yuma for weapons training.

The pilot was on a routine bombing practice flight at the time of the crash. A further investigation will be made.

An occasional "Yes, Johnson" from the audience indicated that all of the "Republican delegates" were not exactly dedicated to their party, but this did not dampen their response to Henderson's keynote address nor to their duty of electing a candidate.

The auditorium resembled any convention hall housing national delegates — signs, posters and placards were everywhere, drums were beating and balloons were flying and popping — and the convention in San Francisco in July will undoubtedly be a larger-scaled version of that held at Princess Anne High School Wednesday morning.

P.A. Debate Team Sets Record

THALIA — James Landis and Randy Henderson of the Princess Anne High School Debate Team won a first place in the State High School Debating Tournament last weekend.

Landis and Henderson, with the highest point total of any of the eight teams entered, were awarded a trophy for the best negative presentation among Class 1-A high schools. Landis was high scorer of the tournament with 94 out of a possible 100 points while Henderson was second with a score of 90.

The first place award climaxed a spectacular season which has brought the team three previous trophies, all since March 20.

Included in the earlier wins were: first place (negative) in the University of Richmond invitational meet, with 48 high schools competing; first place (negative) George Washington invitational meet, 76 schools; and first place (team) in the Eastern District tournament in which 12 schools competed.

This is the first year that a Virginia High School has won all four trophies. Topic for this year's competition was, "Resolved: That Social Security Benefits Should be Extended to Include Complete Medical Care."

Teacher Gordon Raveling is coach of the Princess Anne team.

FATHER-DAUGHTER DANCE AT COLLEGE

DANVILLE — Elsie Coyner is pictured with her father, Edwin A. Coyner, of Virginia Beach, at the Father-Daughter Dance at Stratford College in Danville — which was planned in conjunction with an early May Day festival.

The unconventional May-Day-in-April was due to extensive construction beginning this week on the campus—that two new buildings and the conversion of the present gymnasium into a dining area may be ready for the fall season.

The three-day program for Parents Weekend opened Friday evening with a concert by the Stratford Medgrid Singers, followed with a reception given by President and Mrs. W. Hugh Mason.

A Parent-Faculty Convention Saturday morning, when the group was addressed by the new president of the college, Dr. Mason and Dean Ed Fitzgerald, adjourned for a luncheon on the Terrace, where more than 700 guests were served. Climaxing the program was the traditional May Day pageant that afternoon in the amphitheatre—a story-in-dance with a French theme—whose motif was repeated that evening in the ballroom decorations for the Father-Daughter Dance. A horse show Sunday afternoon concluded the fall weekend.

Among the large assemblage of guests and parents attending, was also Mrs. Coyner's mother from Virginia Beach.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

There Are Taxes And There Are Taxes, But This One Tops All

After reading a newspaper article concerning a tax by the City of Norfolk which is scheduled to become effective July 1 on purchases made by its residents outside the city one can hardly believe what he reads. The newspaper account of the ordinance states that "starting July 1 if you buy your groceries outside Norfolk and bring them back into the city for consumption, you are supposed to pay a tax on them and have a permit to import them." That is exactly what the article says. It's hard to believe that a city would even attempt to impose such an absurd tax. And, if you don't pay a tax and get a permit for those groceries you may be liable for fines ranging from $50 to $300, jail sentences up to 30 days or both. The use tax provision of the city ordinance is explained away in that it is supposed to protect the Norfolk merchants against any tendency by Norfolk citizens to trade outside the city to evade the sales tax which is also a part of the same ordinance. The use tax is to be levied at the rate of 2 per cent of the purchase price—the same as the sales tax. Enforcement of the ordinance is up to the commissioner of the revenue and we predict there will be little, if any attempt to enforce such a law. Individual or firms importing tangible property into Norfolk for use or consumption in that city must have a permit for each vehicle used. Such a restriction on trade could ultimately backfire on the city. There is nothing to prevent other cities within the Norfolk trade area from enacting ordinances that would place a tax on wholesale distributors doing business in those cities. The use tax is absurd and it could have an adverse effect on the City of Norfolk merchant. It is not the way to make friends and influence people.

The Word Is Fabulous

If anyone fears that the Soviet Union—or any other nation—has a chance of overtaking us in electric power production in the foreseeable future, he can stop worrying. U. S. production of this form of energy can only be described as fabulous. In January, 1964, for instance, a new record of 90,641,334,000 kilowatt-hours was set. This was the second straight month that output surpassed 90 billion kilowatt hours. To give you this record number of kilowatt-hours, this nation burned 20.5 million tons of coal, 10.1 million barrels of oil, and 143.4 billion cubic feet of natural gas. It is the safest of bets that power production and consumption will continue to rise, and that in this all-important field we will stay safely ahead of any other nation. And the production figures tell only a part of the story. A vast system of interconnection of far apart power systems is being developed, making possible the instant transference of the energy from one part of the country to another. Transmission lines capable of carrying extremely high voltages, with a minimum of loss en route are being built. The result is a nationwide network which can be depended upon to perform its function under emergency conditions. This, finally, is the investor-owned utility industry's answer to those who argue that only government, under a policy of tax subsidized development, is capable of doing the needed job. The figures and the facts refute the argument. There is no needed power project that taxpaying power companies cannot accomplish.

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

SPACE AGE ENGINEERS

Rockets, escape velocity, missiles, and astronautics are common language in one space-age department at the University of Virginia. It is the department of aerospace engineering, the study of man-made objects in space and the forces that act on them. In fact, the department, in the School of Engineering and Applied Science, has felt the impact of the space age so heavily that last fall it changed its name from aeronautical engineering to aerospace engineering.

Today's graduate space-age student engineering student at the University is able to study hypersonic flight; space mechanics; effects of sun, moon and air resistance on satellite orbits; low-density gas dynamics; and advanced supersonic aerodynamics, says Dr. George Matthews, chairman of the department.

Rockets, missiles and satellites have also had an effect on undergraduate programs in aerospace engineering, Dr. Matthews says.

There is so much more for aerospace engineers to learn that material considered graduate level ten years ago is in the undergraduate program today, Dr. Matthews says.

Courses have been revised to include advances in mathematics, physics and special fields of interest to aerospace engineers.

Topics a space-age engineer might study in one course, such as "Propulsion Systems II" include rocket and ramjet propulsion, an introduction to thermo-chemistry, equilibrium calculations, propellant performance analysis, and, in astronautics, escape velocity, satellite orbits, launching, energy requirements and staging space propulsion systems.

For its imaginative space-age engineers, the department is constructing a subsonic wind tunnel for testing and research. The department already has two other supersonic wind tunnels and two large areas for research in subsonic and supersonic aerodynamics.

Since the aim of the department has always been to produce graduates well-qualified to serve with distinction in modern industry, research organizations or laboratories, drastic changes in courses have not been necessary, Dr. Matthews says. The emphasis is just a little different.

After graduation in June, one student will be demonstrating as a consultant at a rocket proving grounds, and another will be doing research in the land and recovery operation division of a manned space-craft center. Still another, a graduate student, will be doing environmental space research on molecular beam systems of an engineering research firm.

Law Firm Adds Partners

VIRGINIA BEACH — The law firm of Bridges and Broyles has added two new partners, James R. McKenry and Bruce G. Murphy, both formerly associates with the firm.

The firm has also announced that a branch office will soon be opened at Princess Anne Plaza. The main office will remain at its present location in the Professional Building, 1309 Laskin Road.

McKenry, who resides at 1604 Brandon Road in Bay Colony with his wife and child, received his B.S. in Commerce from the University of Virginia in 1958 and graduated from the University's Law School in 1962.

During his college years he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Social Fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society, the Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity and Moot Court.

He is a member of the Virginia Virginia State and Virginia Beach Bar Associations.

Murphy, a native of Virginia Beach, attended the University of Virginia and Sorbonne University in Paris, France, and graduated from the T. C. Williams School of Law of the University of Richmond in 1962.

He was a member of St. Elmo Hall Social Fraternity at the University of Virginia. While in Richmond he was a member of Phi Delta Theta Legal Fraternity, a student librarian, served on the Student Council and was secretary of the Student Bar Association.

Murphy, who resides with his wife and two children on Brandon Road in Bay Colony, is also a member of the three previously mentioned Bar Associations and is presently serving as legal advisor for the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad.

BASKIN, IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

The newspapers report the times, and I would guess that the times are bad. Castro is going to shoot down our planes with those left-over Russian rockets. And Mr. K. talks softly, but barks out threats that chill the blood. Mr. Rust flies hither and yon. It is a wonder that he doesn't have a heart attack. The news is full of dire predictions about flood and famine. Even the ads warn of tooth decay, malnutrition, and the thing about cigarettes. Even the movie Cleopatra, that wonder of wonders, is in trouble. The producers are suing Liz and Richard for a couple of dollars. This is a nice switch, as movie people usually sue producers.

In spite of all this trouble, there is one little thing going on that is causing me to lose sleep. I dunno about you, but I am worried about the "funnies". Even they are coming unglued under our very eyes. Dick Tracy is leaving the force. He is upset because he has failed as a father. Isn't that wonderful? Dick is crying, so is the Chief of Police, not to mention Sam. Junior has run away to the moon with that dame with the horns and everyone is all to pieces. I should think that Dick would be glad to unload Junior, since he is still hanging around and eating up Dick's chow. As well as I can remember, Junior hasn't brought in a dime since 1931. I bet Tess is delighted that Junior has left, moon or no moon.

I used to read the funnies every morning as soon as I could choke down my coffee—but no more. The things that are going on are too frightening to read about so early in the morning. The front page is not nearly as upsetting. I have known for some time that the movies were concerned with the seamier side of life, and I am aware that the TV shows are enough to frighten a fence post. I thought that the funnies would never give in to the shock-treatment, but it seems that I'm wrong. There is just one ray of hope left. No. Two. Archie and Peanuts.

Dredge Afloat, Not Operating

LYNNHAVEN — The city's new dredge is now afloat in Long Creek but dredging operations have not yet started.

Now undergoing a breaking in and adjustment period, the dredge's pumps have moved water through some 300 feet of pipe to a low area northeast of the Long Creek Bridge.

The dredge is anchored in a channel just west of the bridge and will remain there for about 10 days while manufacturing representatives test the equipment.

This must be done in accordance with contract terms before the dredge is accepted by the city.

PHONE TOLLS END JULY 5

PUNGO — Kernal S. Land, general manager of the Princess Anne Telephone Company, said Tuesday that toll service between all of Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Norfolk and Portsmouth will end by July 5.

This toll-free service will be the result of a $1-million expansion of buildings and equipment now underway in Pungo Borough. A new brick building, which will house a new automatic switchboard and offices, is nearing completion and equipment should be installed later this month.

Land said that future phone cables will be buried to reduce hurricane damage. The eight party lines served by the rural company will be converted to one, two and four party lines, he said.

The firm will continue to retain its identity as an independent telephone company and the switchboard will be enlarged from 200 to 1,200 lines in order to serve the expected increase in customers. The company presently has about 1,100 subscribers. The 428 prefix will remain but the first number in the last four digits will be changed.

Chatterings, manna of the South, are available for all connoisseurs of this different dish, if you know where to dine... also hush puppies, and many other home-cooked specialties.

Pungo Restaurant, straight out Rt. 615, in the center of town, is a small unpretentious neighborhood cafe—but the food cooked and served is anything but ordinary. Neither fancy food nor fancy service will be found here. But if you have been longing for good old country cooking, like grandma used to dish up, or if you are a stranger here, who has been tempted to try some native recipes, plan a party to picturesque Pungo and its Pungo Restaurant.

Don't try to go on Monday: it is closed. But the rest of the week, it opens at 11 a.m. and closes at 7 p.m. (It is not for the lovers of night life.) Sunday's opening hour is after church at noon, and it stays open until 8 p.m.

The menu is posted on the wall with the prices charged plain to see. You may sit at the counter, or at the tables, or you may step into the Annex which is a converted trailer attached to the building and in which is more eating room. You can see the kitchen from any angle and watch your order being prepared.

No one is treated like a passing stranger; even if it is your first visit, you will be warmly greeted and included in the general conversation which buzzes in neighborhood fashion.

Oysters, crabs, pork chops, ham, chicken plus various farm-fresh vegetables are prepared for dinner or for sandwiches or for snacks. Also you can take out an order of "children" or "husbypuppies" or whatever—all cooked and hot and ready to eat at home or at a picnic. If all you want is pie and coffee, you will find none better anywhere as the pie is freshly homemade daily.

You don't have to know how to "cook Southern" to eat Southern — Pungo Restaurant does it all for you, and deliciously.

VIEWPOINT — A tradition has faded away... and perhaps no one, except this year's graduating class, will feel the loss more keenly. From night is always special and exciting, and for years many of the soon-to-be graduates and their dates (and the parents too, because it was harmless fun) looked forward to the "after the prom" all night ferry boat ride party! Progress can't stop for tradition, but this year and from now on, there will be no romantic aftermath to dream about and to remember as the years of toil steal youth's "Mid-Summer's Night Dream."

BIRD'S EYE VIEW — Where are you? Virginia Beach High class of '55! Someone wants to get in touch with you to arrange a gala reunion come next year! If you missed it in the Classified section, here's the pitch—Write a letter, send a postcard, wire a telegram, or even send up smoke signals if necessary, but get in touch with Herve Ouellette way out in Santa Fe Springs, California. Use the P. O. Box 2351 and start making your plans to be present. Even if it seems unlikely now, decide to be here. Lots of things happen in fast-moving ten years, and there is nothing like a Class Reunion to catch up.

STUDENTS ATTEND MEET

LYNNHAVEN — Seven delegates from the Princess Anne Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America of Princess Anne High School attended the recent State Convention at the Hotel Roanoke, Roanoke.

The group was accompanied by their sponsor, Miss Anita Hobbs.

The Princess Anne Chapter received a certificate for an honor chapter and their scrapbook was entered in the state competition.

MINISTERS EXCHANGE PULPITS

REV. BERKELEY

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Rev. Edmund Berkeley, Rector of Galilee Episcopal Church, will exchange churches this summer with the Rev. E. Benjamin Hull, Vicar of Beverley Minister, Beverley, East Yorkshire, England.

While in Virginia Beach, Rev. and Mrs. Hull will live at the Rectory on 53rd St. in Beverley, Rev. and Mrs. Berkeley will reside at the Minister, as the Vicar's residence is called in England.

Rev. and Mrs. Berkeley will leave New York by plane June 4, about the same time that Rev. and Mrs. Hull plan to sail from England. The English minister will arrive in Virginia Beach June 16.

A British World War I veteran, Mr. Hull was an apprentice in the banking industry before entering the ministry.

He obtained his Master's degree in History and Theology at Cambridge University. During his ministry he has served as a missionary to Uganda, Africa.

Mr. Hull has been vicar of Beverley Minister since 1959. This will be his first trip to the United States.

The exchange will also provide Rev. and Mrs. Berkeley with their first trip to England. They will remain in Beverley until August 3 except for a brief trip to the Scandinavian countries.

Following their stay in England, they will visit the Rev. and Mrs. Emmanuel Bach in Switzerland. Mr. Bach at one time served as assistant Rector at Galilee Episcopal Church.

The couple will also visit Italy and France briefly before returning to the United States August 27.

"SERVING THE WORLD'S LARGEST RESORT CITY"

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1964

SECTION 8

May 20 Date For WBOF

VIRGINIA BEACH — Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab ruled Friday that plans for the operation or liquidation of Metro-WBOF Corp. must be reported by May 20.

Roy Marsh, appointed April 2 as receiver for the corporation, was ordered to report by then if he had plans to continue operation of the business.

Marsh told the court he had taken possession of the assets of WBOF and had established an account in his own name as receiver. The assets were said to include two bank accounts, one with $121,111 credit, the other with a $1,877 deficit.

Virginia Beach Broadcasting Corp., one of three original complainants in the case, advanced $2,500 for the new account, Marsh reported.

The court order approved Marsh's selection of John B. Beasley as accountant and George F. Darden as attorney for the corporation, and set Marsh's salary at $200 per week.

A list of creditors and a report on the financial condition of the corporation was not included in the receiver's report and the new court order extended to May 13 the deadline for interested parties to file petitions in the case.

The Federal Communications Commission has granted WBOF and WYFF-FM permission to be off the air until June 1. Neither station has broadcast since February 28.

SHADOWS HAS NEW OWNERS
VIRGINIA BEACH — The name's the same, but when The Shadows, at 16th and Atlantic Ave. opens its doors May 21, it will be under new management.

Tom Lyons, owner of Washington D.C.'s booming folk music club, "The Cellar Door," has taken over The Shadows in Virginia Beach and promises a "three-ring showcase of entertainment."

New this year will be an old fashioned banjo parlor—separate from the main, 600-seat room where famous folk artists and bands will perform for listening and dancing.

The well-known folk performers appearing on the stage of The Shadows will range from the smooth arrangements of the highly popular Serendipity Singers to the exciting and authentic Bluegrass picking of the Country Gentlemen.

Also appearing will be such outstanding groups as The Rooftop Singers and the Travelers Three. For dancing, The Searchers, The Duprees, The Angels and The Belmonts are scheduled to appear.

Skeptics considered Lyons' attempt to establish a new folk club just down the street from a larger, well-established club of the same type ridiculous.

A year later they were still rubbing their eyes in disbelief. The Cellar Door had become one of the city's most popular night spots.

"There may be those who doubt we can do it in Virginia Beach too," Lyons says, "but I know we'll be a success."

"I believe in the growth and progress of this area and I like the people. All the personnel associated with The Shadows feel a strong responsibility about our part in the community."

"This, plus the kind of top-notch entertainment we're going to provide, is bound to make The Shadows the place to go in Virginia Beach."

VIRGINIA BEACH — Conrad M. Shumadine, a 1961 graduate of Princess Anne High School will graduate from Davidson College, N.C., in June. He will continue at Harvard Law School, Massachusetts.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Shumadine of 4732 Treisman Avenue, Norfolk.

While attending Princess Anne, Conrad was selected as the outstanding senior boy of Tidewater by the Norfolk Optimist Club. His other activities at Princess Anne included being a member of the Key Club, the National Honor Society, H.Y., the Scholastic team in the 12th grade, the SCA and the Debate team.

He earned a 95 on his Law Scholastic Aptitude test and has a 2.29 average.

At Davidson he is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, social fraternity, the Honorary Forensic fraternity and is a member of the Debate team.

The Debate team at Davidson won 19 out of 20 debates while he was a freshman. He has continued to take first place awards on negative speaking against Wake Forest and Randolph-Macon Colleges this year.

Equipped with modern furnishings, the building is valued at $85,000.

The church, a member of the Southern Baptist Convention, was organized May 28, 1963. Since then it has grown to a membership of 385 with a Sunday School enrollment of 775.

The Rev. Melvin J. Hughes, pastor, said this is the second unit of a six-unit building program. The present sanctuary was enlarged in February of this year to accommodate 500 in worship services.

Members of the building committee are Joseph Milligan, chairman, Terry Young, A. Lee Hanbury and William Harrison.

PRINCESS ANNE — David A. Vaughan, a Princeton University senior, was recently awarded a scholarship to the University of Virginia Law School. He had previously received a scholarship to Princeton.

While in high school, the 1960 Princess Anne honor graduate was the 1959 Governor of Boy's State, the 1959 Speaker of the House at Model General Assembly in Richmond, Student Cooperative Association president, Junior Class vice president and Sophomore Class president.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Vaughan of Box 595 Route 2, Princess Anne Station, Virginia Beach, David is a history major and member of the Quadrangle Supper Club at Princeton.

Hospital Gets New Curtains
Mrs. Obee Boothe, housekeeper, puts up new curtains donated recently by the Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach. The annual meeting of the auxiliary will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. Awards will be made for outstanding work and new officers will be elected and installed. Members and friends of the auxiliary are invited.

DE Clubs Hear LaMere
VIRGINIA BEACH — The Distributive Education Club held its annual Employer - Employee Banquet last week at the Black Angus Restaurant in Virginia Beach. The banquet is given in honor of the employers who sponsor DE students.

Mr. Robert Creamer, Jr., president of Virginia Beach Hardware gave a response representing the businesses in Virginia Beach, while Mr. Millard Strickler, Assistant Superintendent of Schools responded on behalf of the schools in Virginia Beach.

Three Virginia Beach students were selected "DE Student of the Year" from their respective schools. Selected from Princess Anne High School was Gloria Gilliam, from Virginia Beach High School Mary Anne Chesley, from the Frank W. Cox High School Elizabeth Price. The three students received framed awards as well as a scholarship from the Oceana Beauty Academy.

The principal speaker for the event was Mr. Roy LaMere, Executive Director for the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. Mr. LaMere told the audience that "today's DE employees will be tomorrow's employers." He also emphasized the fact that the city of Virginia Beach will become the hub of the retail activity for the state of Virginia because the city has grown at a rate in excess of 34.9 per cent since 1960.

LaMere said, in emphasizing that membership in the Chamber of Commerce is at an all time high, that we plan to move in the retail direction in augmenting a program of retail and commercial stimulation. In order to emphasize this end we need the participation and support of all businesses in the city of Virginia Beach in working toward the goal of having a specialist business alone and another specialist to handle retailing specifically through the Chamber of Commerce.

There were approximately 200 businessmen, school administrators, and DE students who participated in this annual affair.

'Shot In The Dark'

Peggy Boykin: Wife, Mother And Actress In LT Production

VIRGINIA BEACH — An extensive background in theatrics, ranging from summer stock to television, have offered Peggy Boykin some interesting and challenging jobs. But she claims her present role in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre's "A Shot in the Dark" is among her favorites.

I have always loved the part of Josefa," she says, "and am having more fun doing it than anything I've ever done."

The female lead in the forthcoming production is definitely in the hands of a very capable, talented actress who manages to squeeze her enthusiasm for dramatics into a tightly woven schedule that revolves around her home and a teaching position.

Despite the fact that Mrs. Boykin teaches at Ferebee School in Norfolk during the day and runs a happy home for her husband and four children, she manages to give of her time and efforts to the local stage, much to the delight of Norfolk and Virginia Beach Little Theatre goers.

The role of Josefa, played by Julie Harris in the Broadway run of "A Shot in the Dark," is a demanding one. But those who have worked with Mrs. Boykin during rehearsals the past few weeks are lavish with their praise of her performance.

Challenging parts are not unusual for Mrs. Boykin. She has done credit to many familiar roles since she was a drama major in college, starting with "Junior Miss" in summer stock.

While her husband was attending Washington and Lee University, she helped establish a drama group, the Troubadours, and performed in such plays as "Petrified Forest," "Angel Street" and "Front Page."

For four years the Boykins lived in Johnson City, Tenn., and during that time Mrs. Boykin did a children's television show for WJHL, a CBS affiliate.

For the Virginia Beach Little Theatre she has done "Candida" and for the Norfolk group she has appeared in "Petticoat Fever," "Clutterbuck" and "Bell, Book and Candle," among others.

And she brightened the Sandpiper Playhouse stage with her interpretation of the black-clad vamp in "Critic's Choice."

"A Shot in the Dark" is a walking can be dangerous. Mr. Cox, Local Director Tidewater Automobile Association has called attention to the dangers of walking in traffic. "With the ever increasing growth of suburbs," he began, "more and more pedestrians are forced to walk where there are no protective devices: sidewalks, signals, and pavement markings. This means that a pedestrian is almost solely responsible for his own safety."

Mr. Cox stressed the importance of walking on the left-hand traffic. In rural areas alone, 8% of all pedestrian deaths occur when the victim is walking with the flow of traffic.

"Since this is so much a matter of self-responsibility, walking on the left should become a habit for any pedestrian. In this way, one has control over the situation and can be readily alert to the movement of vehicles."

WILLIAMSBURG — Six events, beginning on October 9th, have been announced for the twenty-ninth season of the William and Mary Concert Series in 1964-65. The off-campus season subscription campaign begins this week with the Series already half sold-out by renewals from last season's subscribers.

The season will open with a "repeat" performance by popular demand of the distinguished young American pianist, John Browning, whose concert here on November 22, 1963 will long be remembered as one of the most moving and eloquent musical tributes to memorialize President Kennedy on the day of his assassination.

The second concert, on November 5, will feature the famed Roger Wagner Chorale and Orchestra, considered by many to be one of the two or three leading choral groups on today's concert stage. The 30-voiced chorale, travelling next season with their own orchestra for the first time, will program such large works as William Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast" as well as operatic scenes and songs in a lighter vein.

On January 9, 1965, the Series will present the Brazilian guitar virtuoso, Laurindo Almeida, a pupil of the famed Segovia, who is the most popular recording artist in the guitar field today. Almeida is a classical guitarist but his repertory also includes flamenco and jazz as well.

The dance attraction for next season will be Jose Molina's "Bailes Espanoles," which will perform on the evening of February 12, 1965. A company of ten dancers and musicians from Spain, lavishly costumed and staged, they will demonstrate their virtuosity in the entire range of Spanish dance—court dances, folk dances and flamenco.

Erick Friedman, twenty-four-year-old protégé of Jascha Heifetz and already an established violinist of the first rank himself, will be the next series artist, on March 19, 1965. An exponent of the old-fashioned Romantic tradition of violin-playing, Friedman is widely regarded as the most exciting of the young artists on the American stage.

The season will close on April 10, 1965 with a performance by the popular jazz and folksinger, Leon Bibb, star of Broadway, television and recordings.

There will be two innovations in next season's policies: admission will be by season ticket only (with no single-admission sale) and a single card of admission will be issued rather than individual seat tickets. The subscription price remains the same for non-College subscribers despite the addition of one event in the series. The new manager for next season, Prof. Stephen Paleos, will succeed Dr. Carl Dolmetsch as series chairman.

Brochures containing reservation cards will soon be mailed out to more than 5,000 area residents on the series mailing list. These postpaid cards may be used to reserve tickets for next season, with payment due after billing on July 1. Anyone who does not receive a brochure and card but wishes to be included on the mailing list should write to: "Concerts," College of William and Mary. Reservations will be accepted on a "first come, first served" basis up to capacity or until the July 1 deadline. NOTES FROM YOUR AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Controlling Weeds in Field Crops
The use of herbicides in corn and soybean crops has increased appreciably in the last few years.

Chlorination of dalapon and 4,2-D, which effectively control most annual grass and broadleaf weeds in new seedlings of alfalfa and birdfoot trefoil. The clovers (ladino, white, red clover, etc.) are not tolerant to dalapon, but are tolerant to 4,2-D.

Pre-planting treatments of thiodan and trifluralin have shown promise for controlling grasses and weeds in the establishment of new seedlings of small seeded legumes. Red clover, ladino clover, lespedeza, birdfoot trefoil, and alfalfa have shown good weed control, but true clovers have not tolerated rates necessary for control of weeds.

By combining 2,4-D or MCP with Banvel D, the number of species of weeds that can be controlled in small grains has been increased.

Banvel D, has shown better control against such species as dog fennel, some wild buckwheats, and some difficult-to-control winter annuals. With most of the hormone type herbicides, the response of fall seeded species of small grain is closely related to the rate of physiological activity of the plants at time of treatment, which results in erratic responses. Variations in response to herbicides appear to be evident, but whether these differences can be proved significant is not known.

Stilbestrol on Beef Cattle
After about ten years of general use in the beef cattle industry, the synthetically produced hormone stilbestrol has finally become accepted as a must in all beef cattle feeding work.

Inasmuch as it improves gains generally about 17 per cent, anyone trying to feed beef cattle without it is almost doomed to failure—because his competitors are using it.

Since Virginia is largely a grazing state, naturally our cattle producers were interested in using it for grazing cattle. There were some questions at first, such as whether it would work with steers on grass, whether quality would hold up, and if steers would be good property in the feedlot.

Frankly, these questions worried us, because in Virginia we have developed an excellent feeder cattle market and are constantly vigilant to see that production practices are compatible with this market.

The first question raised was "If we use stilbestrol, how much extra weight can we expect during a pasture season?" It was found that by using one 12-milligram stilbestrol implant on grazing steers you can expect from 30 - 35 pounds extra gain during the pasture season. One grazer said he wasn't much impressed with 30 extra pounds until he started keeping books and realized that 30 pounds extra from using stilbestrol represented his profit! Many controlled experiments have been run and the remarkable thing is that there is rarely less than 30 or more than 35 pounds extra by using 12 milligrams of stilbestrol.

Then the question arises, "How about using more?" We have used many different doses and have found that we can add about 7 more pounds by going to 24 milligrams. By doing this, however, we introduced some undesirable qualities and think it better to forego the second 7 pounds and stick to the first 35.

This brings up this thing of quality in steers that have had stilbestrol. Feeders complain about cattle having had stilbestrol before they get them, and graders sometimes think they can pick them out. After much experimenting, we have found that when one sticks to the 12-milligram implant on grazing steers, he is not bothered with steers losing quality—in fact, they will gain in quality.

By going to higher doses, one does introduce the characteristic high tailhead and sometimes slab-sided appearance. When one goes to 24 and 48 milligrams of stilbestrol, quality definitely will depreciate. If stilbestrol is properly used, it will not depreciate the quality of your cattle; in fact, you can raise it just a little bit.

In the many experiments run at VPI, we have found that cattle that have had 12 milligrams of stilbestrol on pasture are just as good a property in the feedlot as those that have had none. So, go ahead and give them that one implant and feel confident that quality will not depreciate. They will be a good property for the man who gets them as if they had had no stilbestrol.

Let me repeat. On pasture, give them one 12-milligram implant at the time you turn them out on grass around the first of May. Do not, under any circumstances, give them more stilbestrol than the one implant. If you do, the cattle will not gain significantly in weight and the quality will most likely depreciate. In the feedlot, we recommend stilbestrol be used in two ways. First, and perhaps the most popular, is feeding it in the feed. Under this system, use 10 milligrams of stilbestrol per day and no more. If one chooses to use implants, we recommend 25 milligrams per steer and feel this is the best dose to use under our conditions.

There is no difference to speak of between the two methods—feeding or using the implant. In the feedlot you have a choice. On pasture it is not practical to put stilbestrol in the feed.

A caution in castrating! Do not give stilbestrol to breeding animals under any circumstances. Do not overdose at any time. Withdraw stilbestrol from feed 48 hours before cattle are slaughtered.

Show-Me Trip Set For Lumbermen

On Saturday, May 16, Virginia sawmill operators and other interested persons are invited to attend a one-day "show-me" trip to the Forest Products Marketing Laboratory in Princeton, West Virginia.

Carl J. Holcomb, Extension forester at VPI says the trip is a cooperative effort of VPI and the Lumber Manufacturers' Association of Virginia. Hosts will be Frank R. Longwood, Director of the Laboratory and his fellow scientists.

The Forest Products Marketing Laboratory is a facility of the U.S. Forest Service, established in the center of the Appalachian Region to make studies in the marketing and use of forest products. While it is involved most directly with hardwoods, its research findings should be applicable in many instances to pine.

Holcomb says travel plans are being prepared. They may include plane or car travel from Richmond for Tidewater operators and car travel from other parts of the state.

Where, there. This coming Saturday is a big day for nineteen club members in the City of Virginia Beach. The 4-H Steer Show and Sale to be held on Saturday, May 9th, at Frontier City, is the culmination of almost nine months of hard work for these young 4-H Steer Project is Active.

In addition to feeding and caring for the steers these young people have walked, brushed, and washed them continually during this time. Periodic visits have been made and assistance given by Mr. E. R. Cockrell, Jr., Agent, and myself, and regular visits and assistance by the project's leaders: Joe Pecsek, Harold Durham, Wayne Frost, and Ernest Seaford, and Junior Leaders, Andy Craddock, Lee Durham, Joe Frost, and Joe Moulton.

The Sponsors and breeders of the calves have also made periodic visits to the club members. Many of the club members accompanied the Extension Agents on a field trip to Whitehall Farm, Gloucester to learn how Angus cattle were prepared for professional shows.

The first year club members participated in a special fitting and showing training meeting and all 4-H club members having a major participation in the Field Day held to demonstrate their fitting and showing skill.

Monthly meetings were held and further instruction on feeding, care, and showmanship were given by the Extension Agents, the teachers, and the members themselves.

Sponsors and Breeders Cooperate

The sponsors and breeders cooperate with the Extension Agents to make the 4-H Junior Steer Project possible. The sponsors for the Virginia Beach steers are: The Bank of Virginia Beach, Virginia National Bank, Black Angus Restaurant, Creeds Rutitan Club, Norfolk Chamber of Commerce Terminal Cars, Inc., Kellam and Eaton, Inc., Princess Anne Farm Bureau, Virginia Beach Rotary Club, Norfolk Kiwanis Club, Colonial Stores, Southern States Meat Service, Be-Lo Markets, Burroughs Restaurant, Robertson Chevrolet Corporation, Cromwell Flower Farms, F. S. Royster Canning Co., Ames and Webb, and Puritan Foods.

These sponsors provide the loan for the steers and give encouragement to the club members.

Twelve of the nineteen calves in the City were provided by breeders in Virginia Beach. These breeders are: John Potter and Charles Foster, of Hill Top; Howard Salmons and John Salmons, of Chesapeake; and Ralph Frost of Land of Promise Farms, Blackwater. The other four steers were provided by Stratford Hall, Stratford, Virginia.

The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, through its Agricultural Sub-committee, is the overall sponsoring agency for the project in our City and will co-sponsor the show with its Chesapeake counterpart. These folks have done a lot of work to make this year's show a reality and deserve a vote of thanks from us all.

4-H's Heart of Show

However, it is the work of the 4-H club members themselves who make the Steer Show and Sale possible. There will be 18 club members from Chesapeake making a total of 37 steers to be fitted, shown and sold on May 9th.

The 4-H Junior Steer project members who will take part representing Virginia Beach are: Jimmy Brickhouse, Don Brickhouse, Russell Collins, Lee Durham, Diane Frost, Faye Frost, William Frost, Jim Johnson, Ruth Johnson, Allan McCroskey, Carolyn McCroskey, Jerry Moulton, Johnny Moulton, Jackie Parker, Lee B. Parker, Jr., Stephanie Pecsek, Theresa Pecsek, Jim Salmons, and Benny Waller.

Let's support our 4-H program and youth activities by attending the 1964 Virginia Beach—Chesapeake Steer Show and Sale at Frontier City, Saturday, May 9th, 10:00 A.M.

"Of this great backlog of individual savings, more than $60 billion worth have been converted during the intervening years into new homes, new cars, tractors and other equipment, and have been used to educate children and provide comfort in retirement years."

"These dollars have served grandfathers, fathers, children and now their children during this short span of years."

"Yet, perhaps the most significant feature of this great thrift program is that more than $47 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds still are outstanding and ready to provide the same security and opportunity for the present and future generations."

"And this is no transitory situation," Mr. Slatum added, "but reflects the development of sound habits of think by the people of America. Through the bond program, many have learned to save for the first time. It has made them more secure, better able to meet unforeseen emergencies, as well as to enjoy greater comforts of life."

Mr. Slatum emphasized, however, that the benefits of the Savings Bond Program have not been one-sided.

"At the same time our people have helped themselves, they have helped their country. Just as their dollars—invested in Bonds—built ships and tanks and planes in time of war, they are contributing importantly to the safe and sound management of the government's affairs as it meets its far-flung obligations in time of peace."

"This serves a dual purpose, for as it keeps the country strong and secure, it strengthens the guarantee that their invested dollars—with interest—will be ready when they need them."

"So, any yardstick that measures the accomplishments of the Savings Bond Program must take into consideration—entirely apart from the material gains of the people—the invaluable lessons of thrift it has taught and the warm feeling that follows when Americans buy a share in America."

"These, too, contribute to the security of the individual and the security of our nation."

NEW TEEN-AGE CLUB OPENS IN OCEANA FRI.

OCEANA — "Find a need and fill it," could very well be the credo of two enterprising Virginia Beach police officers.

This Friday they will open the city's first exclusive teen-age club at 235 First Colonial Road, Virginia Beach.

Conveniently located at Oceana, the club, to be known as the Lamplighter, will cater exclusively to the 13 to 19 year age group.

It was only natural for a police officer, ever cognizant of the lack of supervised entertainment for teenagers, to be the motivating force in establishing an atmosphere for good, wholesome entertainment.

The Lamplighter will be a membership club so that the management will be able to limit membership solely to teenagers.

Outstanding students from the various schools in the area will serve on the board of directors, setting policy and activities for the club.

Parents of the members will serve as chaperons for all public events, such as dances, talent shows, disc jockey appearances and the many other planned special events at the club.

The snack bar and game room will be open daily Tuesday through Friday from 3:30 p.m. to midnight. Dances with live music are planned for each Friday and Saturday night with a jam session on Sunday afternoons.

The Lamplighter, which is being designed with a nightclub atmosphere, is now open daily from 6 to 9 p.m. to accept applications for membership.

The grand opening will be Friday night and will feature the New Blazers, one of Tidewater's outstanding teen-age rock-and-roll bands.

Another teen-age favorite, the Belvederes, will play for the Sunday afternoon jam session from 2 to 5 p.m.

On Friday night, the area's leading disc jockeys will be on hand to greet members of the club and a number of valuable door prizes will be given away.

The Lamplighter management is dedicated to serving a dire need in the Greater Virginia Beach area; wholesome fun entertainment for the teenager.

Further information may be obtained by calling 428-4134.

The club was originated by police officers David Wallace and Lester Grover and will be managed by them on an alternating basis.

Membership fees will be 50 cents per month; $2 for six months; or $3 per year.

Spring Music Festival Friday

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Spring Festival of Music will be given by the choral music department of Virginia Beach High School Friday at 8:15 p.m., in the school auditorium.

The festival is an annual event and is under the direction of J. William Miller.

The program will consist of selections from 18th century music to music of the American stage. Those participating are the senior mixed chorus, girls ensemble and the junior chorus. Three soloists, Mary Jo Kellam, Stephen Lamm, and Kay Carol Newman.

The public is cordially invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

"Shot In Dark" Acclaimed By Theatre Critic

VIRGINIA BEACH — A spicy, cleverly written plot, coupled with a talented cast, turned the Virginia Beach Little Theatre's off-season production of "A Shot in the Dark" into a bonanza for local theatre-goers.

Fortunately, the 3-act comedy will be presented again this weekend and Fridays and Saturdays in July at the Courtyard Playhouse on 17th Street.

The play is so beautifully performed and provides such a delightful evening's entertainment, it would be a shame for any interested person to miss it.

The plot revolves around a promiscuous young maid accused of killing her lover and the inexperienced young attorney who believes her innocent.

Lengthy dialogue and much emotion falls on the shoulders of these two principle roles but this proved no hindrance to the more than capable acting abilities of Ian Goodwin and Peggy Boykin.

Mrs. Boykin ran the gamut of emotions with an ease that captivated her audience and Goodwin, with sly wit and a twinkle in his eye, practically walked away with the show.

Both were excellent, but the less complicated roles of Dominique and Beaureaux, the prominently rich employers of Mrs. Boykin, were equally well done.

Foy Shaw as Beaureaux undertook his first character role with such surprising dexterity as to nearly overshadow his previous work with the Little Theatre.

And Angela Walker's performance as his cool, self-important wife was well in keeping with her usual standard of good acting.

Less important roles were portrayed by J. P. Harrison, Charlie Warburton, and Deedee Jessup and each turned in a commendable performance to round out a truly convincing cast.

To this reviewer, enough cannot be said about "A Shot in the Dark"; the off-beat sets by Neil Thomas were effective; the directing of Bill Britton undoubtedly brought the play's quick, hilariously spicy lines through with such clarity; and, of course, the cast made the most of each characterization.

To reveal whether or not the maid is guilty would be an injustice to the play and to those who plan to see it Thursday, Friday or Saturday night. But some interesting developments in the last part of the second act make for a real surprise ending.

And we guarantee the audience will have a wile of a good time watching the plot thicken. Don't miss it!

VIRGINIA BEACH — LeRoy Morris of Uniontown, Pa., Grand Aerie Representative of Fraternal Order of Eagles, will address the Virginia Beach Aerie No. 3204 Thursday night, according to Leonard R. Boetcher, worthy President of the local group.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Lodge's new home at 3779 Bonney Road, Virginia Beach.

Morris, who is active in national activities of the organization, is secretary of the Grand Aerie Board of Pension Trustees. After being appointed to the board, he served as chairman before assuming secretarial duties.

While in Virginia Beach, Morris will serve a twofold purpose. He will represent the Grand Worthy President in welcoming the Virginia Beach Aerie into the Order and will present the charter to the newly formed group here.

City Council

Appropriation To Aid Social Problems

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Monday appropriated $20,970 for Aid to Dependent Children to combat a "dangerous trend" toward increasing break-ups of middle-class families.

Mrs. Frances Elrod, head of the city's Welfare Department, told council that domestic problems such as desertion and alcoholism used to be restricted mainly to low-income groups.

Now, she said, more money is needed for social workers to fight an increase of this kind of problem in the middle socio-economic group.

In other action council:

● Denied an application for a zoning change to permit construction of a 288-unit apartment building with a shopping complex in Kempsville.

● Approved an increase of eight cents per capita in funds to be paid as the city's share in the Southeast Regional Planning Commission. The amount would be determined by 1960 census figures.

● Appropriated $8,500 to begin development of a parking lot to relieve congestion of City Hall.

● Adopted a resolution seeking priority for the construction of Independence Boulevard under State Highway Department plans.

Before turning down plans for the Kempville apartment project, council heard Attorney Edwin Kellam's arguments in favor of multiple-family dwellings in that Borough.

"The apartment would be the only multiple-family dwelling in Kempville, except for a few duplexes," he said.

Kellam told council that shopping facilities planned for the complex would relieve overcrowded streets in the community.

While recognizing such a building would increase school population, Kellam pointed out there would be 10 to 15 times the number of tax payers that would occupy the area in single resident dwellings.

Virginia Beach Councilman L. Stanley Hodges expressed the opinion that such a zoning change should not be necessary with commercial zoning already existing nearby.

Council voted unanimously to accept the Planning Commission's recommendation to deny the application.

Roy Alphin, Virginia Beach representative to the Southeast Regional Planning Commission, told council that reorganization of the commission meant a need for more funds.

The commission has been in a somewhat unstable condition since the recent death of Chairman Garland Wood, he said.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett spoke in favor of increasing the city's contribution from two cents to 10 cents, stating "without the commission Virginia Beach would need a similar body of its own."

Based on the 1960 population figures, the city's share in the regional program would be $6,300.

Steer Sale Champ Goes At Top Price

VIRGINIA BEACH — Earl's Market of Chesapeake paid a record 93 cents per pound for the Grand Champion of the Virginia Beach - Chesapeake 4-H Steer Show Saturday.

The top steer, an Angus raised by Warren Forbes of Chesapeake, weighed a total of 450 lbs. and brought a price of $418.50 following a counter-bidding from the Black Angus Restaurant of Virginia Beach.

Altogether, 33,450 pounds of beef were sold for a total price of $12,869.70. Steer Show officials said they expect the overall price to set a new record for the State.

The Reserve Champion, a Hereford, was bought by John Foster of Virginia Beach at $50 per pound. The steer, sponsored by Virginia National Bank, was raised from 455 to 953 pounds by Theresa Peckel, also of Virginia Beach.

Champions were also named in both the Angus and Hereford categories. The 935 lb. Angus Reserve Champion, raised from 465 lbs. by Michael Ives of Virginia Beach, was purchased by the Black Angus Restaurant at $48 per pound. The steer was also

Chambers Exchange Memberships

NORFOLK — Checks for membership dues were exchanged between executive heads of four Tidewater Chambers of Commerce yesterday in a unique ceremony at the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

Jack Tallent, membership chairman of the Norfolk Chamber, explained that the idea of exchanging memberships was proposed by Mrs. Kay Foulkes, a recent new member of the Norfolk Chamber's Contact Club.

Tallent said that the purpose of the ceremony was to demonstrate the policy of unity and progress among the local Chambers.

Mrs. Foulkes sat between the executives as they exchanged membership plaques and checks for $50 annual dues.

Those participating in the exchange were R. Cosby Moore, president of the Norfolk Chamber; A. B. Crews, Virginia Beach Chamber president; Edward B. Lassiter, Chesapeake Chamber president; and Paul Young Jr., first vice president of the Portsmouth Chamber.

Also present were the following executive managers: D. W. Sharver, Norfolk; Roy La Mero, Virginia Beach; Edward G. Garland, Portsmouth; J. R. Seaborn, first vice president of the Chesapeake Chamber, was also present.

Open House Planned By Beach Hospital

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Hospital will bring National Hospital Week to a close with an open house Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The public will be invited to visit the hospital during these hours to become better acquainted with its operation and staff. It is located at 25th Street and Baltic Avenue.

The local hospital has joined others throughout the country in observing National Hospital Week, which opened Monday and ends Saturday, held annually during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday, May 12.

The week is sponsored by the American Hospital Association to give individuals an opportunity to learn more about the hospitals in their community.

"A patient spends half as much time and gets better faster today in a hospital than he did 30 years ago," Virginia Beach Hospital Administrator W. Earl Willis said.

Services, drugs and methods of patients care that were unknown a few years ago have helped reduce the average stay of a patient, he explained.

"Thirty years ago, the person who entered a hospital could expect to stay about 14 days. Today, he can anticipate a visit averaging 7.6 days, thanks to these improved methods of care."

Statistics show that about one person out of eight will require hospitalization this year, many for the first time.

An open house, such as that planned by the Virginia Beach Hospital, gives these "first timers" a chance to know more about the hospital and relieve some of the apprehension they might have.

DEER SEASON DATES EARLIER

RICHMOND — Virginia counties West of the Blue Ridge were granted a two week deer season, November 16-28, and an early small game season beginning November 2 and extending through January 30 by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries at their recent meeting in Richmond. A well organized request by Southeastern sportsmen for a four deer limit in that section was turned down after considerable discussion.

To make such a change at that time would have required the issuance of special extra antlerless tags by the Commission and it was felt that granting such privileges to a small area would lead to a rash of similar requests from other sections. After considering a large number of written and verbal protests to the proposed 5-day doe shooting in Eastern Virginia, the Commission dropped this proposal in a long list of tidewater counties, allowing them the same 2 per season, one of which may be antlerless, bag limit in effect last year.

The fall turkey season West of the Blue Ridge will open November 2 along with the small game season and close December 15. Giles, Montgomery and Hanover Counties were added to those open to fall turkey shooting last season.

In the East, the same December 15 through January 15 turkey season in effect last year was retained. Turkey populations in this section are at a low ebb following the third successive nesting failure. The delayed turkey season is designed to reduce the turkey kill while still providing turkey hunters a month's opportunity to enjoy their sport. The Commission chose to stick with the somewhat unpopular delayed season to give the big birds a chance to recover. A proposal was made to close Buckingham County to turkey hunting at the request of the County Board of Supervisors. The bag limit on turkeys will be one a day, two per license, year just as last year.

The two-week deer season in the West will begin November 16 and end November 28. Hunters' choice shooting will be allowed on the first day only, the remainder of the period being open for bucks only. Only bucks will be legal game again in Montgomery County.

In the East a November 16 - January 5 deer season was adopted with one antlerless deer permitted on the last 5 hunting days only in Albemarle, Amelia, Amherst (East of U.S. Route 29), Brunswick, Buckingham, Charlotte, Chesterfield, Cumberland, Dinwiddie, Fluvanna, Goochland, Halifax, Hanover, Henrico, Louisa, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nelson (East of Route 151), Nottingham, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Prince George, Spotsylvania and Stafford Counties. The bag limit will be one a day, two a license year. In the northern counties of Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier, Greene, Loudoun, Madison, Orange, Prince William and Rap-hanock the bag limit will be one a license year, either sex on the last 5 days only. In the rest of Eastern Virginia except for certain counties in the Southeastern corner, the bag limit will be 2 deer per license year, one of which may be antlerless. In Isle of Wight, Nansemond, Southampton, Surry and Sussex Counties and on certain military reservations the bag limit will be 1 a day, 2 per license year, either sex. Campbell County will be included in the regular Eastern season rather than in the Western season as it has been in past years. Bucks only shooting will apply in Appomattox, Campbell and Accomack Counties.

The 30-day archery season beginning October 15 and ending November 14 was retained. Archers in the West will be sharing the woods with small game hunters during the last half of this season. Hunters West of the Blue Ridge will get an early opening on small game with the season extending from November 2 to January 30. Most Eastern counties will have a season on small game species beginning November 16 and ending January 30 except for quail hunting which will extend until February 15. Quail shooting in Rapahannock County will end January 30 and the rabbit season in Accomack and Northampton Counties will end January 15.

Bear season will begin November 16 and continue through January 5. As usual, dogs will not be permitted for bear hunting in Western counties during the deer season. The Poor Mountain Area in Roanoke County will have a November 2 - January 5 season conforming with the season set by law in adjoining counties. The general squirrel season will be November 2 through January 30 West of the Blue Ridge and November 16 through January 30 in the East. Early seasons will remain essentially as they were with the exception of a few changes made by the last General Assembly. Some counties with Legislative Acts will be able to hunt squirrels in the advance 2-week small game season and others won't, depending on how the specific Acts are worded.

A year around season on raccoon was adopted for most counties East of the Blue Ridge. Those that will stick with the October 1 through March 10 season are Amherst (West of Route 29), Charlotte, Fairfax, Fauquier, Franklin, Halifax, Henry, Loudoun, Patrick, Pittsylvania and

Planting And Beautification Is A Community-Wide Program

Each year a project known as "Project Petunia" comes into focus and like all good and worthy projects this one had a very humble beginning several years ago. It has not grown up and is a most effective program of general beautification for our city. In reviewing "Project Petunia" it is noted that the planting of petunias started as a one street program. The very first year emphasis was placed on planting these colorful flowers along Atlantic avenue. This spread to Pacific avenue the following year and has reached into other areas of the city. All of this is good but more planting and sprucing up is needed. Business places as well as individual residences are urged to take part in this beautification program. Colorful petunias are ideal for the summer months and they are sturdy growers. It takes a community effort for this project to work and in the past the program has received widespread support among businessmen throughout the city. With the advent of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel and the ultimate heavy traffic expected to use Route 60 (Shore Drive) to reach Virginia Beach's oceanfront the project this year is stressing the need for beautification of the roadside places along Shore Drive. Many of our visitors will get their first look at our city along this drive and it hoped that much can be done in planting along this main highway in Virginia Beach. In any event no area should fail to join in this fine community project. It is called "Project Petunia."

National Hospital Week May 10-16, 1964

Hospitals throughout the United States this week are marking National Hospital Week, an annual effort to develop greater public understanding of hospitals and their activities. The need for this understanding is obvious. The well-being of the hospital and community are inseparable. The hospital could not maintain or continue to improve its health services without community support. And without a hospital, a community would suffer serious handicaps in health care. The popular public concept of a hospital is of an institution where a person goes for surgery or treatment and care for an illness or injury. One out of eight persons this year will receive care of such a nature in a hospital. Approximately 1 1/2 million persons on any given day are patients in hospitals in America. But hospitals do more than provide patient care. Many have become the health centers of their communities, providing not only the impatient care that is their major function, but outpatient services as well. These other services in which hospitals aim for total patient and health care include:

Education and training—All doctors and nurses receive some of their training in hospitals as do many other paramedical personnel. Hospitals also conduct informal education programs for personnel who work behind-the-scenes to keep hospital services functioning well. Research—Medical research in hospitals probes illnesses and diseases. Most of the discoveries that have provided new techniques of patient care were made in hospitals or were perfected by hospital research. Hospitals also conduct administrative research to find more effective methods of operation. Because health care costs are rising, hospitals are constantly looking for ways where economies can be applied without lowering the quality of care. And hospitals serve as preventive medicine centers, teaching principles of health and hygiene. They are also sources of help in the event of a disaster or epidemic. The community's investment in the hospital can best be realized when hospitals and public health authorities work together with the medical profession as partners in the teaching and practice of preventive medicine and public health.

YOUNG PEOPLE MUST OBTAIN S.S. NUMBER

This reminder is for high school students who plan to work during the summer months and do not have a social security number. You should apply for a number immediately so that you can give the number to your employer when you start work. Every year some students go to the social security office saying they have a job promised, but they have to have the number before they can be officially hired. In some cases you need the number immediately but there may be a delay of a day or two and this could cost you the job. The employer could hire an individual with a number rather than wait.

It is the employer's duty to report your earnings, so he is complying with the law by insisting on having the number. He cannot properly report your earnings unless he has it. You may feel that the work need not be reported since you will be returning to high school, entering college or joining the military service in the fall, but any work you have can start you toward the credits you need for retirement, disability or survivors payments. You are correct in thinking that it will be many years until you reach retirement age but who can predict when you will become disabled or die? In either case, the work you do this summer can become very important to you or your survivors. Therefore, the social security office urges you to apply for your number now. You may do so by visiting or writing the office at 220 W. Brambleton Ave., Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phelps of Virginia Beach, are greeted as they enter the Pavilion of American Interiors By Robert Elton, Chairman of The Board, May 8. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps are the first visitors to the Pavilion which will feature over a hundred interior designs and exhibits.

British Minister Views Bay Span

BAYSIDE — The Rt. Hon. Ernest Marples, British Minister of Transport, toured the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Wednesday to study the possibility of spanning the English Channel between England and France with a similar structure.

He arrived at Norfolk Municipal Airport about 9:30 a.m. accompanied by his wife, I. T. Lawman, his private secretary, and Andrew G. Lyall of the British Embassy in Washington.

He was met by Lucius J. Kellam, chairman of the Bridge-Tunnel Commission; Mrs. Kellam, J. Clyde Morris, executive director of the Bridge-Tunnel District; Percy Z. Michener, project manager for the tunnel's construction engineers, Sverdrup & Parcel; and Capt. Alfred L. Nicholson, Honorary British Consul in Norfolk.

After touring the Bridge-Tunnel, the group returned to the Norfolk Yacht and Country Club for lunch.

Joining the party for lunch were W. Fred Duckworth, vice chairman of the Bridge-Tunnel Commission and president of the Tidewater Virginia Development Council; Sidney S. Kellam, Virginia Beach's representative on the Commission and the state's National Democratic Committeeman; Virginia Beach Mayor Frank A. Dusch; Norfolk City Manager Thomas Maxwell; and Lawrence M. Cox, director of the Norfolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority.

After lunch Cox conducted an inspection of the Norfolk Redevelopment Area.

Mr. Marples is presently touring the United States to study progress of traffic management and highways engineering, computer control of traffic, development of public transport systems and port facilities and the rebuilding of city centers for the motor age.

This is his second visit to the United States since he became Transport Minister in October, 1959. He made a similar coast to coast tour in January, 1960, to study traffic problems.

Mr. Marples will visit San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Toronto, New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Virginia Beach, Washington and New Orleans.

Friday Final Wheat Signup Day For 1964

PRINCESS ANNE — Friday is the last day of the signup for the Wheat Diversion Program for 1964, according to the local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

Participation in the program is voluntary for all farmers and those wishing to signup or obtain information may call the office at City Hall.

The program helps wheat farmers in the following ways:

(1) For the grower who has planted part or all of his allotment, diversion and price support payments are based on the farm's normal yield. The wheat may be disposed of by the farmer.

(2) For the producer who overplanted his allotment, it offers an opportunity to adjust back to the allotment and receive the same benefits as outlined above.

(3) For the allotment farmer who did not plant wheat, diversion payments will help keep his land in conservation use.

TIPS ON ENTERTAINING

One of the world's most entertaining figures, famous movie hostess Arthur Treacher is in real life a skilled host who can offer you many helpful party pointers.

Whatever the size of your next party, you can make it a big success for all concerned by observing a few simple do's and don'ts.

DO arrange your furniture to encourage "small talk" if too many chairs are gathered into a single grouping, guests may feel they are addressing a meeting when they speak up.

DON'T feel you must provide a wide variety of foods and beverages. Stick to a few well-known liquor brands such as Walker's DeLuxe 8-year-old bourbon. In planning menus and cocktail refreshments, follow this rule: keep it simple, keep it simple, keep it simple.

DO check on your host's lighting. Well-lit surroundings and hallways are a safety feature as well as a welcome beacon. In the living room, a good distribution of lamps should cast a soft, even glow; large contrasts of light and dark areas strain eyes and tempers.

DON'T forget to keep near the phone a list of local restaurants who stay open at night. Then if you need extra supplies in a hurry, you won't risk your brains to remember store names and addresses.

DO have the art of asking "The Big Question" to stimulate lagging conversation. A "man-woman" question is essential: Are men or women better drivers? Is it true that a woman's intelligence shows in her face?

DON'T be thrown for a loop when someone knocks over a glass or a vase! sooner or later, it's bound to happen. Focus attention away from the mishap by having the party to another room, or by starting a game or turning on the TV.

TEEN TOPICS

Destination: Summer Sun—at last it seems Old Sol is warming the sky.

Teenagers and oldsters alike are always anxious to achieve a tanned and healthy look for late spring and early summer fashions. Your Safari to the sun may take you to exotic Morocco—or no further than your own backyard. Wherever you travel this summer do remember that the sun can be a friend or foe, depending on the precautions you take.

Of course, we are all anxious to be golden brown, but as soon as possible, but do take the sun gradually. Protect your skin by using a special sun lotion or cream—even after you've achieved an initial tanning.

When out in direct sunlight, especially at midday, wear hats with wide brims and light cover-up jackets. Most susceptible to burning are nose, ears, shoulders, and backs of legs, so be particularly careful of them. If your bathing suit is two piece and you are intent on tanning your midriff, don't forget to be careful here too or you will really be uncomfortable with a burn.

Excess burning and blistering can cause permanent damage and premature wrinkling. The wise realize a little care of the skin while young will keep that skin looking young longer. Do limit your exposure to direct sunlight to ten minutes the first day out, increasing the time ten minutes each day, until you achieve the glowing tan you want.

Here are some hints about your complexion, your hair, and your eyes that are helpful to follow whether you are sunbathing now or are just plain out in the sun.

YOUR COMPLEXION

Sunshine, in moderation, helps to dry up excessively oily skin and clear it of blemishes. In excess it burns and blisters. A tinted foundation or colorless sun screen can be used on face and neck for street-wear. Sun lotion or cream is a "must" for beach or boat.

As complexion darkens, don't forget to change the color of your make-up. If your tan has a tendency to be golden; hint of pink; skin that develops a rosy hue can be toned down by foundation with a beige cast. Make sure foundation is used on neck and ears as well as face to avoid a mask-like look. Keep eye make-up at a minimum. A touch of petroleum jelly on lids and lashes will make them sparkle. Darken brows slightly with one of the new powder make-ups that's applied with a brush. Lipstick should be clear and bright (not pale or dark). To keep color from smearing, powder lips first, then blot.

YOUR HAIR

As with your complexion, the sun, in moderation, can help to dry up excess oiliness. Too much sun, however, will bleach and dry out your hair so that it's hard to manage. In bright sunlight, keep hair covered with a hat or kerchief. Wind, too, can damage hair by tangling it, when it's brushed or combed, ends break off. So in an open car or on a boat, tie hair back so that it can't blow in the breezes.

YOUR EYES

Although you should always guard your eyes carefully, it's especially important to take extra care of them in the summertime. Avoid eyestrain and facial squint lines by making it a practice to wear sunglasses whenever you go outdoors—but don't wear them inside! A good pair of sunglasses is an excellent investment, and this year they come in a myriad of attractive styles. If you regularly wear glasses, sunglasses can be ground to your prescription, or you can buy tinted clip-on lenses. If you don't usually wear glasses, you will do well to select sunglasses made by a well-known manufacturer. Look for curved lenses; the darker the color of the lenses the better. For beach use, select glasses with side shields to protect your eyes from blowing sand.

Even with sunglasses on, at the beach, on a boat, when driving, on the street, your eyes are not fully protected, so don't stare at the sun. Never read in direct sunlight. If your eyes are in bright sunlight (as when sunbathing), put cotton pads on your eyelids under your glasses. For street-wear, apply tinted foundation to your lids for extra protection.

LAW TOPICS

This is one in a series of articles on general topics of law which have been approved by the American and Virginia Beach Bar Associations. These are written for the general reading public. Persons with specific questions and problems should consult an attorney of their choice.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Now that millions of people are taking their summer vacations and driving about the country, automobile accidents are occurring with increasing frequency. When involved in an accident, it is hard to keep your wits about you and know just what to do.

It is therefore a good idea to plan in advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. Stop! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.
2. Render Aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both. (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.
3. Protect the Scene from Further Damage. You may be liable for damage to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlights on the wrecked vehicles.
4. Call an Officer. Policemen, Highway Patrolmen, Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.
5. Gather Information. . . Write it Down. Don't trust your memory. Don't guess—be specific. Measure skid marks. Step off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver—and he must do the same.
6. Be Careful What You Say. Even if you feel you probably are to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, or may be misquoted. Whatever you say, make it factual.
7. See Your Doctor if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.
8. Consult Your Lawyer Immediately. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witness while their memories are fresh, and do many other things to insure that the true facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews or statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.
9. Inform Your Insurance Company Promptly. Failure to do so may void your policy.
10. Report the accident to the Division of Motor Vehicles. This is required by law if there is any injury, death, or total damages exceed $25.00.

An official accident report form may be procured from the Police Department.

Colleges Still Have Openings

Many accredited four-year colleges still have room for qualified students for the fall, 1964 term, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

The editors of the magazine report in the current edition that a quick check of a sampling of colleges turned up 79 that have not filled their freshmen classes, indicating that many other schools still have room, too. The sampling was made from the 600 schools that reported openings in Changing Times' annual survey of colleges, made last fall.

The complete 1963-64 survey of schools that may be good bets for this autumn is available for 75 cents from the Changing Times Reprint Service, 1725 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. The list includes colleges that were not full this year as well as those planning to enlarge their freshmen classes.

In addition, the magazine makes the following suggestions for students who haven't yet found a college for this fall:

—Check state colleges and universities. A good many former teachers colleges have become liberal arts colleges and are now taking a broader range of students. State universities are opening branch campuses and have room.

—Remember the two-year college, public and private. Many offer excellent programs and are still taking students. For a directory, send $1 to the American Association of Junior Colleges, 1777 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C.

—Colleges and universities in large towns can generally accommodate large numbers of day students.

—The following three centers do a good job of placing students. Write to them at once.

Annual Armed Forces Day Being Observed Here

Saturday will be observed throughout Virginia Beach as Armed Forces Day and again the city and the Chamber of Commerce has joined hands in honoring our friends in the Armed Forces. The day's celebration will be climaxed with a giant Armed Forces Day parade and luncheon which has been the custom here for years.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch has proclaimed Saturday as Armed Forces Day here and the bands and floats are in the ready position for the best parade ever. It is this city's humble way of saying "thanks" to the gallant members of this Nation's Armed Forces.

Virginia Beach has a great deal of community pride in its annual observance of Armed Forces Day and this pride is justified. This city has shown the way among Virginia cities in honoring our friends of the military.

In time of peace it is too easy to forget the role of our Armed Forces and this tribute Saturday is a reminder that they have kept this country strong and powerful in an otherwise turbulent world.

For the City of Virginia Beach this salute to the Armed Forces also serves as a symbol of the great and fine relationship enjoyed by the city with the various military posts located within the city. By celebrating Armed Forces Day the city is able to express its pride in the military and the cordial relationship that exists here.

The Sun-News, too, joins with the city and the chamber of commerce in saluting our Armed Forces.

A Billion New Customers

When a company adds a potential of a billion customers to its list, that's newsworthy.

An American oil company did that two years ago when one of its affiliates took over the job of finding, producing, transporting and marketing oil in free Asia, Australasia, and East and South Africa.

This is a huge task. In this vast region are countries with just about every variety of culture, religion, and governmental system. Some are highly developed, others are comparatively primitive. But, in the words of the company's head, "... the great fact is that they have begun. . . . Economic growth always means a rising demand for energy—especially for petroleum, with its inherent advantages of convenience, transportability, and economy."

This is typical of the attitude of the American oil industry, both domestic and international. And there is more to it than just the economic factor—the expectation of earning a fair profit. In its overseas operations, it lays heavy stress on training and employing the people of the countries where it is developing oil resources. It brings, so to speak, an advanced degree of civilization with it. Living standards soar. And human aspirations are realized.

This is not done by the oil industry alone. As the spokesman observes, often the opening of a new refinery can act as an economic catalyst for an entire area, and lead to the creation of a whole new industrial complex. But oil is the spark plug—and the world responds to its force.

Out Of The Hide

We now have a tax cut which, when it becomes effective, will amount to something over $11 billion a year.

And we are confronted with still another deficit, in the neighborhood of $9 billion. As The Wall Street Journal puts it, "... those nine billion dollars must be taken out of the hide of the economy. . . . In effect, the government will simply print up nine billion paper dollars. The resulting inflation will take back from the people the relief that the government professes to give by 'lower tax rates.'"

Writing in The Reader's Digest, James Daniel summed up the situation in a single sentence: "More dollars chasing after goods and services spell higher prices." That has been the case since time began and, carried to its ultimate extreme, it has resulted in the ruin of nations—the post World War I disaster in Germany, when it took a wheelbarrow load of marks to buy a loaf of bread, being the prime example of recent times. Beyond bankrupting the people, it was a major contributory element to Hitler's rise to power and thus of World War II.

The tax cut, can be justified only if it is offset by a comparatively proportionate reduction in federal spending. Failing that, we're just robbing Peter to pay Paul.

BASKIN, IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Spring has sprung. The frost is off the pumpkin. Old man winter has turned in his uniform. The sun is hot and the grass needs mowing every week-end. The ear-splitting sound of lawn mowers rends the early Sunday morning air. Wives complain about the condition of the flower beds and how about the need for repainting the woodwork in the living room. It looked clear in the wan light of February, but the hot sun makes it look like it has never had a brush on it.

The beach is full of people on the week-ends, and on Monday morning most of them are trying to ease starched shirts over those so very sore shoulders and cursing themselves for trying to get the whole tan in one day. Mothers aren't getting the sleep they should, as they're up 'til all hours rubbing soothing lotions on the backs and legs of small children. Teen-age girls are sulking in corners while they peel sheets of skin from arms. Dames everywhere are holding their legs out to the sun so they can fling those nylons. Sun-buck dresses are in, and hundreds of males have driven cars into telephone poles as they tried to strain for one more glimpse of the blonde in the bikini. The poodle dogs have been clipped, and they look slightly embarrassed.

School boys balk at wearing those heavy lawn pants for one more day, and the school girls give long involved arguments about the advantages of wearing fewer clothes to school. Older daughters grab fathers' shirts to wear. They are supposed to look better. The shirt tails are long and look horrible—but it's a bit of spring madness. The neighborhood is occasionally stabbed by the shrill scream of a small boy as he stubs his toe for the first time. Mothers buy blind alleys in the large economy size. Bicycles are rooted out from under the shade and there are howls about the tires being flat. Fishing tackle is handed to Mother so she can spend the day on that tangle that has been there since last September. Doctors do a land office business on measles, chicken pox and tetanus shot. Housewives everywhere stand and look at windows that need washing and marvel that they could have gotten so filthy.

Ah, summer! You have sunny saving grubst, not the least of which is that dames look better in shorts than they do in slacks.

NEIGHBORHOOD MUST IN HOME PURCHASE

By
Lee Arthur Gifford, President
Tidewater Assn of Home Builders

Most prospective home buyers shop for the neighborhood first, and the house second.

This is wise, for your pleasure in a new home will be influenced a great deal by your feelings about its environment. If you have children, you will want playmates for them nearby. A school should be convenient.

The safety of the neighborhood will be an important factor. Paved streets with sidewalks, out of the flow of fast-moving traffic, are most desirable. Increasingly, new communities make use of such devices as locating homes on cul-de-sacs, to eliminate through traffic entirely. Children may even get to school without crossing a street at all.

Other important factors to consider include proximity to churches, shopping areas, and public transportation. If you plan to commute, check the routes back and forth to work. Drive them during rush hour traffic.

Suburbia is growing very rapidly. Does the community you are investigating have such services as gas, water, electricity, sewerage, mail delivery and trash disposal readily available? Is street lighting, police and fire department protection adequate?

Your local home builders association, the Tidewater Association of Home Builders, can supply you with much useful information about any area you are considering. This includes the assessment and tax rate on the piece of property you may propose to buy. Check the figures and your budget closely. Remember, low taxes and high assessments are the same as a high tax rate and low assessment, since you owe the sum in the long run.

Generally speaking, most people find themselves more content owning a home in a neighborhood of comparable income level. There are sound reasons: There is less pressure to "keep up with the Joneses," for one thing. For another, the possibility is less that rundown property nearby will detract from the setting and the value of your home. You're also likely to find the neighbors more similar in tastes and interests.

When you do find the neighborhood you like, and the home that suits you right, keep in mind that you're a part of the life there now. Your home is an investment which you can enhance or detract from, and your contributions to the neighborhood can help make it an even better place in which to live.

Kennedy Stamp Issue May 29

WASHINGTON — The John Fitzgerald Kennedy memorial postage stamp was created by one of the nation's top design firms, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced today, as photographs of the stamp design were first made public.

The 5-cent stamp will be issued nationwide May 29, the 47th birthday anniversary of the late president. First day ceremonies for the stamp will be in Boston. It is a blue-gray stamp in horizontal format, with an initial print order of 250 million, double the customary production of commemorative stamps.

Mr. Gronouski described the Kennedy stamp as "the most carefully planned stamp in postal history." He said that a seven-man team in the New York City design firm of Raymond Loewy, William Smith and worked exclusively on the project from January 16 to March 17, when the design was approved.

The stamp combines an informal portrait of Mr. Kennedy and a reproduction of the eternal flame on the Kennedy grave. Circled on the stamp is a quotation from the inaugural address of 1961: "... and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

This is the design that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and members of the Kennedy family chose from a portfolio of 16 proposals submitted by the Loewy-Smith organization.

Mrs. Kennedy also saw uncolored designs that artists produced and submitted to the Post Office Department. More than 100 of these were sent to Mr. Gronouski by citizens ranging from grandmothers to young children. Many of the submissions were begun, "I am not an artist, but..."

Post Office Department files kept with letters from all over the world asking that a John Fitzgerald Kennedy stamp be issued.

While waiting for the announcement of President Kennedy on November 22, 1963, artists in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were rough sketching preliminary designs for a memorial stamp.

President Johnson immediately conferred with Postmaster General Gronouski about the stamp and asked him to work closely with Mrs. Kennedy and members of the Kennedy family.

The stamp created by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the Kennedy stamp was based on Loewy-Smith, Inc. development.

Credit for the concept of the stamp goes to Robert L. Miller, a Bureau of Engraving and Printing employee since 1936. The idea of using the eternal flame as part of the design came to him as he watched lighting ceremonies of the flame on television.

The quotation that appears on the stamp "... and the glow from that fire can truly light the world" was suggested by Robert J. Jones, a fellow artist in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Post Office Department officials searching for an apt quotation independently came up with the same one.

The full sentence from the Kennedy inaugural address is: "The energy, the faith, the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it—and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

This statement followed an appeal by President Kennedy to Americans to join him in fighting the enemies of man—tyranny, poverty, disease and war itself.

Four days after the assassination, the Post Office Department received from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing eight Kennedy stamp designs. These were the work of Victor S. McCloskey, Jr., J. Jones and Robert L. Miller.

They had worked over the designs, as had Reuben K. Barrett, chief of the office of Planning and Photo Manufacture, whose responsibility it was to get the stamp produced.

Barrett, making production arrangements, concluded that the Kennedy stamp could be issued within two weeks if the introduction of a new job. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing had been producing stamps since 1847 and had

The "Club Woman of the Year" award was given to Mrs. Nina Hobbs.

The Points Award for the year was given to Mrs. H. B. Slough. Mrs. T. R. Burnette, Assistant Junior Director of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs installed the following officers:

President, Mrs. H. B. Slough; vice president, Mrs. R. A. Arnold; secretary, Mrs. W. F. Barnes Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Groome, corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. W. Stahl.

Mrs. Slough announced the appointment of the following chairmen: Fine Arts, Mrs. W. F. Barnes; Health and Welfare, Mrs. John Beasley; Ways and Means, Mrs. R. A. Arnold; Home Life, Mrs. J. F. Scarborough.

The artists prepared 16 finished designs in vertical and horizontal format, all based on the eternal flame, a portrait and quotation.

In mid-February the portfolio was submitted to Mrs. Kennedy by LeMoine Billings, of New York, a family friend. She expressed a preference for one design. Postmaster General Gronouski approved her choice and instructed the designers to submit further color studies.

This done, Mr. Barrick, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, went to Loewy-Smith on March 13 to pass on the feasibility of the design from a printing production point of view. Mr. Gronouski approved the design March 17.

This was the first postage stamp design assignment for Loewy-Smith, a design planning research organization.

At least nine additional nations have issued or plan to issue Kennedy memorial stamps. These are: Colombia, Costa Rica, Dubai, Guinea, Panama, Sharjah-Trucial States, Argentina, Togo and Chile. It is planned to present the elaborate portfolios and sketches of the most carefully planned stamp in national history to the John F. Kennedy Library at Harvard University.

VIRGINIA BEACH — A locally sponsored car took first place in a drag race Sunday at Emporia and will compete for honors this Sunday at Freedom 7 Dragway at Creeds.

Taking the top honor at Emporia in its first race was a 1964 Fairlane Thunderbolt with a 427CID engine, 500 horsepower, sponsored by Emrhoe Ford's High Performance Division.

The car was built specifically for drag racing and will be entered in races along the Eastern Seaboard. It will also be used for speed clinics and sports car clubs under the sponsorship of Emrhoe.

It will be displayed at the firm all day Friday and Saturday.

Driving the car to victory last Sunday was "Pappy" Flowers of Norfolk.

The Thunderbolt will compete with about six other cars in the Superstock Class Sunday.

Trials will start at noon at the Freedom 7 Dragway and races will commence at 2 p.m. and continue throughout the day.

Sunday's event will be the first of the season for Freedom 7. The races will be held once a month.

Bluefish Meet Invitations Are In The Mail

VIRGINIA BEACH — Invitations to the Norfolk-Virginia Beach 1964 Bluefish Tournament have already been mailed to more than 500 marinas and yacht clubs along the east coast.

The tournament opens June 19 and lasts through June 28. Invitations are geared to the cruising plans of east coast boat owners, according to Ray Richardson, tournament chairman.

"This is the time of year when many boatmen are planning early cruises and we can think of no better place to cruise than to the Norfolk-Virginia Beach 1964 Bluefish Tournament at the south end of the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel," he said.

Trophy awards will be made in the following categories: heaviest fish; 2nd heaviest fish; 3rd heaviest fish; charter captain; whose craft post heaviest fish; and weighmaster who weighs heaviest fish.

Other awards will be presented.

Lynnhaven League Starts

LYNNHAVEN — Opening day for the Lynnhaven Pony League will take place on Friday, at Trant Memorial Field (next to King's Grant School).

The first game of the double header will start at 6:30 p.m. played by the 1963 Champions, the Tigers and the runner up Merchants. Second game at 9 p.m. will feature the Eagles vs. Colts.

Formal opening ceremonies will be held Saturday, May 16 at 5:30 p.m. The program will consist of introduction of league officials, umpires, score keepers, ladies auxiliary, managers and teams.

Bill Zaluzki will be the recipient of the 1963 outstanding player awards.

U-K Tracksters Cop District Field Event

KEMPSVILLE — The 28-member track team of Union-Kempsville High School walked away with top honors in the Eastern District V.A. Track and Field event held in Hampton Saturday.

They won third place in team points for the district and first place for the medley relay race. They have held the third place honors for the past two years.

Two of the members also won district awards. Andrew Reed placed second in both the high and low hurdles and Jesse Ashby took first place for the 100-yard dash.

But winning area, district and national honors is "old hat" to this outstanding athletic group.

For the past four years they have participated in the national 10-relay meet held in Philadelphia the last week in April and have placed each year.

In this national meet the U-K team has taken first place once, second place once and third place twice.

The training the team has received has been without a track but the school is now in the process of building a track and stadium.

The team is under the direction of the track and football coach, William Price.

after a swim, beer is a natural

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Virginia...beer goes with fun, with relaxation

STAR SPANGLED HISTORY OF U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

How they've served America and Americans for 23 years

May 1, 1941—The President buys the first Series E Savings Bond. Thousands of Americans follow his lead.

1943—Everybody's buying Bonds and promoting them. By the end of the year, Americans own $16 billion worth.

1945—War ends. Production turns to consumer goods. Savers cash Bonds for things they want—and then keep right on saving.

1948—The "New Look" is in, but U. S. Savings Bonds are an established style. E Bond holdings now top $32 billion.

1952—Fighting continues in Korea. Bonds help defend freedom again. Series H Bond introduced as companion to E Bond.

1957—Cars sprout fins, Sputnik orbits, Braves win World Series, savings in E and H Bonds top the $41 billion mark.

1960—July 4, the U. S. flag adds its 50th star. Bond-buying Americans hitch their wagons to all 50 of them.

May 1, 1964—The Savings Bond program is 23 years old. Americans now own over $47 billion in Bonds—a record.

View Of Virginia Beach

By Doris Padrick

Are you between the ages of 13 and 19? It has been rather frustrating, hasn't it, finding a decent place to go on a date, or just to relax in the company of your friends without having to put up with square adults who don't always appreciate or understand what you enjoy. Starting tomorrow, you will have a club that will belong to you alone.

The LAMPLITER is a teenage night club, with restricted membership to you only. Does that please you? It is a club with membership dues, responsibilities and privileges. You must apply for membership at 235 First Colonial Road, Oceana, before being accepted, and the dues are reasonable—$50 a month, $2 for 6 months, and $3 a year. Once you have your up-to-date membership card, and behave, conducting yourself as you expect others to do, you will be able to take advantage of all privileges the Club has to offer.

You won't have any difficulty in locating it as it is in the center of Oceana, a block or so down from the traffic lights next to the Oceana postoffice (where the dime store used to be). You will be astonished and pleased at what the promoters, Les Grover and Dave Wallace of the Virginia Beach Police Department, have accomplished in transforming it into a plush night club.

Coming through the door, you see first a luxurious lounge and across from it the manager's office...many, many tables set cozily together bordering the large dance floor...the raised bandstand is at the far end...to your left is the long snack bar (separated from the dance floor with a grill type partition) and all the foods you like best will be available—pizza, hot dogs, hamburgers, and of course soft drinks...just beyond is the game room with pool table, pin-ball machines, etc.

Opening night the New Blazers will rock the joint with their special brand of music, and the Belvedere will be there for the Sunday afternoon jam session!

There will be an extra charge for special dance nights and parties, as there is at all private clubs, but your membership entitles you to drop in at any time after opening at 3:30 in the afternoon, Tuesday through Sunday. You won't need a date or a reason for coming. It is your Club—you can meet your friends, have a coke, shoot the breeze, listen to the juke box, or even do your homework!

While it is exclusively a teenage club, there will be times when parents will be invited (some of us really do enjoy seeing you have fun). Without being obvious, proper supervision will be accorded by Grover and Wallace, and also by their wives, Mary Grover and Anne Wallace. Wade Williams, former TV weatherman well-known to this area, is in charge of publicity and for arranging top-notch entertainment.

Call 428-4134, between 6 and 9 p.m. for further information or to give suggestions to the management about what you expect from the newest and best night-club in the area. It is all yours...

Music Festival Disc On Sale

VIRGINIA BEACH — A record album of selections from the second annual Virginia Beach Music Festival, held last year, has gone on sale here.

Available at the Chamber of Commerce office, the album offers 12 selections by top band leaders from last year's festival, including "Virginia Beach," an original march by festival judge Paul Yoder.

Yoder, who is president of the American Bandmasters' Association, is well known as a composer and arranger and is internationally known as a band clinician.

Roy LaMere, executive director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, said the record sells for $3.98.

According to LaMere, plans are already well under way for the 3rd Annual Virginia Beach Music Festival to be held June 16, 17 and 18 this year.

Tickets are on sale at the Chamber, 25th St. and Arctic Ave., and at Furbus Candies Stores.

SURVEY CARDS OUT JUNE 1st

VIRGINIA BEACH — Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite, Jr., announced today that Rural Mail Carriers and Star Route Contractors will begin distributing June 1, 1964, Livestock Survey cards to farmer patrons on their routes about May 30.

Your Post Office assists the Department of Agriculture each year in making this and two other surveys.

Livestock cards returned by farmers to their carrier will be mailed direct to the Virginia Crop Reporting Service in Richmond. Information from each card, if properly reported, will then be tabulated and combined with other reports to give indications of changes in livestock on Old Dominion farms. These indications will be used to establish estimates of the 1964 calf crop, lamb crop, wool production, and spring pig crop as well as plans for fall farrowing.

So next week if you find in your mailbox a card titled "Livestock Survey, June 1, 1964," don't put it aside. It was placed there by your carrier, Postmaster Crosswhite, urging that you fill out the card and return it to your carrier as soon as possible. It is important that you return the card for your farm since only a given number of farms will receive these cards, and your community will be represented according to the number of cards returned.

Carriers helping with this survey are: Ernest M. Seneca, Jr., Route One; Virginia B. McClanahan, Route Two; James T. Lindsey, Route Three; Marion G. Bright, Route Four; and Norman L. Everson, Star Route.

Mirman Heads Alumni Drive

VIRGINIA BEACH — Louis Mirman of 549 Holbrook Road, Virginia Beach, has been named Norfolk regional chairman of the University of Pennsylvania's 1964 Alumni Annual Giving campaign. He is a 1942 graduate of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce.

He is one of 212 committee chairmen and 3,500 volunteers participating in Pennsylvania's 1964 Alumni Annual Giving campaign, which will end June 15. Goal of the 1964 campaign is $1,350,000.

Last year the University received $1,205,653 from 25,321 alumni and friends. This made Pennsylvania, for the third consecutive year, one of only a handful of American universities which have received more than $1,000,000 in an alumni appeal.

Funds raised through Alumni Annual Giving are applied primarily to current operations, rather than to endowment or capital improvements. Although the campaign is but one of many projects to which the University's alumni and friends contribute, its outcome is regarded as a barometer of alumni support because it is the only annual appeal to the entire alumni body.

Many School Bands In Concert

BIRCHWOOD — Elementary Schools participated in the Junior Band Event held recently at the Virginia Beach High School were Creeds, Linkhorn Park, Malibu, Pembroke and Kempsville Meadows Elementary Schools. The seventh grades in these are directed by Charles Dawes, Bandmaster.

The seventh and eighth grades of Plaza Elementary school and the seventh grades of Thalia, Bayside, Shekon Park, Thoroughgood, and Kings Grant Schools, are under the direction of Bandmaster Thomas N. Rice and were also participants of this event.

The above schools and the seventh and eighth grade students of all the Junior High Schools of Virginia Beach were again participants in another Junior Band Festival held last Sunday at the Cox High School.

James Ackels bandmaster was director and host to the groups. Thomas N. Rice, a band director in the Virginia Beach school system for four years, is well known in music circles. His love and devotion to music has inspired him to pursue his interest in the field of composing.

Operas composed by Mr. Rice have been performed at Chapel Hill and Raleigh, North Carolina, Washington, D.C., New Haven, Connecticut, and Tucson, Arizona.

In 1961, he was the recipient of the MacDowell Fellowship. Some of his piano compositions have been published by Scribner Music Library.

Mr. Rice received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Catholic University, Washington, D.C., and the Master of Arts degree from the University of North Carolina.

All hospitals registered with the American Hospital Association spent $10,129,216,000 in 1962 to care for 26,591,365 patients. This is 7.3 per cent higher than in 1961 when $2,357,242,000 was spent. However, 1,056,630 more patients were cared for in 1962 than in the previous year.

CMDR. HASLER COMMENDED

NORFOLK — A member of the unified Atlantic Command staff has been awarded the Joint Service Commendation Medal in an informal ceremony here today. Commander Arthur R. Hasler, Jr., USN, Assistant for Emergency Actions on the Atlantic Command staff, was presented the newly established Joint Service Commendation Medal by Admiral H. P. Smith, USN, Commander in Chief Atlantic. The citation accompanying the Medal read in part, "For meritorious service in the performance of his duties from 17 August 1962 to 21 June 1963. INDEPENDENCE OBSERVANCE AT WMSBURG. FRI.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — A simple ceremony at the colonial Capitol Friday at 5:30 p.m. will open the annual 50-day Prelude to Independence observance here.

The costumed Williamsburg militia company and fife and drums will march down Duke of Gloucester Street to the Capitol, where they will replace the British Great Union flag with the American Grand Union. The British flag flies from the Capitol during most of the year signifying the role of Williamsburg when it was capital of the Virginia Colony.

The raising of the Grand Union, also called the Continental, will follow a precedent set on May 15th, 1776. On that day the Virginia Convention unanimously adopted the Virginia Resolution for Independence which set in motion a chain of events that led directly to the Declaration of Independence for all the colonies.

A series of flintlock musket volleys by the militia company will conclude the ceremony.

The Prelude to Independence will continue until July 4th. Throughout the period, the Grand Union flag will be flown on the Capitol and all along Duke of Gloucester Street.

On May 30 as the high point of the 50-day observance, Secretary of State Dean Rusk will deliver the Prelude to Independence Address at the Capitol.

ONE-MAN ART SHOW IN NORFOLK

NORFOLK — Rocky Cartier, a young artist new to the Norfolk area, will hold a showing of his drawings and paintings in the lounge of the YWCA on Freemason Street in Norfolk.

The one-man show will open today and will continue until the first of June. It will be open daily except Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A member of the Los Angeles (Calif.) Fine Arts Association and the Greenville (S.C.) Creative Arts Association, Cartier has exhibited in the Felts Galleries of Beverly Hills, Los Angeles Museum of Modern Art, Boardwalk Art Shows at Myrtle Beach, S.C., and in spring and summer shows all over the West Coast.

He is currently showing in Tidewater at Goldman's and the Sears Show. A self-taught artist, young Cartier has a style all his own evolved from a study of nature. This is apparent in his subtle and sensitive drawings. In his paintings he has adopted a selective use of observed rhythmic material, creating a "modernism" that never seems unnatural.

Noted Soloists Will Perform

VIRGINIA BEACH — Ann Bonney, soprano, and Charles Oliver, baritone, will perform the solo parts of Brahms' "A German Requiem" with the Choir of the First Presbyterian Church when the work is presented on Sunday evening, May 17, at 8 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

Mrs. Bonney, a member of the First Presbyterian Choir, is a soloist with the choir, and has sung the soprano solos in the choir's annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah." She studied locally with the late Lillian Terrie.

Charles Oliver, baritone, is well known in the Beach community for his successful directing of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus Musicals, "Carousel" and "The Merry Widow." In addition to his work with the Civic Chorus, Oliver is Choir Director of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Virginia Beach. He has toured extensively with the Karlsruher Chorale, and has had numerous solo appearances throughout the United States.

The public is cordially invited to attend the performance on May 17, which will be under the direction of Irene A. Korte. Frieda Vogan of Norfolk will be the guest organist.

Concern Arises Over New Math At Beach High

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach High School was the scene of a "no mathematical formula solution" to the new math which according to several mothers will overpopulate the summer schools of this area. The Parents League of the High School held its monthly meeting with the heads of several departments at the school speaking on the instruction set up for the beginner in the 8th grade and the latest data for the advanced student in the 11th and 12th grades.

Presented first on the program was an outstanding evaluation of Virginia Beach High School participation in the Forensic League. This report compiled by Mrs. Malcolm Ragan set forth the requirements and standards of the League nationally and the value to Cox, Kellam and Princess Anne High Schools whose pupils have the advantage of this very important equipment for career and college requirements.

Virginia Beach students must and should be represented locally and nationally, stated Mrs. Ragan. In the same manner, Mrs. Charles Fuller stated arrangements have been made by the Parents League that Virginia Beach High School students be able to attend cultural activities throughout the city and state. Plans such as those made by Kellam, Cox, and P.A. High Schools are completed for transportation. Mrs. Fuller stated Kellam High School enabled its students to witness "Hamlet" at Richmond and concerts, museums, theatre and all cultural activities will be sponsored by the Parents League at Virginia Beach in the future.

Mrs. Jane Waller spoke briefly concerning a project known as "Code of Ethics" now being read from questionnaires filled in by Virginia Beach students. This will be an up-to-date reference book, accurate, comprehensive and judicious. The standards of behavior compiled by the students themselves will contain all rules and regulations and should prove a cornerstone in every parent's library.

The meeting following was devoted to the Departments Heads of the school and were represented by Capt. Alexander Hood of Math and Science, Robert Coulthard, Math Department, J. William Miller, Music Department, Dale G. Browder, Band Department, and Mrs. Thelma Houck, of the Social Studies Department. Capt. Hood outlined courses in his department from 8th grade to 12th grade level. These include the 8th grade: Science, a combination of biology, chemistry, earth science and atomic structure; 9th grade includes biology, earth chemistry and a repetition of Science 8th. Chemistry for 10th and 11th grades, a trail-blazing advance to atomic projects and a study of organic and inorganic science. The 12th grade student studies physics at a college level, techniques of radar, radio and engineering. Captain Hood spoke of four new science labs, and stated in his department "there were five full time science teachers, and two part time science teachers."

Education in the Math Department discussed by Mr. Coulthard includes general math and algebra for the 8th grades; Math-Algebra I and Algebra II for the 9th grade. The 10th grade studies a Unified Geometry which includes both Solid and Plane Geometry. 11th grade studies one-half year of Trigonometry, one-half year of algebra. 12th grade, Trigonometry and Analytical Geometry. The maximum of 150 students met formerly by three to four classes is now workable with reduced class size and new classrooms.

The music department, headed by Mr. Miller, offers chorus, an opportunity to participate in chorus Festivals and participation in many musical activities. Mr. Browder, head of the band program, the number of functions at which it has appeared and spoke of its proposed budget of $800 for 1964-65, and its tactical problem of 69 uniforms for 76 students. He further stated that Virginia Beach High School band is the only band in this area supported by a city on a 9 month rather than 12 month basis. He is assisted by a part-time teacher. An organization of parents of students in the band has made it possible to achieve many of their goals.

Mrs. Houck stated her objectives in the Social Studies department are to correlate the American History of the 8th grade with world geography of the 8th grade, World History of the 10th grade, U.S. History of the 11th grade and Government of the 12th grade. This, Mrs. Houck stated, completes a background of intelligent and well-informed citizens who in turn become responsible and resourceful men and women in a democracy.

Frank Taylor, co-ordinator of Math and Science for the schools of this area, spoke briefly on the tie-in of science and society on today's world. He introduced Otis Copley, Principal of Thalia, who discussed the new math introduced in the schools this year. His comments summed up the text book by saying "by word to the new math is 'understanding.' The initiating program has been awkward but children in grade school have been oriented to the new concept. 'Understanding' was not the key word to the parents of the 8th graders who attended the meeting and who through the year have found themselves enrolled as students of the new math. The fact brought out by several parents that it is not mandatory for professional educators to attend school to accustom and introduce them to the new math, created a response of enthusiasm among the assembled parents at the suggestion a session be offered to the parents for instruction in the new math.

The meeting was presided over by A. I. Axelrod, the new President of the Parents League for 1964 and 1965.

FLOWER MOTION

The poet has written, "What is so rare as a day in June?" But he lived about a thousand miles north of where I live and I might say that it all depends upon where you live that determines what day is rare. We have read or heard much recently about the population explosion, today—to be exact the last day but one of March, when those lines are written—I can see what I would call a flower explosion all about me. The roadside is turning green and peach trees which, according to old tradition, are never caught by the cold, are budding, a robin redbreast has appeared and then goes on toward the north, and other birds are busy about the place. And the flowers! All over our city the azaleas are in full bloom, blue phlox, pansy, violet, iris, callendula, daffodil, and also, all these make a flower explosion that should not alarm any of us. You will bear in mind that I am writing a month in advance of your reading. What more can be said of the floral beauty that greets your eyes as you may look off from the reading? And you should be prepared to receive the lesson the Master emphasized when he said: "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow. They toil not, neither do they spin, and yet I say unto you that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Vets News

By Thomas A. Moore, Area Director, Division of War Veterans Claims, Commonwealth of Virginia, Suite 218 Professional Area Building, Norfolk, Virginia, at 142 West York Street.

The Veterans Administration ran an electronic search recently, one of the side products of which was a list of 216 of the most commonly found names in its files. Smith is the commonest name of some 72,700, 000 veterans' names. Some would have thought it would be Jones. Actually Jones runs in fourth place.

Next after Smith comes Johnson, then Williams, then Jones, Brown is after Jones, and Miller, Davis, Anderson, Wilson and Thompson follow in that order. Doyle was the 216th most common name.

Some of the least most common names are: Moses Broken Leg, from Rosebud, South Dakota, and Experience Wilson is a deceased private from Eureka, Montana.

And here's the name of a former sailor from Bremerton, Washington: Leven Kiss Love.

Please visit my office on any claims or problems regarding benefits for veterans and their survivors.

Maurice J. Hunter, my associate, visits the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue, on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, between the hours of 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK

SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

Orange-Honey Bubble Loaf

Orange-Honey Bubble Loaf, glazed and fragrant, reflects the wonderful Southern tradition of delicious hot breads. It's typically easy to prepare, also, by forming a loaf of biscuit balls, glazing, then baking.

Frosting your family to this breakfast eye-opener is easy when you prepare the biscuit dough with enriched self-rising flour, the flour with baking powder and salt already carefully blended in. Enriched self-rising flour in Orange-Honey Bubble Loaf and other good baked products contributes important amounts of three B-vitamins and iron. Complete your menu with scrambled eggs, bacon and beverage to provide a nutritious attractive day-starter for your family.

ORANGE-HONEY BUBBLE LOAF

Orange-Honey Glaze
1 tablespoon lemon juice 1/2 cup honey
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind 1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Combine all ingredients in small saucepan and heat until butter or margarine is melted. Simmer about 3 minutes. Remove from heat.
Biscuit Bubbles
2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour 1/4 cup shortening
2 teaspoons grated orange rind 2/3 to 3/4 cup milk
Sift flour into bowl. Stir in orange rind. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Divide dough into pieces about size of walnuts. Shape into balls. Place balls in layers in ungreased loaf pan, 4 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. Pour Orange-Honey Glaze over all. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Let bubble loaf cool 10 minutes in pan before serving. Remove from pan and serve hot.
Makes 1 bubble loaf.
*If you don't sift or in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a 1 cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoons, according to USDA recommendations.

Here's an extra special Sunday brunch menu — crisp hot Corn Batter Cakes with Cheese-Ham Sauce, crisp relishes and beverage. The family will be delighted with this tasty start in the morning that's both breakfast and lunch combined. Enriched self-rising corn meal really simplifies better cake preparation. The baking powder and salt are already added to the corn meal, so all you need add is an egg, shortening and milk for perfect batter cakes every time. Everyone is sure to ask for seconds of Corn Batter Cakes and with good reason. Besides being good eating, this brunch meal is outstandingly nutritious. The enriched self-rising corn meal alone is an excellent source of calcium, iron and three essential B-vitamins — thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

CORN BATTER CAKES

Cheese-Ham Sauce:
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup enriched self-rising flour
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 cups cubed cooked ham
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
Melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Blend in flour and pepper. Add milk gradually and cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add cheese and ham, stirring until cheese is melted. In separate bowl, combine egg, shortening or oil and milk. Add corn meal and mix only until blended. Pour about 1/4 cup of batter for each batter cake onto lightly greased griddle. Bake until golden brown. Serve hot topped with Cheese-Ham Sauce.
Makes 8 to 10 batter cakes (about 4 servings).

IT'S TRADE 'N' TRAVEL TIME AT YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER'S

Five different lines of cars—forty-five different models to choose from. Come early and trade great!

Now that spring's in full swing, you'll find new Chevrolets perfect for picking.

Luxury—First, there's the big Jet-smooth Chevrolet. Sumptuous and soft riding with a fat coil spring at all four wheels to smother bumps. Over 700 sound stoppers throughout the car to blot out wind and road noise. Interiors luxuriously done up in the newest and softest vinyls.

Trade what you're driving for one of these, and you won't want to trade seats with anybody else on the road.

Spirit—Next, Chevelle. The beautifully in-between size car that combines small car handling oomph with big car comfort. Order to your liking in sedan, coupe, station wagon and convertible body styles. Eleven different models that you can equip with just about any extra-cost option you can imagine. No place to go this summer? Get a new Chevelle — you'll think of something.

Economy—Chevy II—the car that takes to inexpensive vacations naturally. It just goes and goes, and where it stops nobody knows. But for all its thrift, it's anything but under-furnished. Did you know that the Super Sport Coupe has bucket seats and door-to-door carpeting? Eight models to pick from, including wagons with room to swallow up an eight-foot Christmas tree. (Plan ahead, we always say.)

Fun—Then there's the Corvair. The fun one with the engine in the rear for unbelievable traction. Spring mud, summer sand, winter snow—nothing stops it. You'll even think they're now paving highways with adhesive tape the way Corvairs cling to them.

Corvette. The enthusiast's car. Sting Ray Sport Coupe and Convertible. Still America's only true sports cars. Pick either one and you'll find it does for your driving what holidays do for kids.

Performance—And with any new Chevrolet you choose, you can get the standard engine for all the power you need in everyday come-and-go driving. Or you can pick from a wide, wide range of extra-cost engines for maximum performance.

Either way, whether you've got some place special to go this summer or not, when you trade for one of Chevrolet's five great highway performers—you'll travel!

NOTES FROM YOUR AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Hands-to-Peak Time
Important in Farming

Sometimes every good farmer should work with his hands in his pocket.

This is management time, an increasingly valuable commodity in today's complex business operations. It's hard to put an exact tag on the value of management time. It depends on how well you spend it, and whether or not you follow up timely decisions with timely action.

Engineers say you can afford to invest $30 to $45 in labor-saving equipment for each minute you save in a day—up to $350 for a piece of equipment that will save 10 min. of work each day. There are other such computations, but the question is, what will you do with the time you save?

The competitive nature of agriculture is a good reason for making room for management time in your schedule. It's no secret that the farmer who picks a new or improved way of farming first, or soon after it's proved profitable, often makes more from the practice than those who don't adopt it until most people are already using it.

How do you put a price tag on your own management? Your records should be complete enough to help you come up with a figure for "farm operator's labor income." The usual definition for this term: The amount a farm operator has left for his labor and management after all expenses and depreciation, unpaid family help allowance, and interest on investment has been deducted from the total farm income.

Volume of business is not the only important factor in determining labor income. Keys to better-than-average farm income lie in maintaining not only an adequate volume of business, but efficient production of crops, livestock and livestock products as well. Managerial ability must rise as volume of business increases if better-than-average incomes are to be reached under normal price relationships.

Swine Cholera Season is Nigh
The peak season for hog cholera outbreaks is just ahead, and farmers are alerted to have their pigs protected against this killer while there's still time.

The only way to protect pigs against cholera is to have them vaccinated before an outbreak. Such vaccination is one of the key points in the current nationwide drive to eradicate the disease.

The eradication drive has now reached a critical stage in some areas, and may soon reach that stage in others. If cholera can be wiped out in this country, it could mean $5 million or more per year of additional income to American farmers.

Several points of caution are cited in connection with vaccination. First, have a veterinarian inspect your pigs to be sure they are in condition to receive vaccination. If they are not in condition they may not develop proper immunity. Leave the selection of the type of vaccine to be used to the vet, depending on the local situation and condition of the herd.

Corn Silage For Beef Cattle
Beef cows are big business in Virginia. Over 400,000 beef cows produce a high quality calf crop each fall.

These calves are sought far and wide for feedlot and grazing purposes. Calculations indicate this cow herd can increase only about another 15 to 20 per cent—stopping close to one-half million cows.

The state cow herd has been fed on hay and waste roughages on the farm through the years. Most likely, cow herds of from 25 to 35 cows will remain on the farms of hay and salvage forages. Where the herd gets larger and ranges up to 100 head, feed production becomes more of a problem, and it may become necessary to make the most feed on the acreage available. Under these circumstances, corn silage comes into its own.

To increase the size of the cattle business (which surely Virginia farmers will do) it is necessary to keep much of this calf crop in the state over winter and put 200 to 300 pounds on them before selling the following year. In most cases this will be done with corn silage. There also will be an increase in the number of cattle grazing pastures in the summer. With high quality corn silage, Virginia farmers can winter a large portion of the calf crop to be sold both in the spring and the middle of summer after the flush season of grass is passed. This will increase the tonnage of beef produced in the state and should result in increased profits from the beef business.

Corn silage is desirable for wintering calves because nothing else seems to do the job as well. Calves respond to silage, they stay on feed well, and gain well throughout the winter. Farmers can produce enough corn silage on one acre to winter 7 to 9 calves. Two tons of silage, at the maximum, will winter one calf. This is the best means of intensifying the Old Dominion's beef cattle business.

When we talk about feeding calves and steers, we are talking about high quality silage. Many of us have been led to believe a fork-full of silage is just the same as another fork-full of silage. Through the VPI Forage testing program, we have found this is definitely not true.

There is an extremely wide variation in the quality of silages. The surprising thing about the difference in these silages has generally been in the management and the way the silage was made. Most of the time, poor grade silages could have been excellent feed had they been cut at the proper time, in the proper manner, and stored right.

To make the kind of calf feed we need to do the wintering job, silage should run from 21 to 25 per cent total digestible nutrients or from 80 to 85 per cent or better dry matter. In other words, it takes better silage to do what we hope to do in the future than we have been making in the past.

To make this quality feed, farmers will have to make some changes in management. They should get with their county agents and decide what types of corn they need to grow to make this quality silage, the number of varieties needed to get it all harvested at the right time, and the settings to use on machines to get it cut right.

All of this can be done and is being done by some of the best silage makers. We are definitely going to make Virginia's beef cattle business better and it is going to come about partially through the production of a better type of corn silage—which we already know how to make.

4-H Activities and Events
C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"The only way to have a friend is to be one."—Emerson

Hello again. With warm weather descending upon us once again I imagine that you young folks are thinking of summer vacation. Have you 4-H'ers made your vacation plans yet? You will certainly want to consider the 4-H activities that are being planned. These include Junior 4-H Camp, Senior 4-H Camp, and Conservation Camp to be held at 4-H Camp Farrar in Virginia Beach, and the State 4-H Short Course to be held at VPI in Blacksburg, Virginia.

4-H Camp Farrar

Before I explain, the various camping opportunities for 4-H Club members, I will tell you a little about 4-H Camp Farrar. We, of the City of Virginia Beach, are indeed fortunate that we have a 4-H Camp facility right in our own City. 4-H Camp Farrar is a 16-acre site located at 85th Street, just two blocks off the ocean. It has facilities to house and feed 100 campers plus staff members. The camp also provides facilities for sports and recreation activities and includes a camp fire and vesper area.

All camp activities are supervised by a permanent summer staff to include a Camp Manager, Assistant Manager, Dietitian, and Recreation leader. Each camp group provides a camp director, co-director, and at least one counselor per 7-10 campers.

Junior 4-H Camp

The Junior Camp is designed for 4-H Club members aged 10 through 13, and is the main activity of the Camp. Three to four county and/or city groups camp for one week. This year Virginia Beach 4-H'ers will go to Camp from June 29 to July 4th. We will be joined by 4-H'ers from the City of Chesapeake, and the counties of Isle of Wight and Brunswick. Virginia Beach has allotment of 4 club members plus one Junior leader (older club member) or adult leader for each 6 club members attending.

The 4-H Camp can be a tremendous experience for young people. There is an opportunity for fun, fellowship and education. In addition to recreation (to include stunts, skits, talent contests), sports, and swimming, there will be classes in which the 4-H'ers will have a chance to learn more about their project work.

Parents should urge their children to attend this camp. The cost will be approximately $13.00 for the week.

Senior 4-H Camp

This camp is open to all club members 14 years of age and older. The dates for this are July 20 to 25.

In addition to the activities mentioned above, there will be opportunities for club members to learn more about leadership, citizenship, career exploration, and discussion of activities that older club members want to do in their local programs.

Club members will attend from the Southeastern District of Virginia, which includes all of the counties south of the James River and east from Brunswick County and the cities of Chesapeake and Virginia Beach. This is a wonderful opportunity for 4-H Club members to meet 4-H'ers from different areas of the district.

4-H Conservation Camp

This is a state wide camp held at 4-H Camp Farrar from July 13 to 18. Two Virginia Beach 4-H'ers will be selected to attend. The Camp is designed to teach young people about the conservation of human and natural resources. Authorities from VPI and other public agencies will assist in conducting the Camp.

4-H State Short Course

The 4-H State Short Course held at VPI in Blacksburg, is the biggest 4-H event in the state. It is during the Short Course that state contests are held, and winners announced. Club members attending attend classes of their choice to include project instruction, leadership, citizenship, and world understanding.

Virginia Beach has an allotment of four club members plus district contest winners. Participants attending will be selected by the Extension Staff. Members must be over 14 and have completed 3 years of 4-H club work.

If you are interested in attending any of these events, let your leaders know right away.

PARADE HERE TOPS ARMED FORCES DAY

By Douglas Arnold Barnes

VIRGINIA BEACH — With American flags fluttering all up and down Atlantic Avenue and perfect marching weather of brilliant sunshine and cool sea breezes, Virginia Beach opened its tourist season with an 80 unit parade, celebrating Armed Forces Day. Over 5,000 viewers were on hand.

Power for Peace, the theme, was carried out by military groups representing each branch of our Armed Forces — Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard — and the civilian units were original and decorative. They included entries by the African Violet Society, Camp Fire Girls, Knights of Columbus, Elks Club, Virginia Beach Ladies Fire Dept. Auxiliary, Suffolk, Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Department, Junior Women's Club, J. B. Hubbard's Circus Committee, Council of Garden Clubs, Shirley Darden School of Dancing, Brownies, Y. Teens, the Virginia Beach Anglers' Club — an attractive float pulling an enormous fish and flying four Confederate flags — Kellam High's Girls' Drill Team, Virginia Beach Rescue Squad, Knotts Island unit and others.

The colorful Khedive Temple Shriners were over 300 men strong; they added dignity to the parade. Clowns and water-squirting telephones, bicycles and pretty girls added levity.

Miss Virginia Beach of 1963, Miss Abby Hilton, poised and lovely, waved to the crowd; while the present Lotus Queen, Miss Yvette Carpenter, a blonde beauty in yellow, was attended by the four entrants for the 1964 Lotus Queen — the Misses Linda Cooper, Sharon Craig, Anne Heflin and Nancy Holland. All graced attractive floats or convertible. The Lotus Festival will be held in July.

The playing bands, Virginia Beach, Cox, Kellam, Princess Anne, and Kempville Union all showed talent, but Frederick Military Academy Corps in green and white uniforms, marching with precision and intensity of duty, carried off first honors.

The entire parade honored the two marshals, seated with their wives in the bunting-draped reviewing stand — Vice Admiral John S. McCain, Jr., Commander, Amphibious Force, Atlantic, and Representative Thomas N. Downing, Civilian Marshal. Mr. Ed. Brogan, Chairman of the Armed Forces Parade Committee, presented red roses to Mrs. McCain. Miss Virginia Beach was also the recipient of a beautiful bouquet.

Among others seated in the reviewing stand at 29th Street were: Senator and Mrs. Elmer Ames, Del. and Mrs. P. B. White, Del. and Mrs. W. P. Kellam, Safety Chief and Mrs. Reeves Johnson, Mrs. William Phillips, Mayor and Mrs. Frank Dusch, Mrs. Floyd Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kellam, Hon. R. Irvine Smith, Mr. Walter B. Putnam, Rear Admiral H. B. Wensch, Mr. Howard McPherson, Mr. Jerry T. Bates Jr., Mr. A. B. Crews, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kellam and others.

Fire Chief E. B. Bayne, Chairman of the local Armed Forces Day Parade since its inception here at the Beach in 1959, executed the start of the units at 10th Street, while Ed. Brogan and his hard-working committee seated the dignitaries and their ladies and assisted at the reviewing stand.

The Committee included Police Lt. C. R. Bailey, Joseph T. Crosswhite Jr., Lt. Cmdr. Robert Donovan, Roy LeMere, R. R. McChesney, Albin R. Maljhes, B. M. Stanton and Elmer Tarral. The ladies of the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department served drinks to the reviewing stand during the long parade.

The coveted prizes were announced at an after-parade luncheon at the Americana Motor Lodge, hosted by the Chamber of Commerce and attended by the Parade Committee, the Military and Civilian dignitaries and their ladies.

LeMere announced: Window Display Prizes: The Oceana Naval Air Station for its display in the windows at the location formerly occupied by Esquire Men's Shop at Oceana.

Military Floats:
1st Prize: Marine Corps U.S.A. School at Dam Neck.
2nd Prize: Marine Recruiting Service.

Civilian Floats:
1st Prize: Virginia Beach Moose Lodge.
2nd Prize: Kiwanis Key Club at Cox High School.

1st Prize: Frederick Military Academy Cadet Corps.

At the luncheon, Adm. McCain and Rep. Downing became new active members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

CAREER NIGHT AT COX

LYNNHAVEN — There won't be any Indian chiefs at Cox High School Wednesday night, but doctors, lawyers and a host of others will provide a unique "Career Night" program to help guide students in choosing future occupations.

About 60 speakers representing some 40 occupations will discuss the future of their jobs.

The career night program, to which students and parents throughout the city are invited, will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a general discussion in the gym.

Then each of the speakers will conduct talks on his own occupation in one of the school's classrooms.

Visitors will have a chance to visit any three of these talks which they choose. Occupations to be represented include such divergent careers as marine biology, optometry, and aviation.

There will even be ex-professional ballplayers on hand to counsel the city's sports-minded youth.

Three lucky girls will be chosen to have their hair done in the latest styles as part of a demonstration by the Oceana Beauty Academy. The young ladies will get information on hairstyling as a career along with their new hairdos.

Most of the major employers in the Tidewater area will send representatives to the program, according to Mrs. Hazel Severance, vocational counselor.

All of the armed forces as well as careers in civil service will be represented.

The program will end with a general reception in the cafeteria, giving students and parents a chance to speak to the many occupational representatives individually.

"Career Night" is being sponsored by the Frank W. Cox Key Club in cooperation with the school's Guidance Department.

Wheat Signup Time Extended

PRINCESS ANNE — The Department of Agriculture has extended the signup period under the 1964 voluntary wheat program from May 15 through May 22, 1964, according to Chris Kranehill, Chairman, Virginia Beach ASCS County Committee.

In making this announcement, Kranehill said the Department feels that farmers have not been afforded ample opportunity to sign up during the short signup period as announced previously.

Farmers in most areas are in the rush period of land preparation and planting of spring crops. The additional week's extension of the signup period will give farmers further opportunity to consider the effects of this program on their individual farming operations and to contact the ASCS county office for signup.

In making this change, Kranehill pointed out that the grazing date for diverted acres for wheat is also extended through May 22. This means that land which is otherwise eligible will not be disqualified for diversion because of having been grazed up to the time of signup.

In summarizing this action, Kranehill emphasized that the program had been well publicized locally and that the farmers most farmers are already familiar with the program.

He urged all wheat farmers who have not become familiar with program provisions to contact the ASCS county office before the final signup date of May 22, 1964.

Princess Anne Tri Hi-Y Has New Officers

THALIA — Kathy Craig has been elected president of the Tri-Hi-Y of Princess Anne High School.

Other new officers include Karen Parker, first vice president; Lynda Whitlow, second vice president; Janice White, corresponding secretary; Dolly Mayo, recording secretary; and Cathy Hiss, treasurer.

At a recent meeting the group also elected Anne Heflin as its candidate in the forthcoming 1964 Lotus Festival.

Miss Craig will serve as chairman of the festival committee and reported that many plans are already in the making to support Miss Heflin in the competition.

The members have become ambassadors for Goodwill Industries. Nine girls recently led tours through Goodwill's workshops and served refreshments to visitors. They have also been collecting items for Goodwill.

In connection with the welfare projects, the group has given $20 to World Service.

The girls attended Eastern Shore Chapel Sunday with the teachers, Mrs. H. E. Tyler at GY 7-2620 or Mrs. R. E. Doran, GY 7-4297.

Beach Jaycees Elect Evans

VIRGINIA BEACH — Attorney Andre Evans was elected president of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce in a recent election of officers for 1964-1965.

Also elected were Edwin A. Darden III, 1st vice president; Donald I. Fentress, 2nd vice president; Paul D. Vance, secretary; and Charles W. Dant III, treasurer.

Directors elected were Michael C. Savvides, Robert S. Creamer, Jr., Charles B. Thomas, Donald L. Ward and Phillip E. McAdams. Laurence M. Bragg was appointed State Director.

The election was held during the chapter's last business meeting Tuesday evening at the Black Angus Restaurant.

Evans, who previously served as 2nd vice president, will replace outgoing president J. Fletcher Bryant Jr., who led a delegation of local Jaycees to the State Convention in Richmond.

Beverly Kennett Gets Top Honor

PAINESVILLE, Ohio — Miss Beverly A. Kennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Miss Kennett received the honor at the annual Honors Day Convocation held in the Helen Rockwell Morley Memorial Music Building on the college campus Thursday, May 7.

Principal speaker for the Honors Convocation was Edmund A. Opitz, senior staff member of the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York. Lake Erie College President, Dr. Paul Weaver, introduced the speaker and awarded the honors.

Work On New Farmers Market Is Underway

DIAMOND SPRINGS — A gourmet's dream will soon be a reality. When the new Virginia Beach Produce Market makes its expected opening in June, area homemakers will be able to purchase taste tempting, nutritious produce from local farms.

City council recently voted $10,000 for temporary improvements to the state-owned 11.13 acres near Route 166—just east of the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

E. R. Cockrell, agricultural agent, said three acres are hoped to be ready for the market this June. Already surveyors are busy, and electricians are installing a half-dozen lights on existing poles to provide temporary facilities at the site.

These lights, two to three times brighter than regular street lights will enable the farmer's market to operate 24 hours a day.

Cockrell emphasized that this is going to be a safe, clean place to enjoy shopping.

Ample off-street parking for 50 customer cars and 78 display trucks will be provided with plans for additional space as needed.

A manager and two assistants are to be employed. They will see that only home-made produce is displayed.

Anyone growing his own produce may display. Both retail and wholesale buying is expected.

Already applicants are making phone inquiries, and interest grows daily.

The display charges are yet to be determined. Cockrell said there will, however be three different rates:

- 1) pick up trucks
- 2) standard size trucks
- 3) large trailers

Stalls rent for 12 hours and are to be collected twice each day. Over a period of time the market is expected to pay back the funds allocated by City Council, and become self sustaining.

Such a farmers market had long been the dream of the old Princess Anne and Norfolk County farm bureaus and that of Currtuck county, Cockrell said. With the disappearance of the old farmers' market from Norfolk, the need grew even more urgent.

Cockrell was appointed by city council as chairman of a three-man committee to set up a new market place where local farmers could sell their produce and homemakers, as well as large wholesale buyers, could buy fresh farm products.

The two other members are Lawrence Marshall, Bayside councilman, and Carroll Clough, city purchasing agent.

Cooperating very closely with these men is Dr. W. H. Bellingham, Director of the Virginia Beach Truck Experimental Station. Dr. Robert E. Hoffmann, marketing specialist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will help in planning permanent features for the market.

To insure safety, Cockrell pointed out, all produce displays will face away from the highway. There will be a wide drive behind the display trucks, with customer parking on the far side.

Farmers are expected to come from North Carolina, the two Eastern Shore Counties, South Hampton, Isle of Wight, and Nansemond as well as Virginia Beach.

There will be 60 exhibitors, ranging in age from 12 to 16, showing approximately 200 works in oil, watercolor, pastel and pen and ink.

Judges will be the well-known Tidewater artists Polly Blackford and Cary Brennan.

HOME FOCAL POINT OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Leo Arthur Gifford, President
Tidewater Assn of Home Builders

Significant enough it may be, a home is just a house before people have lived in it. People make a house a home—transforming inanimate bricks, mortar, wood and glass into something with far more meaning.

The right home becomes almost a part of the family, with its own personality. Although each of us may seek something different from life, much that is basic can be found in the home. We want to live in a comfortable, healthful environment. We want a sense of economic security.

Nothing provides this sense of well-being better than home ownership—for good reason. Buying a home is a sound investment. Though living costs and rents may go up, mortgage payments on your home cannot be increased unless you wish. Instead of collecting a slice of worthless rent receipts, you are increasing your equity in a piece of valuable property every time you make a mortgage payment. You have something to show for your money.

The fixed rate of payment also allows you to plan further ahead confidently, rather than on a month-to-month basis. More people have turned on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way. Others have found owning a home an effective hedge against inflation.

Today few more have the high rate of home ownership in the world than six out of ten families own their home. The rate is expected to increase for several years. One factor is that homebuilding is keeping pace with demand, and in some cases is well ahead.

The reason the buyer is in a better position than ever before is that the home, this precious commodity, is a price he can control.

In a few short years the bumper crop of "new homes" will be coming on line for the first time. Demand will increase. Home builders will meet the demand, as they have in the past. The immediate future is bright. The home is the heart of our society, the heart of our history. It is the most important link in the chain of our future. The time is ripe—not only for the first time buyer, but also for owners of existing homes to move up to better housing.

In happy addition, the supply of money for home loans is ample. Financial institutions not only are willing to make home loans at reasonable rates (the country-wide average is less than 6%), but are in active competition for such loans.

In sum, if you have been waiting for the best time to buy, the time is now. All the evidence points to that conclusion, and a look around our city should convince you of it.

ENGAGEMENTS

SMITH — POTTS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Smith of 628-22nd Street, Virginia Beach, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Grace, to Robert Harry Potts, son of Mrs. John K. Durkin of Havertown, Pennsylvania, and the late Robert M. Potts.

Miss Smith is a graduate of Virginia Beach High School, attended Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, and will be a June graduate for the Dorothy E. Thomas School of Retailing in Philadelphia.

Mr. Potts was graduated from Valley Forge Military Academy, attended Bucknell University, served in the United States Navy, and is presently a member of the executive training program of Strawbridge & Clothier in Philadelphia.

The wedding will take place on August 29 at the First Presbyterian Church in Virginia Beach.

SHRINERS TO MEET

NORFOLK — A stated session meeting of Khadiwe Temple will be held on Wednesday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Mosque on Freemason Street, Norfolk, according to an announcement made by Jerry T. Batts, Jr., illustrious potentate of the local Shrine organization.

Action will be taken on membership petitions for the forthcoming Shrine coronation to be held at the Mosque on Saturday, May 23, and the conduct of other official Khadiwe business.

The coronation on Saturday will be held in honor of Imperial Sir George E. Stringfellow, Past Imperial Potentate of the Shrine of North America. Stringfellow is a member of Greatest Temple in Trenton, New Jersey.

Mrs. Waikley Heads Hospital Aux.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach recently elected new officers for 1964-65.

Elected were Mrs. C. W. Waikley, president; Mrs. W. K. Romms, vice president; Mrs. Hugh S. Meredith, treasurer; Mrs. R. F. Trant, Jr., corresponding secretary and Mrs. William B. Baldwin, recording secretary.

Since its organization in October, 1963, the auxiliary has aided the hospital in many ways. A corps of 192 volunteers, known as "pink ladies" because of their bright uniforms, has given 8,350 hours to hospital duty as receptionists, clerical workers and nurses' aides.

They also work on the popular baby photographing service providing pictures of infants which may be purchased by mothers for the benefit of the Auxiliary.

The Memorial and Special Gifts Fund has supplied two air conditioners for the present hospital and is collecting funds for equipping a pediatrics department in the new hospital under construction at Hilltop.

The waiting room has been redecorated and the planting improved. The Visitors Service Committee assists strangers and out-of-town patients and their families.

TEEN TOPICS . . .

By Lucy S. Oliver

Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

 Time is ticking away—school will soon be over—and you may already have been notified about a job interview.

 That interview can be nerve-wracking if you are not prepared for it. A little preparation before hand can save you a lot of tension.

 The common saying that first impressions usually stick is sadly true.

 Spare yourself—try these ideas:
 1. Think about how you are going to explain what you have to offer, rather than what you want from the job or how badly you need it.

 2. Prepare a summary of information the prospective employer should have: your name, address, phone number, age, class in school, and pertinent experience. This should be expressed carefully and concisely. Be careful about organization, neatness, spelling. Use a specific, direct style of writing. "Sold 25 ads for yearbook, narrated fashion show for assembly, sold cookbooks for FHA, earned A's in courses relating to the job."

3. Collect samples of your work if related to the job.

4. Learn as much about the business as possible.

 5. Be prepared to take a test, fill out a formal application form including references, typing speed, and other data. Ask permission of persons to be used as references. Omit relatives.

 6. Dress neatly. Wear a simple hair style suitable for your age. Your appearance, including posture, voice, facial expression, and personality will work for or against you.

 7. Remember the person's name and title so that you can follow up by phone if necessary and send a thank-you letter.

 Upon entering an office for an interview stand until your interviewer invites you to be seated.

 Shake hands with the interviewer only if he or she indicates a wish to do so.

 Don't be upset if you don't do quite as well as you had hoped the first time. Experience is a good teacher. Every time you complete an interview you will be better prepared for another one.

 Advice for Non-workers: If you do not find a summer job, remember that your efforts are not in vain if you have learned techniques of job-hunting. You will be more skillful in using the phone, writing letters, and being interviewed. It's like learning to drive. Every trial run around the block on a learner's permit makes the final test less frightening because the driver is more confident and capable.

 For students who do not work: take courses; perfect skills;
 do volunteer work; research careers; participate in church, 4-H, FHA, Girl Scouts, and community activities; work hard at home.
 All of these activities will strengthen your chances of getting a job the next time you try.

 ceremonies. It is designed similar to an old fort, but with new ideas.

A Place To Visit

For a period of many years, tours of the New York Stock Exchange have been among the most popular in that vast city. The annual average has run to more than half a million visitors. And it is a unique and rewarding experience. They see, from a high gallery, the largest and most important securities market in the world in action. Adjacent to it are exhibits, established by a number of this country's leading companies, which give a vivid picture of just how free enterprise works, and what it accomplishes for the owner, the worker and the consumer.

Who comes to the exhibit hall and the gallery? The answer is, a cross-section of the great American public. In a recent one-day sampling, teachers were the best-represented occupational group, followed by engineers and housewives. But there were also a clergyman, a musician, an airline pilot, a pipe organ manufacturer, a policeman, a radio announcer, a scientist, a systems analyst, an upholsterer and a mortician.

Costly Fairy Tale

With virtually every-taxing unit from the smallest school district to the federal government demanding ever increasing tax totals, it would seem that the heads of government would welcome and encourage the growth of taxpaying enterprise.

But in the case of the federal government this does not seem to be the case. The political drive for government-owned tax-free projects has been promoted as good vote getting bait, on the theory that government can cut the cost of services furnished the public by taxpaying industries which help finance government cut rate competition.

The people are not told that they are paying twice for the so-called cheap services, first when they are taxed to provide it and second when they have to dig up the taxes the government loses when its tax-free competition destroys a taxpaying enterprise.

This is well illustrated by a current article in the Salt Lake City, Utah, Tribune. It has to do with the Bonneville Power Administration extending its activities into Idaho and cutting its rates so as to take the power business away from a taxpaying company whose original power contract helped a chemical company establish elemental phosphorus production in southern Idaho following World War II.

According to published reports, tax-free Bonneville has been losing money on its cut rate policy. Instead of correcting this it takes business away from a heavily-taxed power company. The already overburdened taxpayer will have to pick up the tab for the taxes lost.

Just how long votes can be won by this something for nothing fairy tale remains to be seen. But if the policy is extended, as is being urged constantly by centralized government authorities, the people will wake up under a socialist regime with individual opportunities limited and bureaucrats cracking the whip.

Work Census Being Taken

Questions designed to provide information on the number of persons who have more than one job will be asked in the May Current Population Survey, it was announced today by Director Joseph R. Norwood of the U.S. Census Bureau's regional office at Charlotte.

Information will be collected on the type of work done on a second job compared with the regular job, the number of hours worked at the second job, and whether the work was done at night or on weekends.

The questions on secondary jobs will be in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment asked each month in the Current Population Survey. All of this information is collected by the Census Bureau for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor.

The Current Population Survey will be conducted here and in 354 other sample areas of the country during the week of May 18. Census Bureau interviewers who will collect information locally include: Mrs. Edna Hill, Mrs. Helen K. Birmingham, Mrs. Audrey L. Hayden and Mrs. Mary G. Euler.

Adult Softball Play Underway

VIRGINIA BEACH — Ladies first! Sounds familiar and is exactly what occurred Monday night, May 18 when the Adult Softball League began their 1964 debut. On Tuesday night, the Men's Unlimited League got underway while the Men's Duffer League (as befitting our senior citizens) will start later, on Monday, May 25.

As in the past the Ladies and the Duffers will play Monday and Wednesday nights with the Unlimited League scheduled to compete on Tuesday and Thursday nights. This year the leagues have an opportunity to enjoy better playing conditions with new guardrails, dugouts, more lights and improved infield surface conditions.

The size of the leagues have increased to a point that the Unlimited League (12 teams) is divided into two divisions; the Women's League is up to eight this year and the Duffers open the season with a four team league. The Aragona Men's Softball league (6 teams) is expanded and will probably start play the last week in May.

Even though these are Adult Leagues, one must be careful about age. To play for the Women, one must be at least 18 years old or married and the Duffers demand a player be at least 25 years old. The Unlimited? You guessed it—no age requirement.

1,900,000 Cured of Cancer

The American Cancer Society reports that there are now 1,200,000 Americans alive today cured of cancer — that is alive today five years after treatment without symptoms of the disease. An additional 700,000 cancer patients treated within the last five years will live to enter the ranks of those cured. Thus there are actually 1,900,000 Americans cured of cancer. The American Cancer Society needs the support of all to keep up and enlarge the gains made against the disease.

Public Hunting Area Opening

A new 5,000 acre public hunting area located South of the mid point between Lynchburg and Roanoke will be opened to Virginia sportsmen this fall, according to Chester F. Phelps, Executive Director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. The Commission will manage the area for wildlife through cooperative agreement with the Appalachian Power Company who offered to make this land, part of the property involved in their Smith Mountain Hydroelectric Development, available for this purpose.

The land is mainly wooded and will offer hunting for deer, turkeys and squirrels this fall. Quail and rabbit hunting opportunities will be quite limited by dominant forest cover. Wildlife management procedures may include the creation of openings and food plantings which will benefit these species.

Approximately 4,000 acres of the tract are located in Pittsylvania County and 1,000 acres lie in Bedford County. Under the terms of the agreement, the Commission will develop management plans for the area and hunting and fishing will be subject to Commission rules and regulations.

As part of its program to assure maximum public access to the Smith Mountain development, Appalachian Power Company previously leased 6 shoreline tracts to the Game Commission for development as public boat launch sites.

The new Pay-As-You-Go Trout Stream recently opened by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries in Southwest Virginia scheduled to be kept stocked throughout the season was designed to provide "opening day" fishing all summer long, but it ended up having a super opening day rush all its own. Anticipating about 500 eager anglers, the Commission had stocked the stream with 2,500 fish.

As it turned out, 1,121 fishermen checked in on the first Saturday and many more were discouraged from participating because of the large crowd. As would be expected the enthusiastic horde, about 1 angler for each 12 feet of 3 1/2 miles of stream, averaged only about 1 fish apiece. Even so, there were over 100 anglers who caught their day's limit of five. Commission records indicate that about 10% of the area trout anglers turned out.

Fishing pressure dropped with 550 anglers purchasing permits on the second day and about 100 per day using the facility on weekdays. Following opening day the average creel jumped to a little over 5 fish per angler. In light of their initial experience, the Commission adjusted the stocking schedule to release more fish for heavy weekend pressure.

Hawks Team Champs

Leslie Watson Wins State Golf Title

STAUNTON, Va. (Special) — Leslie Watson, a slender 140-pounder, walked off with the individual State Group I-B and Group Two golf championships here Saturday and his Virginia Beach High School Seahawk team captured the team title by a whopping 13 strokes.

Young Watson was the star of this two-day event as he played steady golf over the demanding 6,850 yard Ingleside course. Watson fired a neat 73 on opening day and closed with a very good 77 for individual medal honors for the 36 holes.

While Watson was showing the way to the field of high school youngsters his teammate, Zack Clement came in second with a 76-78-154. Clement is a freshman at Virginia Beach High School. Finishing one stroke back of Clement was Mike Layman of Lynchburg.

Archie McDowell was the number three scorer for Virginia Beach with rounds of 80-87 and Jack Todd, a senior, shot 81-88—169.

Next year Virginia Beach will move into 1-A competition and with Watson, Clement and McDowell back they should be favorites in that division.

Cox High School finished far back in the field. Cox scores included Billy Calfee 80-85; Cam Garner 92-80; Tom Pliska 97-88; and Bill Garner 94-106.

Council Not Empowered To Alter Lines

RICHMOND — The City Council of Virginia Beach said Monday that changing the boundaries of the city's seven boroughs is not within its power.

The stand by the council was filed in an answer to a petition for a writ of mandamus which would force council to redistrict the city into boroughs of more nearly equal population.

"Redistricting of the city of Virginia Beach requires more than a rearrangement of words by the City Council," the State Supreme Court was told.

"It necessitates changes in the boroughs presented by the charter granted by the General Assembly. The redistricting and other relief sought... is beyond the power of these defendants and can be accomplished only by the General Assembly."

Del. Henry E. Howell Jr. of Norfolk launched the redistricting move April 24 as attorney for J. E. Clayton Davis, Cornelius D. Scully, Roland S. Winter and Howard W. Martin, residents of Virginia Beach.

They charged that the constitutional rights of many residents are abridged because of the population variance among the city's boroughs.

The council also charged that the petition by the four residents is faulty in that notice was served on council members by mail.

"The only service of the petition by mail was by mailing copies to defendants, which does not constitute service in the manner required by law. Accordingly, the court has no jurisdiction over the parties to hear this case."

The petition for the writ of mandamus should be denied, the council added.

The next move in the case will be the filing of depositions by attorneys for Virginia Beach. The Supreme Court has fixed July 17 as the deadline for such filings.

SCHOOL BOARD TO SEEK FEDERAL AID FOR NEW BUILDINGS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Five new schools are planned in Virginia Beach for which School Superintendent Frank W. Cox will ask $2-million in federal aid. The schools may be eligible for government funds under Public Law 815 because of the high concentration of Federal employees in the proposed area.

Land has not yet been acquired in Lynnhaven, Bayside and Kempsville boroughs where the schools are planned, but City Council assured a $250,000 loan.

Cox told the Tuesday meeting of the School Board that a June 30 deadline has been established for aid requests.

The five new schools, planned for the next two years, are only a part of a larger plan calling for two new high schools and eight additional elementary schools over a period of four years.

The total cost is estimated at about $10-million, part of which would be federal funds.

Keep Automobile Safe Advises Safety Head

VIRGINIA BEACH — The heavy, late-model automobile, traveling at high speed, tore down the hill, then up the grade, and finally around a sharp curve. Just as it rounded the curve, its lights went out — only for a few brief seconds, but long enough for a small boy, walking in front of the speeding car. The tragic result — another needless death because one car wasn't in top mechanical condition.

This incident, a dramatic lesson on the importance of keeping cars in safe mechanical repair, was cited today by Chief Reeves E. Johnson of the City of Virginia Beach as part of the City's special May program to reduce traffic injuries and deaths from accidents in which cars in unsafe mechanical condition were reported. The campaign is in co-operation with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

"Automobiles in need of repair figured in 6.5 per cent of Virginia's fatal auto crashes during 1962," Chief Johnson pointed out. "This is all the more tragic when it is known that most needed automobile repairs require little in time and money when compared to a human life."

Chief Johnson reported that poor headlights, bad brakes, worn tires and steering mechanisms are major weaknesses found in cars whose drivers neglect regular safety checks. He urged every motorist in Virginia Beach to co-operate in Virginia's official inspection program this year and voluntarily, often in older model cars. Of equal importance when it comes to safety are windshield wipers, muffler and exhaust system, window glass, horns and rear-view mirror.

"Now is the time to check your car for safety," Johnson advised, "not even next week or next month. With fair weather upon us the streets and highways will soon be crowded with people beginning vacations, observing Memorial Day or just enjoying the good weather. The motorist who insures that his car is in top condition now is being smart and safe, perhaps saving not only his own life but that of someone he holds dear."

Chief Johnson offered this word of advice for every driver. "Be a good driver... and always remember, make safe driving a habit. Check your car... check your car."

SAFETY DRIVE ON SKATERS AND CYCLISTS

BAYSIDE — The City Safety Bureau Wednesday began a crackdown on bicycles, hitchhikers and roller-skaters that have been posing a hazard to traffic on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel approach road.

Safety Chief Reeves Johnson said children have been riding and skating at the intersection of U.S. 13 and Shore Drive ever since that section of the approach road was built.

Since the bridge-tunnel opened large numbers of hitchhikers have added to traffic woes at the site, he said.

Johnson said an 11-year-old girl narrowly escaped injury recently when an automobile ran over the back wheel of her bicycle on one of the ramps of the diamond-type interchange.

Most of the hitchhikers are military personnel trying to catch rides north across the bay span, Johnson said.

LINKHORN P-TA CARNIVAL MAY 23

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Linkhorn Park School P-TA Carnival will be held at the school, May 23, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Unusual dolls will be displayed. Visitors may vote for their favorite of a penny a vote.

Two surf boards, a portable TV, and a chrome guitar will be given away during the afternoon.

Proceeds from the carnival go to the school library. The public is invited.

Resurfacing

Street Program To Begin Mon.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The city's newly formed Department of Streets, Highways and Bridges awarded a contract Tuesday to put 29,000 tons of asphalt resurfacing on city streets.

The contract was given to Asphalt Roads & Materials Co. Inc., whose bid of $246,125.98 was the lowest submitted by four contractors.

Streets and Highways Superintendent Clinton Teets said the award represented the first major contract for road improvements made by the city since the merger with Princess Anne County.

Teets was named to head the new department which was formed May 1 through an ordinance adopted by City Council. Road work in the city was formerly handled by the Department of Public Works.

The initial phase of the work will begin Monday at the extreme south end of Atlantic Ave. Resurfacing will include side streets between that street and the oceanfront, but not on Atlantic Ave. This phase is expected to last about 10 days.

Teets said this department would try to schedule the work in advance to allow hotels and motels on the side streets to advise their guests of the work to be done. No work will be done north of 35th Street.

About 6,000 tons, or one-fifth of the asphalt will be used in Virginia Beach Borough, Teets said. Other work under the contract will include parts of primary routes throughout the city and parts of Virginia Beach Boulevard. About 27 miles will be resurfaced throughout the city, he said.

When the Center closes, servicemen will be hard pressed to find another place in the area to take its place. There is no U.S.O. here and the one in Norfolk will soon close.

The free facilities include ping-pong, radio, television, piano, reading and writing materials, and the bath-house services complete with showers.

Few realize that the Service Center occupies the very same building that became the Beach's first church in 1897.

Located at 18th & Atlantic, this little pink building, drew by the brick Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, was erected on the oceanfront during the summer of 1897 by residents of Virginia Beach under the direction of the Rt. Rev. Beverley Tucker. Called the Union Chapel, services were held for all denominations.

In the fall of 1926, the Union Chapel was moved to its present location on the back of the lot and the Beverley Dandridge Tucker Church was built in its place.

While the Rev. Edmond Berkeley was rector in 1949, over 5,000 servicemen used the little building as a hospital house. And the Service Center was born.

Still in use as a church nursery during worship services, the chapel is kept ready for the men by custodian Walter Whitehurst, and maid, Mary German.

"It is not a skirt, but pants worn by Fiji Island men," says World traveler, Mrs. Frank Sholes (right) to Mrs. Paul T. Price (left) and Mrs. Colon L. Powers of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach. The girls said it still looked like a skirt to them—and would be wonderful for beach wear!

WORLD TRAVELER IS LOCAL CLUB SPEAKER

Virgie Hudson

Know the difference between a Sam-Pan and a Junk? Ever hear of the Golden Buddha of Thailand which becomes more golden with time because each visiting tourist buy a piece of Gold-leaf for two cents, and must add it to the Buddha when he views it? Can you imagine what Kangaroo Fur Pocket Book would look like, or for that matter, carrots two feet in length? And what, pray, is a Tea Shower?

The ladies of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach learned about these many things at the meeting held May 12, in the Bay-side Christian Church. Mrs. Frank Sholes of Portsmouth presented a delightful lecture with informative slides which she had made and brought back from the four corners of the world. Mrs. Sholes is International Relations Chairman for the Oriskany Woman's Club and a very active Methodist Church worker.

The world traveler made her last tour by air, and represented Virginia for the Association of Country Women of the World which meets every three years. The World Conference she attended was held in Melbourne, Australia.

Club women were amused when she explained that this organization "gave you three years to think things over." Motions made at one meeting are voted on at the next, three years later.

Mrs. Sholes made her trip at her own expense and will leave shortly on another tour, also Church approved, and known as the World Christian Tour. This trip will include a stop in the Holy Land.

From a fabulous collection, the lady traveler displayed a beautiful piece of handwoven material from Thailand, explaining that it's beauty was in the continuity of the pattern and cutting into it would seem almost a desecration.

From Japan, she showed the almost forgotten beauty of pure silk materials. Also from this country, a very delicately lacquered Tea Set which had been basically made from very thin paper and lacquered forty times in black before being finished with hand painted flowers. "So often," said Mrs. Sholes, "we tend to look upon these things without appreciation for the great time and patience it has taken to make them."

"The Japanese," Mrs. Sholes remarked, "are a people with a great passion for the beautiful. Many homes and shrines have windows made of Rice Paper. When they become worn or torn, the people do not immediately simply replace the panel which would be easy. Rice paper flowers are cut and glued over the holes."

It was in Japan that, like all travelers, the Portsmouth lady had the experience of finding that "it is a small world." Leaving her hotel for a short bus tour of the countryside, she met two ladies, one from each of the Dakotas. During a brief stop one remarked that she had never seen such beautiful Fall foliage. The other Dakota lady agreed that indeed the diminutive woodlands were beautiful, but asked "Have either of you ever visited the Valley of Virginia in October?"

Of all the countries covered by the Tour, Mrs. Sholes likes to recall her brief visit with missionaries in the Philippines. While there, these Godly folks insisted she see the Hill country. Their mode of traveling over the very rough roads was by Jeep with a young boy running ahead. If he suddenly disappeared, head first, the Jeep simply didn't go that way.

Trying to buy medicine in strange lands proved her biggest challenge. "We hear so much about the language barrier, but I didn't find it quite as great as I had heard. Perhaps my greatest handicap was the antics I put on trying to explain what I wanted. However, in spite of these, I managed to get the medicines, even the brand, in three different countries." Mrs. Sholes offered the opinion that much is made of the word barrier in the Political Conferences where each country has many interpretations for a single word of ours.

The program for the Club Day was under the direction of the International Relations Committee, with Mrs. Paul T. Price, Chairman, in charge.

Oh, the Tea Shower! It proved to be a lovely, very fine affair clothed about our luncheon table stars, which covers a tea service in New Zealand!

Beach Teen Club A Fresh, New Approach

A teen-age membership club has opened in Virginia Beach and it has already opened the eyes of parents and others who see in it a very delightful way to curb the natural desires of the teenage youngsters and fill a need in the community life for this group.

Two Virginia Beach police officers got the idea of such a club from a television program depicting a similar club in the Los Angeles area. The two, Les Grover and Dave Wallace, got their heads together and thus has been the beginning of the Lamp Lite, a membership nightclub for teenagers. The club is located in Oceana.

We believe the teen club is an excellent idea. It has a board of directors made up of a representative of each of the high schools in the city. The founders have stated that they do not expect to get rich off the operation but they believe it will be good for the area. We certainly agree that it is a good program for the youngsters.

It is quite possible that other clubs of this type will spring up within the city. There is a definite place for such a club and properly operated the teen club will add greatly to the overall summer program in Virginia Beach.

A Groundless Fear

Some little time ago there was talk about Russia overtaking us in the foreseeable future in electric power production. That fear, to understate the case, seems totally groundless.

For instance, Governor Bellmont of Oklahoma tells of an industrial leader from his state who made a trip to the Soviet Union to participate in a conference on domestic uses of electricity. He found, when he arrived there, that the conference had been called in the hope of devising methods to get Russian women to use less power. There just isn't enough to go around. So it is urged that housewives do their washing on different days of the week—and that they take care not to turn on a hotplate while the washing machine is in operation!

In the Governor's words, "What a difference between this program and the American system where free, enterprising Industrialists are constantly developing new techniques of encouraging their customers to make more use of the abundance we produce. To me this points up again the fallacy of governments trying to run everything according to some plan. For in Russia everything is planned and controlled by the government and as a result there is chaos and scarcity.

Time and time again ambitious plans for materially expanding Russian production of all manner of goods and services have perished on the drawing board—they just couldn't be achieved under the Russian system. So, to quote Governor Bellmont once again, "Perhaps we should all pause once in awhile and be glad that in the United States it is not necessary to check with our neighbors to see if it's all right to wash a load of dirty clothes."

"Jamestown Story" Players Selected

WILLIAMSBURG — Howard Scammon, director of "The Founders—The Jamestown Story," has announced the selection of major players for this summer's new production of the Paul Green outdoor drama scheduled to open June 22.

As earlier announced, heading the large company of actors, singers and dancers will be Martha Moore of South Gate, California, as Pocahontas, and Del Driver of Richmond, Virginia, as her husband John Rolfe.

The difficult role of the play's narrator, Jonas Proff, will be done by Donald Smith, a New Jersey teacher who played the romantic lead, Hugh Taylor, in five of his six previous seasons with "The Common Glory."

Smith will be recreating the role of Proff which he performed in the 1958 afternoon version of "The Founders."

Two talented comics, Edna Gregory of Williamsburg and John Rose of Norfolk, will form the show's new comedy team of Goody Redhead and Austin Coons. Miss Gregory will be remembered as the Cephus-dressing Widow Huntz of the past five seasons of "The Common Glory," and Rose as the amusing jester and Bruton Parish church organist, Peter Pelham.

Lee Smith of Portsmouth, critically acclaimed last summer as Hugh Taylor in the "Glory," returns this season as the hot-headed young soldier Sgt. Jeffrey Abbott. In the play Abbott leads a mutiny against the stern rule of Governor Sir Thomas Dale, who will be played by Donald Kendall of Southampton, N.Y. Kendall, a former English instructor at William and Mary, appeared in the 1963 "Common Glory" as a delegate and Town Oriole.

The romantic couple of Capt. George Yearley and his wife, Temperance Flowerdew, will be portrayed by David Adamson of Cedar Falls, Iowa, and Lillo Why of Havre de Grace, Maryland, both newcomers to the Williamsburg outdoor stage. Some historians believe that the Yearley-Flowerdew love-affair was the basis for the young lovers in Shakespeare's "The Tempest."

Another newcomer to outdoor drama will be Barry Neal of Greensboro, North Carolina, in the role of Capt. John Martin, one of the adventurers who was influential in the early governing of the Jamestown colony.

James Bray and William Hicks, veteran performers with "The Common Glory," will appear in "The Founders" as the Governor and Minister. For many years Bray has won praise for his portrayal of the Tory leader, Robert Gordon, and for the past four summers, Hicks has delighted audiences as the irrepressible "chicken thief," Cephus Slickmore.

Leading the Indian tribes which both befriended and massored the colonists will be Thomas Ward of Ontario, Virginia, as Pocahontas' father, Powhatan.

His successor, the bitter Opechan-canough, will be Dr. Peter Derks, a psychology professor at William and Mary and veteran of two seasons with "The Common Glory."

Frank L. Cataldo of New York City, the assistant dance director for the production, will perform as the lead dancer in the role of Powhatan's medicine man, Raw-hunt.

The complete casting of the supporting players will not be available until rehearsals begin on June 8, according to Director Scammon. The show will run nightly, except Sundays, through September 5.

Stroke Victims

Feel Despair

When a stroke occurs, perhaps the hardest thing the patient must fight is a feeling of hopelessness and despair. Strokes are not hopeless. In the past ten years, medical research has given us many effective weapons against stroke: new drug, surgical procedures, and physiotherapeutic methods which can restore muscle function to even severely disabled stroke patients. And the outlook for the future is even brighter.

A most important weapon in the service of the stroke patient is his own determination to recover—to strike back at stroke. One good example of how such determination pays off is Louis Pasteur, the French chemist whose numerous contributions literally shaped modern biological science.

During Pasteur's lifetime (1822-1895), practically nothing could be done for the stroke patient except to let Nature take its course. Yet Pasteur lived and worked for 27 years after he had suffered a "big stroke" at the age of 45. What's more, much of his best work was done in this period in which, it is reported, he had another 50 "little strokes." Refusing to throw in the towel, Pasteur went on to make scientific history as the founder of microbiology and a principal architect of the conquest of germ-caused diseases. We honor his memory every time we take a container of pasteurized milk from the refrigerator, or uncork a fine French vintage wine, product of vineyards saved from disaster by Pasteur's studies in fermentation.

In our own time, perhaps the most famous persons who have survived strokes to continue their important work are Sir Winston Churchill and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Sir Winston was stricken at age 79 during his final term as Britain's Prime Minister. He celebrated his 89th birthday on November 30, 1963.

In 1957, during his second term as President, Mr. Eisenhower had a stroke which was mild and transitory in its effects. He made an excellent recovery and soon returned for three more years of what is often called the most strenuous job in the world. He was 73 on October 14, 1963.

Encouragement is a common side-effect of stroke, one that sometimes affects the whole family as well as the patient. However, the fact that should be stressed is that nine out of ten stroke patients do recover. Another is that modern medical research will continue to provide new ways and means to help the patient fight stroke. Stroke can be conquered. It happens every day.

The "Bell Telephone Hour" has been a regular feature on NBC, starting on radio in the Spring of 1940, and continuing on television for the past six seasons. It is broadcast on NBC-TV on alternate Tuesday evenings (10-11 p.m. EDT).

BASKIN, IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

I have spent a very large amount of time during my life sitting somewhere reading a book. If the total amount of time I've spent reading could be added to my life span, I'd live long enough to read several thousand more books. I'm sure that there are other interesting things to do, but right off hand I can't think of one. At least I can't think of one I'd admit to in print.

I'm always amazed at the people who don't read all the time. I have always thought that there wasn't enough time in life to work, what with all the books there are to read. I actually don't need an excuse like that, since I'm the first to admit that I'm bone lazy. Nothing would please me more than to lie around at some fancy resort where the music is soft and the dames softer.

Anyway, you can get a book on most any subject. All you have to do is look. Lately—say in the last ten years—the market has been flooded with "How-to" books. You can probably buy a book which the publishers will guarantee will enable you to remove your own coals. "How-to" books interest me a lot. I don't read them, as I'd rather read something else, but I like to read the publishers' claims for these books.

The latest publisher's blurb arrived today in the mail, and it is a wonderful bunch of gas. I don't need to read the book, as I've just finished reading the publisher's claims as to what this little gem will do for the reader. It's wonderful.

This advertising states—and I quote—"Now! Through The Magic Of Emotional Appeal, You Can 'Get Your Way' With An Uncooperative Mate, Unfriendly Neighbor, or Difficult Boss!" This book I gotta see. If it is true—I have been looking for one for some little time, and I'm in favor of sending eighty million copies to Russia.

I just can't believe that the book will help. The section of how to "get your way" with your wife tells you how to talk to her. This will possibly work with a wife who is mad and talks, but it sure ain't gonna work with a dame who is mad as four hundred dollars and won't say a word.

I'm gonna buy a copy, but for the wrong reason. I'm buying mine for laughs. I don't suppose that the publisher will care. He'll just deposit my money and chuckle.

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

EMERGENCY ROOM CHANGES

Two years ago two buses loaded with school children from Smyth County collided just north of Charlottesville. One bus carrying 40 children rolled down a steep bank.

The passengers miraculously escaped severe injury and only one child was hospitalized at the University of Virginia Hospital where all 84 were taken for treatment.

But for a few hours the hospital's emergency department became the focus of interest for hundreds of parents, relatives and friends in the southwestern Virginia town of Saltville where the students lived.

In late April this year, a chartered bus carrying members of a Masonic group traveling from Staunton to Richmond was involved in a three-vehicle accident east of Charlottesville on Rt. 250. Thirty-four persons were treated at the emergency room, ten admitted to the hospital.

These incidents demonstrate the importance which hospital emergency facilities have assumed for 4 million on wheels. The old cry of "Run for the doctor" has been replaced by a telephone call to a rescue squad or a hurried ride in a car to the known source of emergency care.

Emergency departments are functioning increasingly as night clinics—sources of medical care at night or on week ends. They are no longer just accident clinics and have become, more often than not, the first choice for medical care of any kind. Since World War II, visits to them have jumped 400 to 600 per cent nationally.

Because people come to an emergency room in states of shock, fear, alarm or grief, they are often unable to understand the routines of an emergency area.

Hospitals are making increasing efforts to help patients and relatives and friends to understand what may be hard to understand in a period of stress.

The needs to ask questions to establish facts in a patient's medical record and for insurance and legal purposes, to wait for the results of X-rays and laboratory tests, to treat patients according to need rather than in turn, to keep relatives and friends out of treatment areas to cut down on infections and prevent delays in treatment, and to charge for emergency room services.

Emergency departments such as the one at the University of Virginia Hospital are regularly staffed with medical and nursing personnel. In addition, specialists are on call to treat patients requiring their services. The family doctor is notified if the patient requires this.

With the growing number of patients from automobile and other accidents, plus the acutely and chronically ill who seek emergency room care, hospitals the nation over are working to improve and understanding of the operation of emergency facilities. The University Hospital was in this effort as part of its observance of National Hospital Week, May 10-16.

In Virginia...

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Virginia...beer goes with fun, with relaxation

Clement Wins City Golf Title

VIRGINIA BEACH—The old axiom that youth must be served was dealt a crippling blow Monday when 51-year old Walter "Buddy" Clement captured the Virginia Beach amateur golf championship at the Kempsville Meadows Golf and Country Club.

Delayed by darkness Sunday evening the present Princess Anne Country Club champion made two near perfect shots to reach the par 5 eighteenth hole in two and two-putted for a birdie and a two stroke margin over defending champion "Dick" Miller and Lee Brown.

The new Virginia Beach city champion posted a 54-hole total of 225 to win top honors. Miller and Brown finished with identical 227 totals.

Clement held a one shot lead over Miller and Brown when they reached the 18th tee Sunday night, the original date for the wadup of the journey. It was so dark at that time that tournament officials decided to have the final foursome play the final hole on Monday.

Clement, with a good wind to his back, placed his tee shot on the 54th hole straight down the middle of the fairway. Miller and Charles Lee Perry were also down the middle while Brown faded his tee shot into the rough.

The new champ called a perfect 3-wood shot that rolled to within 17 feet of the cup on the par five hole. He two-putted for victory while Brown and Miller scored par 5s on the hole.

Virginia Beach Mayor Frank Dusch was on hand to congratulate the players and to award the prizes. Bill Hendricks served as tournament chairman.

Clement, resident vice-president for the Norfolk & Western Railroad, said afterwards that he would compete in the State Open at the Cavalier in June and the State Amateur at Hot Springs in July. This week he plays in the annual member-guest event at the Princess Anne Country Club.

Walter S. "Buddy" Clement, recently crowned Virginia Beach city golf champion, is entered with an out-of-town guest and reports are that this duo will be a contender for the title this year.

The following list are names of Princess Anne Country Club members and the starting times of their respective foursomes. Each member will have a guest as his playing partner.

CHURCH AUCTION IS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

BAYSIDE — The Mens Fellowship Class of the Bayside Christian Church held a "White Elephant Auction, Bake Sale and Chicken Dinner" Saturday afternoon, May 15, on the lawn of the church, located on Greenwell Road. You couldn't miss it because flags were flying on the lawn to attract your attention.

A lot of the "customers" were men who they wished they could "sell" like Dewey Simmons who was auctioneer for the day. He sold "asparagus plant food" to a man with no garden! A refrigerator to a person who already had one! The customers were delighted with their "finds." In addition to the items already mentioned—an electric iron, oil portrait, a bed, fertilizer, bicycle, house paint, all sorts of electric appliances and any number of articles found a "home."

The Fellowship was delighted with the $400.00 realized from the "auction." W. D. Nogg, John Baker and Dewey Simmons, co-ordinated the affair.

The ladies of the church volunteered to stage a "Bake Sale" and chicken dinner, following the auction. These two projects were headed up by Mrs. Lillian Bibb.

The Fellowship is planning to use the proceeds from Saturday's sales for an inter-com system for the church building.

VNB Dividend May Be Hiked

NORFOLK — A recommendation to increase its quarterly dividend from twenty-seven and one half cents to thirty cents per share was acted upon favorably by the Board of Directors of Virginia National Bank at its meeting today.

Board Chairman, R. Cosby Moore revealed after the meeting that this increased dividend was declared payable on July 1st to all shareholders of record as of the close of business on June 10. Moore went on to point out that this increase raises the annual rate to $1.20 per share.

Both Moore and W. Wright Harrison, VNB's president, pointed "to the bank's continuing successful operation as the principal factor in making the increased dividend possible," and emphasized that "the bank's shareholders should participate in the enhanced earnings ability of Virginia National."

The bank was created just one year ago, and is the product of an original consolidation and six successive mergers. VNB now has 46 offices located in 23 cities throughout the state.

In other action, the bank's Board elected one member to Virginia National's Martinsville Board. He is John David Stanley, Vice President and Production Manager of Stanley Furniture Company, Stanleytown, Virginia.

Favorite Room KITCHEN POPULAR WITH HOUSEWIFE

By Lee Arthur Gifford, President
Tidewater Assn. of Home Builders

Much has been said about emancipating the housewife from the kitchen—but it turns out that she just might not want to be emancipated from it in the first place.

Studies have shown that today's housewife, even with convenient food packaging and revolutionary appliances, spends even more time in the kitchen than her mother did. About 50 per cent of her at-home waking hours are spent there, and she regards the kitchen as the pivotal center of her home life.

"I have looked for two years to find a home with a kitchen I could live in," said one woman. "When I say live, I mean I like to sit there and read and have my radio and I like to have the baby be able to play there—it's so easy to clean."

Another commented, "I play bridge, I write letters, I entertain guests, I live in my kitchen."

Obviously, the new kitchens are not simply antiseptic food preparation centers wholly without other appeal, when they draw such sentiments. Instead, bright, new and colorful kitchens are becoming high spots of modern homes. Adding to their appeal for the housewife is the widely hailed return of the pantry in many cases.

Architects and builders can whip up a kitchen to suit any chef, but the basic styles can be summed up in four types—the U-shaped, L-shaped, one-wall and the corridor kitchen. If you're planning to buy or remodel, choose the one best suited to you.

You may see more U-shaped kitchens than any other variety, since the U-shape is perhaps the easiest to adapt to the open planning popular today. It can fit neatly into the end of a family room, for example, and it features a convenient traffic and work pattern.

The U-shaped kitchen has the shortest "work triangle" of the four basic types—that is, the distance between the center of the refrigerator to the center of the sink to the center of the range and back to the center of the refrigerator.

The L-shaped kitchen boasts many of the same advantages, including ready adaptability to almost any space, and a highly efficient work triangle. Many who remodel install the L-shaped kitchen. It's convenience in moving from refrigerator to sink to cook and serve area is excellent.

If you live in an efficiency apartment, or have a summer home or similar small house, you may be familiar with the one-wall kitchen. It is often the ideal solution where width is a problem.

The one-wall does not allow for as much storage space as most other types, but designers, manufacturers and builders have put their heads together to turn out increasingly beautiful and efficient one-wall kitchens.

The corridor, or galley-type kitchen, also has an excellent work pattern, with all the favorable features of the L and U-shaped kitchen. It might be best to avoid a corridor kitchen because the traffic pattern could easily become too congested.

Cannons And Muskets Kept Skirmish Lively

When you see a modern-day car ripped apart by 100-year-old cannon, manned by Civil War artillerymen, you're either in TV's "Twilight Zone" or at a North-South Skirmish. The bombing of a car last Sunday by a dozen Civil War cannon climated the close of the colorful 26th National North-South Skirmish near Winchester.

A skirmish is a muzzle-loading rifle meet in which the participants shoot Civil War type weapons: rifle muskets, cap and ball pistols, percussion carbines, and cannon.

Ever see a Civil War cannon shooting directly in front of you? First comes the loud, dull boom pounding against your eardrums. Recoiling violently under the heavy loads of powder, the gun jerks backward—sometimes completely leaving the ground. Sheets of flame leap forward from the muzzle, curling into dense blue-white smoke. Then the whistling projectile screams down range.

Such was the action in last Sunday's skirmish as thousands gathered to witness and participate in this demonstration of civil war fire power.

The weather was hot and humid. People were perspiring even in the shade of the many tents dotting the green hillside. The sky was gray, tinged with yellow where the sun struggled to shine through.

Pushing the smoke cloud along the thundering artillery position, the gentle mountain breeze seemed helpless to clean the air ever again. More and more puffs joined the first. Soon the cloud looked like a thick ball of dirty cotton floating in the air.

Nothing in all the world is exactly like burning black powder. It attacks metal as well as lungs. It coats clothing with soot-like particles which, when mixed with water, yield acid.

Yet there's something exciting about the firing of Civil War powder burners that brings thousands out to cheer.

Mingled among the wide-eyed spectators were perhaps a thousand Rebel and Yankee soldiers soiled from five hours of musket shooting.

Between them and the booming cannon were rows of glittering muskets and flying banners of a bygone era.

From the first hail of musketry to the last bombardment of artillery, the day light was often all but obliterated. From Maine to South Carolina, from Delaware to Michigan and Kentucky, the eight-man teams gathered to once more demonstrate the deadly effectiveness of the .58 cal. rifle muskets. Time after time to the amazement of high ranking army officers and others, these antique weapons have out shot our nation's modern M-1 rifles and carbinets and the new M-14 rifles. A skirmish is a muzzle-loading rifle meet in which the participants shoot Civil War type weapons: rifle muskets, cap and ball pistols, percussion carbines, and cannon.

During the 2-day meets, individuals compete against each other on Saturdays and the team competitions are held on Sunday. Each person wears the uniform and accoutrements of the Civil War unit he represents, keeping them as authentic as possible.

The Skirmish Association was born in 1950 when the Norfolk Gray Backs shot it out with the Bervyn Blue Coats. Today, these two teams are known as the 1st Regt. Virginia Volunteers and the Washington Blue Rifles.

When the membership increased to such proportions that suitable ranges became difficult to find, the skirmishers bought their own range. Named Fort Shenandoah, the range spreads over 300 acres of rolling hillsides about ten miles from Winchester, Va.

Don McAdams of the 4th Va. Cavalry calculated three tons of lead bullets poured into the backstop during the fall skirmish. Using his figures, that would mean after last weekend there are now about six tons planted.

Said McAdams, "Since we've never had our own range before, we don't know exactly what to expect." Tongue-in-cheek, he added, "It seems quite possible that at the rate we're sowing lead, the amount imbedded in the hill may soon weigh a ton to level. Or worse, it may throw our firing line out of balance and we'll be shooting downhill. Perhaps the hill will grow larger and larger until at last we're shooting into the only solid lead mountain in the world!"

Trading their live ammunition for blanks, the member organizations have participated in many Centennial activities including the mammoth battle reenactments of First Manassas (Bull Run) and Sharpsburg (Antietam).

In the planning are a June 7 reenactment of the Battle of Brice's Crossroads at the original site six miles west of Baldwin, Miss., and on Dec. 12, the Battle of Nashville will be re-enacted.

LOCAL EAGLE GROUP AIDS YOUTH WORK

VIRGINIA BEACH — The newly organized Virginia Beach Aerie No. 3204, Fraternal Order of Eagles, have joined other aeries throughout the country in contributing to a youth vocational training center in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

Their efforts paid off Saturday afternoon with the dedication of the new school.

Located across the International Bridge from Laredo, Texas, the school is the Eagles' twelfth such project established in foreign countries all over the world. The workshop in Nuevo Laredo follows the completion of a similar project in Mexico City.

A Texas Eagle delegation was on hand for the ceremony. A resolution passed by Texas and California's state Eagles last year.

HOME BUILDERS OFF TO BERMUDA

NORFOLK — The Home Builders Association of Virginia is taking its 8th Annual Convention out to sea to Bermuda.

About 300 builders and their wives and guests will leave Norfolk Saturday aboard the "Silverdome". They won't be back for many a day—well, six days.

Lee Arthur Clifford, President of Tidewater Association of Home Builders is leading a delegation of about 70 from the Tidewater area on this convention.

MALIBU FESTIVAL

MALIBU — A festival of fun awaits all comers to the Malibu school parking lot, on Saturday when the Malibu PTA Festival swings into action at 11 a.m. and continues until 4:30 p.m.

Candy the clown and a magician show will be the main attraction at noon and a fireworks will headline at 2 p.m. There will also be many kiddie rides all day as well as drawings for prizes. A military float will be on display.

All proceeds derived from the carnival will go for the school library.

ed to the establishment of this second Eagle House in Mexico.

Present at the dedication were Judge Robert W. Hansen, Milwaukee, Wis., national program chairman for the Eagles, James Nash, Mexico City, chief of the CARE mission staff in Mexico, Harry J. Cash, U.S. Consul in Nuevo Laredo, the Mayor of Laredo, Tex., John C. Martin, and the Municipal President of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. Master of ceremonies was Prof. Ruben Miranda Villalba, director of the Secondary School No. 2, site of the new Eagle House. The site was recommended by the Ministry of Education in Mexico and the school building was built by the local community.

The training center is located in an area marked by widespread poverty. The northern end of the state of Tamaulipas is considered a disaster area. Thousands of job seekers crowd Nuevo Laredo attracted by the possibility of entering the United States.

The school will provide training workshops with equipment provided by the Eagles. The school has a present enrollment of 105 students. Evening classes will be added for adults.

Retired Naval Officer Joins Mortgage Firm

VIRGINIA BEACH — Lieutenant Commander Ralph W. Menasco, retired Naval aviator, recently joined forces with U.S. Mortgage Co., Inc., opening offices at 2611 Atlantic Avenue, Virginia Beach. The principals of the Corporation, Commander Laurence L. Hamrick, retired, and Major Dwaine (Doc) Wise, Retired, have the home office at 913 W. 21st Street, Norfolk.

The Corporation deals in first, second and third mortgages, plus industrial and commercial loans on real estate, catering both to the military and civilians.

Wise, who is president and Hamrick an energetic vice-president with an insurance sideline, have had a lot in common, despite the fact they chose separate careers.

Both are pilots and both got their flight training at Pensacola. Both figured in some of the same engagements in the Pacific and both married Norfolk girls.

The Menasco's came to Virginia five years ago with the Navy and chose to remain in the area when Mr. Menasco retired a year ago, after serving 22 years in the service of his country. Unlike Mr. Wise and Mr. Hamrick, Mr. Menasco got his flight training in Corpus Christi, Texas and married a Texas girl, as he is also a native Texan. They have two children and reside at Virginia Beach in the Bayside Borough.

The Menasco's also own the Menasco Gift Shop adjoining the mortgage office.

Sunday School Parents Entertain Parentless Youngsters

Members of the Lowell Laymen Sunday School Class of Virginia Beach Methodist Church took 42 youngsters from the Methodist Orphanage at Richmond under their wings over the week-end and showed them whopping good time. Playing miniature golf and riding on the city's Moonlight Special were just two of the highlights during the busy excursion. After arriving Friday night the youngsters were headquartered at the Martha Washington Hotel and took in the movie at the Beach Theatre. On Saturday they rode bicycles along the boardwalk, enjoyed the Armed Forces Day Parade, had a cook-out with the Sunday School Class' families on the beach and played bingo. They visited the church for Sunday School and worship services and ended their busy week-end with a bag lunch on the beach. Bill Brown is president of the class and Mrs. Lee Beasley was chairman. What Is Reason For Boy's Unpopularity?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am not a teenager, but a parent with a problem that concerns my teenage son. He is on the honor roll at school or perhaps I should say, he has been on the honor roll. The problems at school may change this. Some time ago, my boy befriended a boy who, like himself, is not too aggressive. For two years, we took this boy into our hearts, so to speak. Then he turned on my boy and treats him as if he were trash. Another boy in town also tries to turn everyone against my son. I think he is responsible for turning away the former friend. We always welcome children into our home, yet our boy is never invited anywhere. How can we find out what the problem is and restore happy feelings again?"

OUR REPLY: Begin by sitting down with your boy and discussing things thoroughly. If the boy is unpopular at school, it is unlikely that he does not have some idea of the reason for his unpopularity. If his former friend—or the other boy—is turning his schoolmates against him, someone surely has told him how they are doing so. A whispering campaign is never so quiet that it is not overheard by the person being talked about.

If the boy who was a friend is turning others away from your son, then he is not a true friend and certainly not a reliable one. Your son will be much better off to make himself some new friends. He can do this, despite any efforts put forth by this former friend or anyone else. He should begin by doing away with the idea that everyone is against him and adopting the theory that the world is full of a lot of friendly people and a few unfriendly ones.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, write your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND BUSINESS PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

STALACTITE

STALAGMITE

Here's A Memory Aid You'll Never Forget!

Everyone who has visited the Beautiful Caverns at Lary, Virginia, knows that the two most numerous stone formations to be seen in this underground wonderland are known to geologists as stalactites and stalagmites. But which is which? The attractive visitor in our photo has found a simple way to tell them apart: The "C" in stalactite reminds her that it hangs from the ceiling... the "G" in stalagmite means it rests on the ground. It's that easy!

The stalactites and stalagmites in Lary Caverns continue to form at the very slow rate of 1/100 years to the cubic inch. The formation is known as Cave City.

has fused into the national cuisine. Indian cookery includes a great number of different food combinations, all bearing the special stamp of spices. Basic Indian spices include cardamom, coriander, cumin, fennel seeds, turmeric, saffron, black and white pepper, cloves and chilis. These are used in different combinations and proportions to make the famous spice blend known as curry powder. Since Americans think of curry as being synonymous with Indian food, the major portion of "The Art of India's Cookery" is devoted to curries. An entire chapter, "Fish and Seafood Curries," shows that fish and shellfish are important parts of the Indian diet. Recipes include a number of intriguing shrimp curries as well as curries using other fish. The National Fisheries Institute is especially intrigued with this Curried Fish, which includes a typical Indian blend of spices.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good

It would be a storehouse of spiritual values. Without it, strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every citizen should be a member of the church.

person encourages others to serve regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church

NEVER-NEVER LAND ON TV

To enter Never-Never land, you can call upon Timber Bell or Peter Pan—or you can fly to Badagra, India, and then travel 60 miles northeast by jeep, yak, mule or hiking boot with thick rubber sole.

Along the way you will encounter tortuous mountain trails, jungle, rivers, ferry bridges and, according to local superstition, devils that always travel uphill. But in the end it will all seem worthwhile for you will have arrived at the closest thing to Never-Never land on earth—Sikkim.

Sikkim is a little Himalayan kingdom which most of us discovered last year when Hope Cooke, a 23-year old American debutante, married the then Crown Prince and now King, Palden Thondup Namgyal.

It was an improbable marriage—the Prince was a widower with three children, 17 years Hope's senior, a Buddhist and heir to the throne which Hope now shares as his queen—but Sikkim, like Never-Never land, is an improbable place.

About the size of Delaware, it is a place where orchids and rhododendrons grow like weeds, mountains are sacred, divinity is all-embracing and the abominable snowman is said to roam at night when the moon is full.

It is also a place where almost every government building has a turquoise roof because the king and prime minister both agreed that colorful surroundings were stimulating and exciting, and crime is almost non-existent as the one jail rarely holds more than 15 prisoners.

And it is a place where television, radio, newspapers and nightclubs are not to be found—for entertainment, you just sit back with a bamboo shoot full of chong (a mildly alcoholic beverage brewed like tea) and contemplate the country's billions of dollars who reside on Sikkim's fierce five-peaked protector, Kanchenjunga, the world's third highest mountain.

What life is like in this Himalayan version of Never-Never land will be examined in an NBC News color special titled "Sikkim and Its Yankee Queen," to be telecast Wednesday, June 17, 8-10 p.m. (NYT) on the NBC Television Network.

Produced by Lou Haam, who has won more awards than any other producer in television and presented by the Humble Oil and Refining Company, "Sikkim and Its Yankee Queen" will take an admiring and affectionate look at this exquisite little kingdom and the occasional humor and incongruities in Hope Cooke's position as a member of the Royal family.

Queen Hope and her husband are most charming hosts. They take viewers through the Royal Palace which seems more like an Edwardian doll's house than the kind of structure one would picture after having read Kipling, and talk frankly about their unique marriage and the problems which their country hopes to solve in the future.

One of the highlights of the program will be the funeral procession of the King's father against all the colorful pageantry of Lamas in long Bakus and pointed hats, dancing, blowing six-foot horns and chanting prayers to send the King's spirit to its final resting place.

Also seen will be the capital city Gangtok (pop. 7,000) which is a conglomeration of Tibetans, Nepali, Bhotia, Lepcha and all other picturesque people who go to make up Sikkim's population; a refugee camp housing 5,000 Tibetans who have fled from their Communist-controlled country; and Pemionchi ("Lotus Fortune Peak"), Sikkim's most important monastery.

"Sikkim And Its Yankee Queen," says associate producer Daniel Karasik who spent seven weeks in Sikkim filming the show, "is the most unusual production I have ever had the pleasure of working on."

Despite the fact that we had to rely upon Royal astrologers for the most auspicious days to film, and lug our 3,000 pounds of camera equipment over some of the most rugged terrain in the world, it was worth the effort. We believe our show will be one of the most interesting television events of the season.

Robert Cabal, Hey Spots on "Rawhide" on the CBS Television Network, is nicknamed "Sinking" which means "little onion" in Portuguese.

Amanda Blake has played the featured role of Kitty Russell since the first broadcast on the CBS Television Network of "Gunsmoke" in 1955.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Recent Space Success Puts U.S. Ahead

By U.S. Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.)
Chairman, House Committee on Science and Astronautics

With the launching in early April of the unmanned Gemini space capsule, the United States again demonstrated its new prowess in space exploration.

In January, the U.S. put a 19-ton payload into space with its Saturn 1-B rocket. This is the largest weight ever lifted into space by a single rocket and demonstrated our new lead in rocket booster power.

Today, we can look back over a record of resounding success in space exploration.

It might be constructive if I reviewed some of these milestones in order to demonstrate the continuity and the orderly programming that exists within the activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

More than two-thirds of the 200 satellites and interplanetary probes launched into space have been the product of U.S. scientists and engineers.

Our satellites were the first to confirm the existence of the great radiation belt that surrounds the earth, and later vehicles have measured and defined this belt.

Our satellites were the first to determine that the earth was not round, that it bulged at the equator, a fact of great significance to military planners in plotting flights and targets, to cartographers, and space navigation.

Satellite observation of the ionosphere and deep space probes have made great contributions to solving problems of interrupted radio and television broadcasts during periods of solar eruptions.

The Tires weather satellites have been so successful that we have become accustomed to rely on weather data based upon their operations.

I need not recount the successes we have had in manned space flight with Project Mercury. These were monuments to courage and determination to succeed.

The present fiscal year, despite the reductions in the NASA fiscal year 1964 budget request, has been one of real progress and accomplishment. Mariner II was an outstanding example, and was probably the most profitable single scientific venture into space.

In its flight to Venus, it transmitted 63 million bits of information over a record distance of 34 million miles from earth.

This fiscal year has been one of significant progress.

Yet we are at a turning point in the U.S. space effort. After 5 years of determined effort, we are now moving from a time of preparation into a period of fruition.

We are at a point when the technological, the scientific knowledge, the experience NASA has gained, is producing tangible and practical results.

The effectiveness and the extent to which this country will be able to realize the fullest return from what we have already done will depend upon the judicious support NASA will receive from the Congress.

NOTES FROM YOUR AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Eliminate Floor Eggs

Hatcherymen know that dirty floor eggs don't hatch well, and that most eggs laid on the floor are dirty.

Many factors contribute to eggs being laid on the floor. One is the nests themselves. Nests should be in good repair and properly placed before pullets begin laying.

The nest perch (the rail in front of the nest) should be in place. So often there are broken or missing nest perches, or never provided in homemade nests.

When nests are two and three tiers high and perches are not provided, most hens will use the bottom tier only.

Don't place nests so high that it discourages hens from using them, nor too low to encourage them to lay beneath them. The bottom tier should be about 20 to 24 inches above the floor.

Hens prefer dark nests. So place nests so they will be as dark as possible. Put back on nests that are not placed against the wall. Any material, such as burlap bags, that gives the nest a dark, warm feel will be satisfactory.

There are commercial nests that can be placed on the floor in houses so that one-third of the floor area is litter and two-thirds of the floor area is wire. The wire floor is necessary to encourage hens to use the nests.

These nests are of the roll-out type with wire bottoms. They have automatic egg collector attachment to take the back breaking work out of collecting eggs.

Fourtymen say this system greatly reduces floor eggs. However, a large operation will be necessary to make such a unit profitable.

Transportation Important Part of Honey Business

Ever also think how much transportation is involved in the honey you eat on hot biscuits or pancakes?

Even for bees, the honey business is really transportation. If a single bee should fly an average of a mile to a source of honey—making enough trips to produce a pound of honey—it would have to fly an equivalent of three times around the world. A tremendous task for even a bee in this age of jet transportation.

But wait, even more transportation is involved. Beekeeping is becoming mobile. The migratory beekeeper moves his bees by truck from south to north following the blooming period of the best nectar producing crops. The trip north may take him all the way to the Canadian border. In late summer, he starts the return trip but on the way makes stops to harvest honey from fall flower flows. Total honey production for such a round trip may reach a million pounds.

Transporting bees is a fairly simple operation provided everything is planned. The beekeeper closes the hive entrance at night after the bees have returned from the field. Hive bodies are stapled together for the move and are loaded in stacks on the trucks.

Now bees are important for agriculture for pollinating crops. Research at Texas A & M University shows that seed production from clover can be increased seven-fold when bees are used to pollinate it. Farmers who grow clover and alfalfa for seed, for example, welcome the migratory beekeepers to their farms.

But it isn't all hot biscuits and honey for the beekeeper. He can run into a pack of trouble in a hurry. When bees are in the vicinity of fields being treated with chemicals for insect control, he sometimes has to make a forced move in a hurry. Otherwise, he may lose an investment running into thousands of dollars.

Other problems must be overcome by good management but those who prove it meet are the ultimate consumers of the food delicacy which the keeper and his hard working bees provide.

Where Should You Get Trees for Home Planting?

Where can you get trees dug for yard planting, either for shade trees or for hedges? That's an oft-asked question this time of year.

It is a difficult question to answer, mainly because the answer is not what more questioners want to hear! No plants should be dug from other people's property without permission of the landowner. This is just a matter of simple honesty and respect for other people's property. It may also be difficult to find the owner of wild land.

Another reply is that is usually costs, in the long run, more to dig up wild shrubs than it would to buy them in the nursery. One needs to drive some distance, usually, to find plants needed. This costs money, even if you don't realize it.

After you get permission to collect plants, you must select what you think is a suitable specimen. Most often the one selected will have a spreading root system which may extend several feet for even a small plant. It would be difficult to dig out the whole root system.

Even if you could dig out the whole root system, it would not be possible to plant the specimen insect. Without a good part of the root system recovered, the transplanted tree will have a chance of living. Conifers are even more difficult to transplant than deciduous trees.

On the other hand, if you buy trees or shrubs from a nursery, you can select the plants from many specimens. The nurseryman's stock will have been selected from specimen with the most pleasing characteristics—larger flowers, unusual shape, unusual leaf coloring, etc.

In the nursery, roots will have been pruned so the plant has a compact root system. The specimen will be dug with soil attached to the roots. Its chance of living will be almost 100 per cent if properly planted. Reputable nurserymen usually guarantee their stock. If they plant it themselves, they always should.

Any woody plant you incorporate into your landscape will be there many years—perhaps even a century. It will increase the

"The education forms the common mind, just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined"—Alexander Pope: Essay On Man

Hello there. Last week I spoke about the various camps that have been planned for 4-Hers and adult volunteer leaders to take part in. Today, I will discuss some of the things that your community 4-H Club could do this summer.

Flowers and Beach Parties

One of the best ways that club members and their parents can become better acquainted is by having a club picnic or as can be done in this area, a beach party. To get the most fun out of the event, it should be planned in advance. Some of the questions are: When and where should it take place? Who shall we invite? What should we take? What do we do while we are there?

Select a time and place that is convenient to the majority. You could invite club members, friends who might be interested in 4-H, leaders and parents, and persons who have given special support to your club activities. Plan your menu, and then assign various persons to bring each item needed. Select a committee to prepare the food. Decide what you want to do and bring needed equipment. Some good suggestions are adult-club member competition in relays, baseball, softball, badminton, horseshoes, etc. Be sure to have varied enough activities so that all adult and young people can take part. Flowers can be fun.

Educational Tours

Your club might also want to plan an educational tour for this summer. As most of you know, we are living in the heart of history land, U.S.A. You can take the Norfolk tour and learn much about early America, or you may want to journey to Jamestown, Williamsburg, or Richmond to learn more of the history of your State. Other tour ideas are visits to zoos, parks, museums and memorials. We have an abundance of these right in the Tidewater area.

Project Tours

Summertime is excellent for project tours. This is where all club members visit each other's homes as a group and see what the club member has done on his or her project. Project tours can be made to such projects as livestock, field crops, forestry, home grounds beautification, home furnishings, room improvement, electricity, and gardening. This gives club members who don't have portable projects a chance to show what they have done.

Summer can be a wonderful time. Let's make it so for ourselves and for 4-H.

4-H Recreation Workshop

Approximately 25 4-H club members and leaders attended the Recreation Workshop sponsored by the Virginia Beach Extension Service. Half of them came from Chesapeake and were accompanied by Mrs. Emma Thrasher, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent. Mr. Hunter Spence, former 4-H club member, and 1964 Inter-County Farm Youth Delegate to Thailand, was the instructor. Hunter taught the group song and game leadership and types of songs and games that can be used at 4-H Club meetings and other group gatherings.

HOMEMADE DIVING OUTFIT MAY HAVE CAUSED DROWNING

BAYSIDE — A homemade diving rig apparently caused the death of a Navy airman Thursday afternoon who was scuba diving in a sand pit near Bayside Elementary School.

Jerry L. McKee, 22, of 6000 Bayside Road, attached to Norfolk Naval Air Station, was found in 30 feet of water at 5:15 p.m.

Hodges, familiar with the problem but was in fact, breathing poisonous gases.

Investigations of similar drownings in the past have shown that when homemade rigs are filled with air using improper equipment, poisonous carbon monoxide drawn from the exhaust of gas-driven air compressors can be pumped into the tanks.

The airman was diving while a companion and several teenage boys watched from the shore. When he failed to surface, the boys dived for him but without scuba gear could not go deep enough.

A dozen members of the rescue squad grappled the pit for McKee.

Country Day Girls Part Of Test Program

VIRGINIA BEACH — Students at Country Day School for Girls, Virginia Beach, along with over 23,000 other junior and senior high school students in 185 schools across the country took part in a special testing program this week to determine how much they know about American government and World History and how well they understand the workings of their own government.

"Wide spread improvements have been made in recent years in the teaching and content of social studies courses," Mrs. C. Howard Brown, history teacher at Country Day School for Girls said today. "We are pleased to cooperate in the development of a series of new tests which are appropriate to our modern social studies programs."

The new examinations in American History, Civics, Problems of Democracy, World History, American Government, and Modern European History were developed by the Cooperative Test Division of ETS, working with committees of outstanding educators in each of the social studies fields. "The tests were put through extensive field tests last spring," said Dr. Scarvia Anderson, Director of Research and Development for the Cooperative Test Division.

"They are now being 'normalized' to get a picture of how students throughout the nation perform on each test."

CAR INJURES PEDESTRIAN

DAM NECK — A 19-year-old pedestrian was injured Sunday on Dam Neck Road when a driver lost control of his car and knocked the youth 40 feet into a ditch.

Vernie Denfield suffered a broken right leg and multiple abrasions.

William Harwell Woot, 28, driver of the car, has been charged with driving a vehicle with defective brakes and driving under the influence.

Police reports state that Woot lost control of the car and crossed the yellow line. The car struck Denfield who was walking on the opposite side of the road facing the oncoming traffic.

Investigating officer was Patrolman Charles R. Stage.

Oceana Jet In Crash

OCEANA — An Oceana-based Navy jet attack plane crashed and burned in an open field near Meridian, Miss., Thursday afternoon. The pilot Lt. (j.g.) J. D. Hardon, and the bombardier-navigator, Lt. (j.g.) William M. Tachand, ejected safely from an altitude of 200 feet.

The A-6A Intruder crashed while attempting an emergency landing at a Navy auxiliary air station after a generator failed, a Navy spokesman said. The cause of the failure is under investigation.

The plane, attached to A-6A Squadron 75, left the carrier Saratoga off the Virginia Capes and was making a simulated bombing run on Dallas, Texas.

The flight was part of Operation Longhorn, in which aircraft from carriers in the Atlantic and Pacific carried out a coordinated strike against Dallas.

This was the first time an A-6A has been lost since the plane went into service last year, the Navy said.

Hardon lives in bachelor of officers quarters at Oceana. Tachand lives with his wife, June, at 205 36th St., Virginia Beach.

YOUNG DEMOS WILL HEAR SEN. AMES

The usual "happy hour" will follow the business session.

Prom Time Means Care In Driving

Pointing out that prom time is proving to be more and more dangerous from a traffic safety standpoint, the Tidewater Automobile Association has called on high school administrators and instructors to emphasize driving with extreme care on prom night.

"Some school functions, among them prom night, tend to key students to such a point that they are inclined to forget to drive as well as they know how," states E. Wallace Timmons, safety director for the AAA Motor Club.

"It is in the way we are reminding them of their driving responsibilities at this time."

He referred to a special mailing, containing safe driving suggestions to be made to students by school administrators and driver education instructors, which was sent by the Motor Club to all high schools in the state this week.

Timmons pointed out that each year a number of youthful drivers are involved in prom night traffic accidents, some of which prove fatal.

"By encouraging high school faculty members and student leaders to re-emphasize the need of driving safely on prom night, these accidents may be reduced in number," he declared.

New Missile System For Dam Neck

DAM NECK — A new guided missile weapon control training system was introduced at the Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center here May 20.

The trainer, known officially as the Weapons Control System Simulator, Device 20C6, is the first of its kind to be put into operation in support of the fleet's missile ships.

This new shore-based trainer is designed to provide on-air missile crews with basic instruction and proficiency training in Naval air defense operations.

Used along with the Naval Tactical Data System (NTDS), this trainer is capable of simulating complete Naval air defense problems, including target identification and tracking, fire control director designation, weapon engagement and firing, and hit evaluation.

To achieve realism in the training exercise, operation controls and displays of the simulator are identical with those of the operational shipboard equipment.

Campbell Ends Senior Study

BAYSIDE — David Campbell Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Jamison, 4205 Baitery Rd., Bayside Pines, has recently completed his senior independent study project at the College of Wooster.

His major field of study at the College is within the Department of History and his independent study project is entitled "Porto Rico Diaz and the U.S. Press."

A senior independent study project is the chief project of the year and is in the form of an essay or report on a special problem in the student's major field. The independent study program at the College of Wooster is the heart of the upperclass curriculum.

In preparation for the senior project, the student is required to submit an independent study project each semester of his junior year. However, the focus of the independent study program is the senior essay or problem.

Beach Youth Drowning Victim

DAVIS CORNER — Toby Rorner, 19, of Virginia Beach drowned Sunday afternoon about 300 feet off shore at the newly opened Arrowhead Beach and Boat Club at Edenton, N.C.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin G. Rorner, 932 Clearfield Avenue, near Davis Corner.

Toby and his brother, Stephen, and two companions rowed out from the beach at 3:45 p.m. Carroll A. Boyce, Chowson County coroner, said the youth jumped out of the boat wearing a diving mask he wanted to try.

Rorner, who was reportedly not a good swimmer, got into trouble in water about 10 feet deep. His brother attempted to reach him with an oar and when this failed dived overboard in a futile effort to save him.

The Arrowhead Beach and Boat Club is located on the Chowan River 10 miles north of Edenton and has drawn many Virginia Beach members in recent months.

COUNCIL TAKES NO ACTION ON REPLACING BRIDGE

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Monday heard a letter from a Chesapeake Beach resident requesting that the controversial footbridge across Pleasure House Lake be replaced but took no action on the matter.

The bridge was partially destroyed Thursday night by the community's volunteer firemen after 2½-year-old Michael Shawn McCullough, son of one of the firemen, was found drowned under the makeshift span.

The firemen continued dismantling the bridge Friday night and completed the task Saturday afternoon. One of the volunteers reportedly fell through a rotten plank during the operations.

Dismantling of the bridge, located on private property owned by the A. E. Swell estate, has caused quite a bit of controversy in the Chesapeake Beach community.

Elmer King of 4816 Algonac Avenue, owner of a restaurant, snack bar, ballroom and parking lot at the foot of Pleasure House Road, which ends at the footbridge, took out a warrant Friday night charging Fire Chief Fred Quist with destruction of public property.

King contended he would lose his business without the bridge. Virginia Beach Attorney Theodore Boyce, representing King, said his client plans to take action in Circuit Court asking for reconstruction of the bridge.

King's warrant against Quist was picked up by city police Saturday morning but had not been served Monday. Quist said the bridge was torn down "in the name of the city." His authoritative source has not been named, but the action was supported by City Attorney George Vahos and Director of Public Works Richard Webber.

"The city has put up 'condemned bridge' signs repeatedly," Webber said, "but people pulled them down and burned them in beach fires. They also pulled out planks for their fires."

A city wrecker and a flatbed truck were used in the final work Saturday. In addition to the 16 members of the fire department, four house-owners in the area joined in the demolition.

The bridge has long been termed a safety hazard. Quist said two firemen fell through holes in the bridge last summer while removing a woman who had attempted suicide. Residents and civic groups had previously approached the city about repairing or removing the span.

Unofficial sources said Monday the city is now receiving requests to replace the bridge, complaining that it is causing congested parking on weekends. Before the bridge was destroyed, swimmers parked further from the beach and walked across Pleasure House Lake to the bay shore. Now they attempt to park closer to the beach and cause congestion in the limited space.

Bayside Councilman Larry Marshall, after hearing the request for a new bridge, suggested that residents and interested persons in the community restore the bridge on their own.

CHESAPEAKE BEACH — When the mournful wail of the Chesapeake Beach Siren sounded Thursday, 1st Class Petty Officer Richard L. McCullough answered the call to find it was his own son.

No one knows for certain how 2½-year-old Michael came to drown in the stagnant waters of Pleasure House Lake, but the feelings were strong that the often-condemned foot bridge across the lake, was a factor.

While McCullough and his wife searched for Michael, the child supposedly wandered onto the foot bridge, which spans the lake from a height of about three feet. Planks were missing from the bridge and it is believed the boy fell through.

Michael was found about noon by McCullough's best friend. The body was 12 feet from the north shore in about five feet of water.

Thursday night, firemen destroyed the bridge.

Surviving, other than his parents, are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Duck of Seabrook, Ohio; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCullough of Seabrook, his maternal great grandmother, Mrs. Lucile Duck of Seabrook and his paternal great grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCullough of Seabrook.

The body will be sent from Oak Funeral Home to Vogt Funeral Home, Seabrook for services and burial.

Hall died later at the Virginia Beach Hospital.

TEEN TOPICS . . . Lucy S. Oliver

Warm days and budding greenery, gentle rains and glorious sunshine herald the season in which a young woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, engagements, and weddings.

As soon as school is out you are probably already invited to at least one wedding. Undoubtedly you have friends who are engaged. Weddings are very special occasions and everyone wants to do the correct thing.

Here are some questions commonly asked and answers that should be helpful.

Q. Who may properly give a bridal shower?
A. A relative of the bride or groom should never entertain at a shower for the girl. Any close friend of the bride-to-be may be hostess.

Q. How long should an engagement be?
A. Length of engagement varies. Usually it runs anywhere from a few months to a year. The formal engagement announcement is made three to six months prior to the selected wedding day.

An engagement affords a couple an opportunity to set future plans and to test their compatibility.

Q. What do you say to a newly engaged girl?
A. When you hear that a girl has received her diamond engagement ring, ask to see it. As you admire the ring, you can express your wishes for her happiness, but don't congratulate her. The man always receives the congratulations, since it is he who is supposed to have done the pursuing.

Q. How do you answer a wedding invitation?
A. You must reply to a wedding invitation in the form it is which it was extended to you. In other words, if the invitation is a handwritten note, you should respond with an informal handwritten note, telling the bride-to-be's parents of your pleasure at receiving their invitation and your happy anticipation of being present at their daughter's wedding (or your regret that you cannot be present).

If the invitation is a formal one, engraved or written in a formal style, a formal reply (though you needn't RSVP at all if you've been invited only to the wedding, and not to the reception following).

Write your reply on white paper in blue or black ink, phrasing it in the third person following the form and phrasing of the invitation. Here's an example:

Miss Doris O'Hara (your name) accepts with pleasure (or regrets that she is unable to accept) the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kane (the bride's parents) for Saturday, the sixth of June at four o'clock (the date and time of the wedding)

Q. Should you send a gift if you're not planning to attend the wedding?
A. You certainly don't have to send a gift if you don't attend the wedding or if you haven't been invited to the reception. If the gift is a close friend, however, you'll probably want to do so anyway.

If the gift is sent before the wedding, as it should be, address it to the future bride only, in care of her parents. If mailed after the wedding, it should be sent to the newly married couple, of course.

Next Week: Attending a church wedding.

Mailhes-Day Golf Team Win PA Tourney

VIRGINIA BEACH — Al Mailhes, settling the issue with a big three-wood approach shot on the 18th hole, and his guest from Youngstown, O., Don Day, won the Princess Anne Country Club member-guest golf tournament Sunday by one stroke.
The Mailhes-Day team came to the 18th one shot up on W. S.
(Buddy) Clement and John Battle.
After a bogey at the 17th, Mailhes unleashed a three-wood second shot at the par 4, 402-yard 18th.
The ball rolled onto the green, missed going in the cup by a couple of inches and stopped 15 feet from the hole.
Mailhes got down in two putts for his par to complete a one-under-par 69 round for a 65-hole total of 208.
The Clement-Battle twosome moved from fifth place at the outset of the round into the challenging position only to miss out because of a bogey at No. 17, winding up with a best-ball 66 and 207 total.
The medalist team of Charlie McDowell and C. W. Jobst, the 1-2 players on Princeton's freshman golf team this spring, finished third with a 70 and 208 after being second after 36 holes.
The defending champions
George Beamon and Jim James, shot a best-ball 71 for 211 and then won fourth place outright in a playoff against Jordan Ball and Ernie Keppel (69-211). James sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole for a winning birdie.
Clement and Battle, who began the final round four strokes behind Mailhes-Day, charged over the front nine in two-under

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

More Food From Less Land

One thing can be said with certainty about the use of chemicals in agriculture—and it is an enormously important thing. Without them, as a publication of the Agricultural Extension Service of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute has pointed out, "... our society would revert to a primitive state and many people would die of hunger."

The pesticides have been the source of most of the controversy. Actually, they represent only about 2 per cent of the total sales of the agricultural chemicals industry—fertilizers are the dominant product. But their value is far greater than that small percentage figure indicates. To quote the Institute again, "It is because, with a few exceptions, pesticides have been used in beneficial ways that we in the United States enjoy an abundant, wholesome, and safe food supply."

Yet, it seems, only a beginning has been accomplished. Some 95 per cent of our forest lands and 97 per cent of our permanent pasture lands have not been treated.

The annual losses caused by pests, says the Institute, reach the incredible total of $11 billion. And hard, actual experience has amply demonstrated the menace. Some years ago the tomato crop in the eastern part of this country was not sprayed with fungicides. The result was that a blight fungus destroyed more than 50 per cent of the crop in 10 states.

The problem will grow more, not less, severe. So far as our food supply is concerned, we are confronted with two opposed and formidable forces. The population increases, at a swift pace. With it, more and more land is taken out of food production and given to industrial and residential areas, highways, airports, and all the other demands of modern civilization. To feed more people from a decreasing acreage means that the utmost use must be made of advanced agricultural techniques—and the proper use of chemicals is one of the most important of them.

With A Flick Of A Switch

From an article in Investor's Reader: "With a flick of the switch, the housewife in Pasadena starts to broil her steak with power generated in British Columbia. Her cliff dwelling sister in Manhattan will vacuum her apartment with power drawn either from Labrador or Long Island. Her upstate New York cousin may do his early morning milking with the aid of juice generated in pre-dawn Indiana."

"All these and sundry similar examples are admittedly oversimplified but they illustrate the design for increasingly effective power service being developed on the drawing boards—and in the pocketbooks—of the nation's $61 billion—assets electric utility industry."

The point is that this industry is going ahead at a record pace with innovations and developments that promise the ultimate in quality and dependability of service at a minimum cost to our homes, farms and industries. Interconnection permits power to be moved from one part of the country to another in case of need. Extra high voltage transmission lines make it possible to carry power, at voltages of 300,000 and more, for great distances. Power can thus be transmitted economically from distant locations to areas where the demand is heavy.

What this all means to the consumer is obvious. And it means something more—that the spirit of progress and experiment demonstrated by the business-managed, taxpaying utilities completely destroys any conceivable case for the tax-subsidized, tax-free socialized systems. The argument for private enterprise in the electric field is overwhelming.

Court Asks Sealed Bids On Stations

VIRGINIA BEACH — Sealed bids on the purchase of radio stations WBOB and WYLF-FM will be accepted until June 22 and will be opened at 11 a.m. that day.

Circuit Court Judge Robert S. W. Jones ordered Wednesday that the stations be sold, either separately or together, to the highest bidder.

The two stations went off the air May 23 and shortly after the court appointed Roy Marsh receiver.

Marsh recommended that the stations be sold because of the Virginia Beach Broadcasting Corporation's financial insolvency and the large expenditures necessary to get WYLF-FM back in operation. Marsh said much of its equipment has been repossessed, and that the total debt is an probable that the operation of the stations by a receiver would generate any substantial amount of revenue.

Marsh was appointed receiver after the corporation, headed by Temple S. Gray, of Washington, D.C., petitioned such action.

The Federal Communications Commission granted the stations permission to remain off the air.

On the average, one in every eight persons probably will become a hospital patient this year.

A total of $2.2 billion dollars in hospital-surgical-medical insurance benefits was paid in 1962. Another $10 million dollars was paid to insured persons for loss of income during illness or hospitalization.

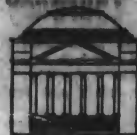

until June 1. An extension of this period will be sought but the court ruled that if no new license is granted to the new owners, the money will be refunded. Another hearing has been set for June 24.

K OF C HOLDING

COMMUNION SUNDAY

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach Knights of Columbus Council 4632 will hold its Annual Communion Sunday at St. Gregory The Great Church.

Following the 8 a.m. Mass, breakfast will be held at Pine Tree Inn, Virginia Beach Boulevard, where Father Edmund from James Barry Robinson will be the guest speaker.

NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY

FASTER, BETTER READING

Adults are improving their reading speed by about 200 words a minute and children are learning that reading is "fun" at the University of Virginia's McGuffey Reading Clinic, a division of the University's School of Education.

"We try to make persons active rather than passive in reading," says Dr. Emory P. Bliesner, director of the clinic. "Understanding of material must go along with an increased rate of speed."

Throughout the year the experimental clinic offers reading improvement programs for adults and college-level students, and during the summer, remedial programs for children. It teaches in small groups or by individual instruction, giving each student individual attention.

Most of all, the clinic tries to get its students to enjoy reading. All kinds of materials are used, many of them made or adapted by teachers in the clinic, which continually tests new materials. In fact, other teachers come to the clinic from many communities to examine materials and observe methods used by its teachers.

If grade-school Johnny has trouble with his reading, parents can bring him in for diagnostic testing, one of the clinic's services. Often the trouble is not that a child has below-level intelligence, but that he is "right-eyed" and left-handed or has trouble discriminating between spoken sounds, problems brought out in testing.

In teaching children, teachers plan entertaining activities that are learning experiences. They stress enjoying reading and reading with a purpose—for instance, small children are asked to find out "what it is like in the Black Forest" or "why the dragon is so dreadful."

Dr. Bliesner mentions with pride many students such as a 12-year-old boy who "flunked everything in sixth grade and never picked up a book voluntarily" and suddenly discovered a book could be "fun." Or a 17-year-old who was referred to the clinic and under an independent program increased his reading skill by more than two years.

Adults usually don't need remedial help, but many wish to improve their reading speed. During the spring semester in one of several courses open to adults, a group of college students and adults is being taught with film and papers, some of the clinic's more advanced materials.

Students read phrases flashed on a screen at a rate which increases with each film. They try to read from it as rapidly, thus having to push themselves, and practice still more with papers, machines which move bars down a page at a certain rate.

When they finish the course, they will, Dr. Bliesner hopes, be reading at a pace of 500 words or more a minute and maintaining their same speed—an increase of about 200 words a minute for most of them.

City Plans Get Boost

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council appropriated $36,000 Monday for a master plan of long-range municipal development. Another $1,200 was voted to rent office space over the Kellam & Esten Insurance Co. at Princess Anne for the six people expected to serve on the master plan staff.

The $5,500 salary for the plan's legal adviser will come from the Law Department budget. Planning Director F. Mason Gamge estimated the plan would cost $49,000 over a period of three years. Gamge said the money allocated so far will enable him to begin collecting basic survey data such as existing land-use information and this work could begin this summer.

In other money matters, council voted final approval of the following appropriations: City Hall parking lot, $8,500; bridge-tunnel information booth, $1,500; Recreation Department, $3,500 from the Kempsville Improvement Fund; Blackwater Volunteer Fire Department, $12,000 from the general fund; Southeastern Virginia Regional Planning Commission dues, $5,521.60; Welfare Department aid to dependent children, $20,970; Welfare Department, hospital program, $10,000; air conditioner for Welfare Building, $1,200.

BEACH, NORFOLK GROUPS COOPERATE

VIRGINIA BEACH — A. B. Crews, President of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, said that the Beach Chamber and that of Norfolk are now cooperating with each other by distributing folders from both cities at the same time.

"In this way, both Chambers will save money," Crews said. Executive Director Roy Lamore of the Beach Chamber and City Promotional Director Bill Lillyman have already begun to distribute the two cities' literature.

To coordinate efforts, the two Chambers divided the State into four routes. Each Chamber will cover two routes for a month, then trade routes for the next month.

SCA And Parents Discuss Social Code

VIRGINIA BEACH — A group of Virginia Beach High School students and parents met recently to discuss the need for a social code at the school.

Members of the Student Cooperative Association met with Mrs. Doug Hubbard, Mrs. Edmund Creelmore and Mrs. John Walker, who represented the Parents League.

The meeting was opened by SCA President Steve Strickler.

During the discussion, the following points were made:

1. An updated guide designed to clarify and to answer all questions on behavior should be printed. This guide should be the joint effort of the student as well as the parent.

2. All information and facts should be related to the different grades or age groups; eighth and ninth grades should find it especially valuable as a support and reference book.

BRIDGE-TUNNEL WILL RECEIVE DESIGN AWARD

BAYSIDE — The American Consulting Engineers Council will present its 1964 Outstanding Technical Achievement award today to the designers of Virginia's mammoth Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

The presentation will take place at the concluding banquet of the Council's convention in Denver, Colorado. Receiving the award will be Brice R. Smith, partner in the firm of Sverdrup & Parcel, consulting engineers of St. Louis.

The award-winning structure spans the edge of the Atlantic Ocean at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay. Measuring 17.6 miles from shore to shore, it is a complex of concrete trestles, two trench-type tunnels, four man-made islands, two steel bridges and 2.5 miles of causeway—plus five miles of four-lane approach roads and two toll plazas.

The American Society of Civil Engineers designated the bridge-tunnel as one of the seven modern engineering wonders of the world.

A joint venture of four major contractors completed the project in three and one-half years at a cost of $140,000,000. It opened for traffic April 15, replacing one of the world's largest ferry systems and reducing the travel time between Norfolk-Virginia Beach and New York by one and one-half hours. It also closed the last water gap in the New York-Florida Ocean Highway.

At the same time that the Consulting Engineers Council convenes in Denver, Sverdrup & Parcel's senior partner, Gen. L. J. Sverdrup, will take part in dedicating Thailand's Yanchae Dam, a $100,000 power and irrigation project that his firm designed.

C of C Prexy Gives Thanks

VIRGINIA BEACH — A. B. Crews, president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, has issued a statement of thanks to all persons who cooperated in making the recent Armed Forces Day celebration and parade such a success.

"The Armed Forces parade this year was just about the finest we have ever held and it is due to the civic-mindedness of our fine citizens," President Crews said.

"It would be difficult to single out any one individual since so many helped tremendously in making the arrangements, but a special thanks should go to E. B. Bayne, Virginia Beach Borough fire chief, who handled the overall planning of the parade," Crews continued.

The Armed Forces Day celebration and parade is an annual event here and is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Virginia Beach.

Reid Continues Family Tradition

BAYSIDE — Edwin Sidney Reid Jr. of 4905 John Silver Road, Bayside Pines, is carrying on a family tradition.

Both his father and grandfather, each with the name Edwin Sidney Reid, served as captain aide de camp to the governor during their lifetimes.

This week the surviving namesake was notified by Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. that he, too, had been appointed a captain aide de camp, an honorary post.

The appointment was made by Gov. Harrison upon the recommendation of Assistant Attorney General K. C. Petty.

Reid's grandfather served on the staff of Gov. Claude S. Swanson and his father with Gov. E. Lee Trinkle. Both were from Pennsylvania County and in the banking business and his father was a State Senator from Chatham.

Reid moved to Virginia Beach seven years ago from Richmond. He is a real estate appraiser.

RE-SURFACING UNDERWAY

VIRGINIA BEACH — The first phase of a city-wide road improvement program got underway this week with the re-surfacing of side streets crossing Atlantic Avenue.

The work is being done by the Asphalt Roads & Materials Company, Inc., whose bid of $246,125.98 won the city's first major road improvement contract since the merger.

Expected to last about 10 days, the first phase will be limited to side streets only. No work will be done on Atlantic Avenue itself.

Streets and Highways Superintendent Clinton Teets said earlier that work would be scheduled in advance to allow hotels and motels on the affected streets to advise their guests about parking.

"We have been particularly pleased with the cooperation we have received from the motel owners," Teets said. "They have handled the parking situation very smoothly."

When questioned, employees of these lodgings said to date there have been no complaints from the guests. They pointed out, however, that not all rooms have been rented this week as the real crowds of tourists won't be flocking to the beach until the weekend. By then it's hoped many of these side streets will have reopened.

According to tentative plans work throughout the city will proceed in the following order: Vir-

Day In Court For Fire Chief

CHESAPEAKE BEACH — Chief Fred Quist of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Department will have his day in court tomorrow because he is accused in tearing down a "safety hazard."

He is scheduled to appear in Municipal Court at 2 p.m. on two charges stemming from the razing of the old footbridge across Pleasure House Lake.

The charges were filed against him by two Chesapeake Beach merchants who claimed destruction of the bridge had hurt their businesses.

The merchants involved are Elmer King, owner of a snack bar, restaurant, parking lot and ballroom 200 feet from the beach, and Mrs. Charles F. Belch, manager of the Casino on Jocelyn Street near the lake.

Chief Quist and the volunteer firemen tore the bridge down over the week-end after the small son of one of the firemen was found drowned beneath it.

The fire chief said at the time he had the city's permission to destroy the bridge which he believed was a safety hazard.

Monday he was charged with destruction of public property by the two merchants. The bridge was located on property owned by the A. E. Ewell estate, according to Public Works Director Richard J. Webbon.

Webbon said he has a letter dated last September authorizing the city to remove the bridge.

Parents Seek Photos Taken Before Tragedy

VIRGINIA BEACH — The parents of a youth killed May 5 when a homemade rocket exploded are attempting to find a photographer who took the boy's last picture.

Jonathan Nelson, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Nelson, participated in a band concert at Virginia Beach High School on May 3, two days before he was killed.

A picture of the group was taken either by a professional photographer or one of the parents' attending.

Since this was the last picture taken of their son, the Nelsons are very anxious to see a print of it but have been unable to locate the person who made it.

The family was in the process of moving from the area when the tragedy occurred and have since made the move to Minnesota.

Persons who have any information on who took the picture on May 3 may contact a friend of the family, Mrs. C. C. Roy at 348-8654, or the Virginia Beach Sun-News office at 428-2401.

BEACH YOUTH TO STUDY IN SPAIN

He has been a member of the faculty of the Galtman School in Baltimore since last September and will begin his course of study at the University of Barcelona, Spain, later this summer.

Before leaving for Spain, he will spend the early part of the summer with his parents, Captain and Mrs. Lawrence Lockwood, of their home, 1140 Crystal Lake Drive.

WHY THE JET IS WORTH THE MONEY

A jet airplane costs a lot more than a horse-and-buggy. But a jet carries a lot more people, faster and further, than a horse - and - buggy ever did. It's the same with today's prescription drugs. They cure more people, of more diseases . . . and they cure them more rapidly than the old-time "horse - and - buggy" drugs ever could. That's why we say . . .

DETROIT

SIGGEST HIT with Detroit's clean-up slugger Al Kaline is his daily candy bar break. "Nothing like it to give you pep," he says as he savors a between-inning bite. And then—pitcher's journal.

Even the Little Leagues to the Majors, candy is the ideal pick-me-up power source, healthful and energy-producing. And there's nothing better in the clutch, when that extra effort is demanded after a long day in the sun.

Even if you're not an active pro, but just an amateur weekend-warrior, or bound to kitchen or office—take a tip from the big leagues and have a bite of candy to get you through the late innings. There's nothing sweeter.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Cubs edged out the Tigers on home run hits in a tight 9 to 8 score Friday night when the American Little League opened its 1964 season.

C. Wallace Sordell, long time supporter of the league, threw out the first ball and League President Rhine Adams gave the first opening speech.

The second game was held Saturday at 1 p.m. with the Rotarians defeating the Sports 8 to 5.

If your boat capsizes, stay with it. Most will still float. If there are two of you, take turns holding on to each other's wrists across the keel. That way you won't tire so fast and you'll still have some strength when assistance arrives.

SUMMER LOOMS AS BIGGEST BOAT YEAR

American waterways will be crowded with picturesque sailboats, rowing motorboats, and ordinary rowboats this year as they have never been before.

About one of five families owns a boat. The boating industry estimates about eight million boats are bobbing along the nation's inland and coastal shorelines waiting to provide weekend recreation or vacation pleasure for millions of boating fans.

But boating isn't always trouble-free. The Coast Guard reports that about 1,000 persons lose their lives in boating mishaps annually. The Nationwide Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio, says boating cost boat owners about $100 million in property loss last year.

Experts for Nationwide have been keeping their eyes on the boating boom and the increasing number of accidents on the water. They are concerned about the fact that because the insurance group insures the lives, limbs, and crafts of boaters.

"Boating is the most common accident," according to Tracy H. Wilder, Nationwide Insurance Co. president. "Another common accident is falling substances overboard. Many boats are lost or damaged through fire, explosion, theft, and windstorm," he added.

"It doesn't cost much to insure a boat," Laderer noted, "but it does take some know-how to protect the lives of those aboard when an emergency occurs."

Experts agree that many boating tragedies can be prevented if water enthusiasts do the right thing quickly. If you think you're a pretty good swimmer, compare your safety measures with those of the experts in these nine common boating emergencies.

First Emergency: You're cruising in normal fashion when your craft suddenly strikes a submerged object. The hull is punctured and water spurts into the boat.

Do this: Quickly appraise the situation: depth of water, distance from shore, size and location of hole. Try to shift weight in the boat so the hole is out of the water. Stuff the hole with rags or clothing. Use a bilge pump if you have one, and bail if possible, power your craft to shore.

Second Emergency: You're in open water and a passenger falls overboard.

Do this: Shift the engine to neutral until you're sure the fallen passenger is clear of the propeller. Toss him a line and life preserver. Circle slowly along side, stop the engine, and pull him aboard.

Third emergency: A sudden wind whips up high waves. Your craft catches and you're thrown into the water.

Do this: Stay with the boat; most boats float though capsized. If there are two of you, you can support yourselves across the hull by taking turns holding onto each other's wrists.

Fourth Emergency: You're far from shore and discover a fire aboard.

Do this: Use a fire extinguisher or, if possible, throw the burning material overboard. If the fire can't be controlled, jettison everything on the craft and stay afloat. Put on a life preserver and prepare to abandon ship.

Fifth Emergency: Your outboard motor strikes a sunken object, breaking the shear pin. The motor continues to run, but the boat doesn't move.

Do this: Stop the engine, tilt the motor back and remove the cotter pin which holds the propeller nut. Remove the nut, the propeller, and the broken shear pin. Replace the shear pin and reassemble the unit. If you don't have an extra pin aboard, signal for assistance by raising and lowering your outstretched arms.

Sixth Emergency: You're in open water and a sudden storm or squall develops.

Do this: Reduce your speed and head into the waves at a slight angle as you make for the nearest shelter or shore. If you have passengers aboard, seat them on the bottom of the boat near the centerline.

Seventh Emergency: You're heading for shore when fog or darkness closes in.

Do this: Maintain your course at a moderate speed. Use your compass to assure proper direction. Give one long horn blast per minute and turn on the craft's lights. Don't anchor your boat in fog. Eighth Emergency: You're boating in strange waters when your craft suddenly runs aground.

Do this: Check your boat for damage. If it's extensive, signal for assistance. If there is no damage, work your craft free by floating it on waves from another craft or with a tow from another boat. In coastal waters high tides may float you off.

Ninth Emergency: You're heading downstream and another craft comes toward you. It weaves a little, then holds a collision course.

Do this: Swing to starboard to pass the other boat. As shipper you should also give one short blast of the boat's horn.

"No matter what the emergency, try to keep calm," Laderer emphasized. "Haste and carelessness can quickly change a boating mishap into a disaster."

"Knowing how to meet a boating emergency—what to do, and how to do it—can help save lives and property," the Nationwide safety director added.

TWO FROM HERE GET SCHOLARSHIPS

CHARLOTTESVILLE — Two Virginia Beach students have been named to receive University of Virginia scholarships.

Claudius Floyd Mathews, 17, is one of 16 outstanding high school seniors to receive the University's Regional scholarships. This scholarship is one of the highest awards for academic achievement and potential.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Remond Mathews of Virginia Beach and a senior at Princess Anne High School.

Anthony Albert Koster, 17, received an Honor scholarship, the second highest award for academic achievement and potential. Also a senior at Princess Anne High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anthony Koster of 6400 Susquehanna Drive, Virginia Beach.

The University Regional and Honor Scholarships were established in 1952 in honor of an alumnus, Philip Francis duPont of Delaware, whose bequest in 1928 set up a trust from which about $240,000 in scholarship funds are available annually.

One Regional scholarship is granted each Congressional district in Virginia and 15 scholarships are awarded at large.

High School students were screened by regional committees composed of University alumni, on nomination by high school principals, and on the basis of grades, class standing, test scores, leadership abilities, and extra-curricular activities, character and industry. Financial need is also a factor in determining scholarship winners.

Scholarship winners were chosen from five nominees screened from each Virginia district and two applicants from each out-of-state district.

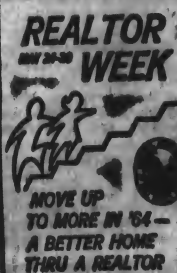

Announcement of the awards was made Saturday by the University committee on scholarships, loans and employment, which interviewed nominees and selected the winners.

Bayside Lions Stage Father, Son Affair

Lions Club held Father-Son night, Wednesday, May 20, at 7:00 p.m. at Shore Drive Inn with the president, Charles E. McCoy, presiding. W. L. Widdridge, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, "Buddy" Chandler, Granby High School football coach, who talked to the club members, their sons and guests about the importance of football in our schools, in the development of the boys' characters. He said that boys who play football must have courage, be willing to make sacrifices and must be loyal to the coach and his teammates. Chandler noted that football is one of the best things left for the youth of today because of the great change in our way of life in recent years. Charles Burlage reported that the Bayside Lions Club banner was recently taken over the North Pole by Commander Douglas Murray, who recently returned from a Navy mission to the Arctic regions. During a stop-over at Rexjavi, Iceland, Cmdr. Murray took the club banner to a Lions Club there and was presented a miniature banner by their president which he returned to Bayside. Some years ago Captain Ronald Irving, a member of the club, was sent on a mission to the Antarctic and at that time he took the Bayside Lions Club banner over the South Pole. Zone chairman, Jim Friedley was a guest and presented membership award pins to Sam Marquette and George Freeman for bringing new members into the club.

BAYSIDE ART SHOW COMPLETE SUCCESS

BAYSIDE — The weather co-operated beautifully with the second annual outdoor Art Show of Mrs. Elizabeth D'Auria's students which was held this past weekend on the grounds of the studio located at Sylvan Beach, almost on the beach. The log cabin buildings, rustic fence, and nature's live oaks, certainly lent atmosphere to the show.

The artists were all colorfully attired in smocks, beach hats, and any kind of attire that you could think of! Just like a "teacher"—on the hour, every hour, Mrs. D'Auria would come out and ring a hand bell, some of the tots in the neighborhood would mistake it for the ice cream man—but the bell was to signal that it was time to draw some more door prizes. As the visitors entered the show, they were given slips of paper to vote for their favorite picture, by number, and at the same time put their name in the barrel for the door prize. One man who won some Christmas balls Saturday, came back Sunday and his name was drawn again and that time he won an azalea!

Refreshments were served in the studio. Many of the students brought homemade cookies. Mr. George Haynes, president of Tidewater Artists and Mr. Vance Mitchell, well known artist judged the show Sunday afternoon and awarded the following ribbons: first place, oil, representational, Barbara Driscoll, Kempville Woman's Club, a picture frame, Sherwin Williams, Janaf; second place, Frances Newbern, Kempville Woman's Club, stretched canvas, Sherwin Williams, Southern Shopping Center; third place, Dorothy Buck, Ocean Park Woman's Club, pastel portrait by D'Auria. Honorable mention, Earlene Escher, studio group.

Best in the show—a watercolor of Cole Shop, Williamsburg, by Rita Vellines. Prize was an oil on portrait. The top door prize was a watercolor done by Mrs. D'Auria and a little Barbara Driscoll reached into the barrel and drew out her own name! The title of the picture was "Silver Lake—Ocracoke."

Over a hundred visitors attended the show. Mrs. D'Auria is having visiting hours at her studio on Saturday, Sunday and Monday from noon until 5 p.m.

View Of Virginia Beach

By Doris Padrick

Do you like the idea of camping, but hate the foot of the many discomforts that sometimes go with it? The perfect solution to your problem is the KADAS KAMPER. They are made right here in Virginia Beach!

The C. F. Kadas Company of Hilltop on Laskin Road has been specializing in the manufacture of trailers and other steel products for a long time. Now after years of research, derived from personal experience and preference, the Virginia Coach Camper Corporation has been formed by C. F. "Chuck" Kadas with Harry D. Church as sales manager and vice-president.

What is a Kadas Kamper? It's the old tent and camper idea gone modern... it's the comfort and convenience of home away from home... but most of all it is custom built to withstand the rigors of outdoor living.

Modern mobile homes began more or less as shelters for hunters and fishermen. The idea of mobility combined with the perfection of being snug, no matter where, boomed into the expanding luxurious mobile home industry, leaving the ones who promoted the whole idea back in the tents and out in the cold, in a manner of speaking. They were not to be denied, however. And it wasn't long before someone came up with the idea of enclosing the back of a pickup truck and taking along beds, tables, stove, icebox, etc. Now there was nothing to tow and it could go anywhere the truck could navigate. This was great, and it caught on fast. But there were problems, many of them, that only experiments and trials and errors could overcome.

Kadas and Church recognized the many shortcomings of the campers available, and went to work designing and manufacturing the best camper possible. The KADAS KAMPER is the remarkable result.

A master craftsman in the art of fabricating steel, Mr. Kadas will design and custom build a camper to your particular wants and needs. Solid construction is his main concern—on all steel welded frame at the beginning for each and every one. The exterior will be all aluminum. You may choose any paneling interior that you desire, such as birch, mahogany, redwood, etc., and it will be fastened with machine screws to insure equality. An electrical system will work either from a twelve volt battery or regular 110 volt house current... combined chemical-water toilet with vent and outside discharge tank, plus shower and lavatory... all steel double sink... a real refrigerator, not an ice box... four burner gas stove... comfortable bunks... dining table with benches which may be converted into more sleeping area... jalousied windows... completely insulated with fiberglass... these are some of the unusually fine features built into every Kadas Kamper. The owner-manufacturers of these superior campers welcome you to watch yours being built, or just to watch!

The Kadas Kamper is made to fit any pickup truck body, but Mr. Church stresses that you must make sure your truck is capable and properly equipped to handle a camper, and be ready and willing to help you with any problems and to give you any specific information which will enable you to become a happier camper.

No special license is needed when you have a camper on your truck as it is part of your truck, and neither will you need any additional insurance as your truck insurance covers it on the road, and your homeowners policy takes care of it when it is at home.

Any and all of you camping enthusiasts will benefit from a visit through a Kadas Kamper... and if you take one with you on your next trip, you will be taking your best friend.

Elementary School Fitness Winners Are Named

by Pete Hardy

GREAT NECK — The Physical Fitness Championships for the city's elementary schools were held before hundreds of cheering school children Thursday at Cox High School Stadium.

After a brief, but warm welcome by Harold S. Whitehurst, Director of Parks, Recreation and Physical Education, Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Cox told the participants that "In these exciting times, it's more important than ever to give sound bodies and minds. Not only does the city provide for this instruction, but encourages it." Reminding the participants that not every one can be a winner, Cox posed on the timeless advice that "It's not whether you win or lose that counts; it's how you play the game."

Then the 792 contestants, winners from the fourth through seventh grades of elementary schools of Virginia Beach City Public Schools, took the field for simultaneous athletic contests.

Schools represented were: Aragona, Bayside, Cooke, Court-house, Creeds, Dey, Kempville Elementary, Kempville Meadows, King's Grant, Linkhorn Park, Lufkin, Lynnhaven, Malibu, Pembroke, Plaza, Shelton Park, Tella, Thoroughgood, Trentwood, and Woodstock.

From the tremendous response and enthusiasm shown, the children appeared keenly interested in their respective schools winning this seventh annual fitness meet. But Thoroughgood swept the field, taking the honor shields for the fifth, six and seventh grades. Thoroughgood also won the City Championship Shield.

Bayside turned in a fine showing on the fourth grade level to win that grade's shield.

School officials presented the award shields to student representatives as follows: Elementary Supervisor, Mrs. Grace Harrell to Georgia Tuttle, Bayside, fourth grade; Miss Louise Luxford, director of Personnel and Elementary Supervisors, to Pete Withers, fifth grade, Thoroughgood; Elementary Supervisor Mrs. Mildred Wilson to Diana Rountree, sixth grade, Thoroughgood; Elementary Supervisor Philip Meekins to Debbie McDermott and Suzi Sewell, seventh grade, Thoroughgood. Principal Walter Carroll of Cox High School presented Rickie Reed the City Championship Shield won by Thoroughgood.

Sixteen new records were set (indicated by *) and the first place winners were as follows:

50-YARD DASH:
Girls: Susan Clauser, Plaza, fourth grade; Eleanor Conn, Linkhorn Park, fifth; Diana Rountree, Thoroughgood, sixth; and Debby McDermott, Thoroughgood, seventh, who tied the old record.

Boys: Donny Winslow, Kempville Elementary, fourth grade; Danny Kilmurray, Shelton Park, fifth; Kenny Hodges, Kempville Elementary, sixth; and Rickie Reed, Thoroughgood, seventh.

SHUTTLE RUN—
Girls: Holly Brooks*, John B. Dey, fourth grade; Donna Burdon, Thoroughgood, fifth (old record); Nancy Nagle*, Thoroughgood, sixth; and Denny Newton*, Trentwood, seventh.

Boys: Paul Bready, Trentwood, fourth grade; Buddy Byrd*, Thoroughgood, fifth; Mike Eakin, Thoroughgood, sixth (old record); and Merrill Voliva, W. T. Cooke, seventh.

Girls: Stephanie Schroeder*, Bayside, fourth grade; Nancy Potter, Linkhorn Park, fifth; Tiffany Clements, Linkhorn Park, sixth; and Suzi Sewell, Thoroughgood, seventh.

Boys: Michael Davy*, Lynnhaven, fourth grade; Mike Shea, Kempville Elementary, fifth; Phillip Bender, Linkhorn Park, sixth; and Charles Lanfranchi, Woodstock, seventh.

PULL-UPS (BOYS ONLY)—
David Le Clair (21), Aragona, fourth grade; Pete Withers (28), Thoroughgood, fifth; Michael Foster (34), Kempville Elementary, sixth; and Mike Kelly (22), Lynnhaven, seventh.

Noting that records were set for push-ups in every grade and that a total of 16 new records were set, Harold Whitehurst commented that it could be due to a number of things. "The schools have better equipment. Teachers take more interest," he said. "Also competition is keener with more new schools complete with gymnasiums."

Physical Fitness Shields are accepted by students on behalf of their schools. In the center Rickie Reed and Walter Carroll display the City Championship Shield won by Thoroughgood. Standing, left to right, are Debbie McDermott and Suzi Sewell, Thoroughgood, holding 7th grade shield with Phillip Meekins; Diana Rountree and Mrs. Mildred Wilson with Thoroughgood's 6th grade shield; Pete Withers and Miss Louise Luxford with Thoroughgood's 5th grade shield; Georgia Tuttle and Mrs. Grace Harrell with Bayside's 4th grade shield. Ft. Story Is Leader Among Blood Givers FORT STORY — During the present fiscal year of 1964, the Tidewater Regional Bloodmobile Center has visited the Fort Story installation on four occasions. Each successive visit has been most gratifying judging from the increased interest of the Fort Story units' blood donations.

The first FY 64 has been an excellent year, as predicted by Fort Story Red Cross director, Mr. Walter Bowles, for the Bloodmobile activities. Units of the post began the fiscal year on the 2 July 63 visit with 189 units thus setting a precedent that was bettered with each successive visit to Fort Story throughout the year.

The second visit, 8 November 63, netted the Bloodmobile Center some 363 pints, thus exceeding the quota expected by 163 units. Percentage wise, the 153th Transportation Company, 10th Battalion, led Fort Story units with 62% participation.

The third visit in March, 1964 by the Blood Center, according to Mr. Bowles, local Red Cross director, was led by the 568th Transportation Company with 158 donors or 46%. The 153th Trans. Co. followed with 23%. All in all this latest Bloodmobile visit resulted in a high total of 329 pints.

The Tidewater Regional Blood-mobile's visit to Fort Story recently in May 1964 received 258 pints of blood for this most worthy cause.

The 153th Transportation Company of the 10th Trans. Battalion

Local Men In Top Group

VIRGINIA BEACH — Charles N. Fuller, CLU; Russell A. Gills, Jr., J. Richard Gornly, Edward R. Land, D. Conrad Little and James A. Leach III, all of Virginia Beach, have qualified for the 1964 regional sales conference of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, scheduled for The Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., June 1-3. They are associated with the LeVe B. Dickerson Agency in Norfolk.

Qualification is based on 1963 sales and service records. With $1 million in sales through Connecticut Mutual, Leach and Little were also eligible for the company's Top Corps, as well as the Honor Corps, an organization of outstanding representatives.

Land, Little, Fuller and Gills also received membership in the Honor Corps.

(Term), Commanded by Capt. Boyce W. Irwin lead the post with 52 pints from this unit and 870th Transportation Company, commanded by 1st Lt. James Keris running a close second with 61 pints. The civilians on post came up with 18 pints. According to Mr. Bowles, "This excellent showing by the units of the post is evidence of their high regard for the Red Cross. The dispensary, Officers Wife's Club, NCO Wife's Club and Service Club did much to assure the success of the drive."

Justifiably proud, Fort Story units and civilian personnel will continue to contribute their blood and time to make each successive visit of the Tidewater Bloodmobile Center successful and most profitable.

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK

SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

Green Beans in Exotic Entree

Frankfurters and blue lake green beans take a tip from exotic island cooks and team up with pineapple chunks in a zingy sauce for "Beans and Franks Hawaiian." Serve this economical, easy-to-do but elegant mélange over fluffy hot rice for a meal that truly satisfies.

Stringless blue lakes remove the drudgery from much cooking. Heated in their own liquid with seasonings to taste as a vegetable; marinated in a piquant dressing as a salad; or combined with other vegetables, meat or fish in casserole dishes, these pole beans are always ready to use straight from the can. They are grown especially for canning in the lush Pacific Northwest where ideal climate and an abundance of water help to guarantee tender, full-bodied green beans for your everyday eating enjoyment.

Beans and Franks Hawaiian

1 can (1 lb.) blue lake green beans	1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
8 frankfurters	1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger
1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) pineapple chunks	1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons soy sauce	1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar	1 tablespoon cold water
1/2 cup chopped onion	Hot cooked rice

Drain beans. Slice frankfurters diagonally about 1/4 inch thick. Combine with beans, pineapple and syrup, soy sauce, vinegar, onion, mustard, ginger and pepper. Bring to boil; simmer, covered 8 to 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch and water. Stir into bean-frank mixture; cook and stir until clear and thickened. Serve over rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

High on the list of "Dishes Men Like" are broiled ham steak, mixed green salad tossed with crisp sweet onion rings and—French Fried Potatoes. Idaho's famous potatoes and large mill-franchised Sweet Spanish onions are in the markets now, at their best and in abundance. They will make the meal.

For Perfect French Fried Potatoes Every Time

1. To start with: choose an Idaho "bake," the potato with the russet, net-textured skin and uniformly oval shape. The qualities of mealy-dryness which make for fine baking are needed for superlative "French Fries."

2. To prepare: cut large or medium-size pared Idaho potatoes lengthwise, then crosswise into finger-wide strips. Put into cold water at once while the rest of the strips are being cut. Don't soak, because this lets the potato absorb water which prolongs the frying and makes the potatoes oily and soggy. Dry potato strips thoroughly with paper towels.

3. To fry (one stage method): fill the fry kettle about one-half full of solid shortening or oil. A 4-quart kettle or electric saucepan will take about 3 pounds of solid shortening or three pints of oil. Heat fat to 365-380 degrees F. using a deep-frying thermometer if you do not have an appliance temperature control. Leave fry basket in fat while heating. Raise basket; add raw potato strips to cover bottom of basket. Putting in too many strips at once brings down the temperature, lengthens cooking time, causing fat to be absorbed by potatoes.

Lower basket into fat. Fry about 5 minutes or until strips are tender and golden-brown. Remove basket from fat; drain for a few seconds, shaking basket open or twice. Drain on paper towels placed on cake racks, in single layers. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Serve at once, very hot. Keep fried potatoes warm in 300 degree F. oven until all are cooked. Do not cover or stack.

4. In a hurry? Take a package of "grown-in-Idaho" frozen "French Fries." Follow the so-easy directions. Even when an "Idaho" is frozen, it has the same great flavor, grown in to stay in. P. S. Idaho's Sweet Spanish onions are large and round, with crisp skins of golden-brown, sometimes creamy-white. Use in salads, sandwiches, as relishes; French-fried and better-fried, creamed, stuffed and baked. All of these—Men Like!

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

Go on an economy drive this vacation

Sure you can just about run a Chevy II on peanuts. But don't let its economy fool you. This family car can take the whole gang along on any trip you want to make. In plenty of comfort and a whole lot of style. Its range of power makes fun out of turnpikes and mountain roads alike. (Makes each gallon of gas work overtime, too!) Inside, a Chevy II Nova is tailored for travel. Child-proof upholstery, trip-size trunk and glove box, dual sun visors and deep-twist carpeting are just a few standard features.

That roomy, rugged body by Fisher is as easy to look after as it is to look at. In fact, Chevy II virtually cares for itself with a battery-saving Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes, long-life muffler and self-cleaning rocker panels that help prevent rust by flushing out salt and other corrosives.

There's a Chevy II for everyone—sedans, wagons and sport models. A price for everyone, too. Because now is Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's. Time to get the most fun from your new car and make a great deal on your old one!

Of course you're not supposed to be so practical when you plan a vacation. But being this practical won't spoil a bit of the fun. Should add to it, in fact, for the rest of the year. And that's about fifty weeks' worth. Every year.

NOTES FROM YOUR AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Phony Tree Experts
Suburban Homeowners

Diagnosing ailments that aren't present and "marking" them with worthless remedies is the game of phony "tree experts" who ply their trade from door to door.

Homeowners with great affection for their shade trees often are easy prey for the tree or garden racketeers.

The racketeer will usually come to the door, announce that your tree is on the verge of being destroyed by insects or disease, and then try to sell you on his "scientific" treatment.

There are some insecticides to avoid. Deal with people who are established business men, license of insecticide applicator or similar agency of any state, and check with my office, before business is done or insecticide is used before leaving over cash to suspicious operators.

New Trees Should Be Staked

Many new trees are lost each year because homeowners fail to stake them properly. Trees that are not staked will often grow crooked. A 2 by 2-inch wooden stake or metal pipe should be used to hold the tree in place while it grows.

It is best to place the stake in the hole before filling in around the new tree. The stake may damage roots if placed after the tree is planted. Set the stake about 2 feet in the ground, but leave it high enough above ground to support the tree.

When one stake is used, place it on the side of the prevailing wind. Thread a wire through a piece of garden hose and tie this around the tree and stake to hold the tree in place. The hose is to keep the wire from cutting the bark of the tree.

Another method is to use guy wires or cables. These should slope from about half way up the trunk to the ground at an angle of about 45 degrees. The upper ends of the wire are attached with lag screws or by threading the guy wire through a piece of hose. The lower ends of the wire are anchored to stakes driven deeply into the ground. Generally three wires or cables are placed around a large tree. Do not use guy wires in places where it is possible for people to stumble over them at night.

Wrapping the tree trunk will retard evaporation of moisture from the bark. It protects the bark from the hot rays of the sun and often prevents sun scald. Wrapping also prevents wood borers from attacking the tree.

Burlap is a good material for wrapping tree trunks. Special paper is also available for this purpose, and can be obtained from most nurseries and lawn and garden centers.

Caring for Young Forest Plantings
Like most young things, new plantings of forest trees need plenty of tender, loving care! The care given a forest plantation soon after establishment may well mean the difference between success or failure.

Where planting is done on a cover or partly stocked land, brush often becomes so dense that it will seriously affect the chances of the young trees surviving. When this occurs, the unwanted growth should be destroyed. Also any undesirable older trees on the area should be removed or deadened.

Protection from fire is a "must" in all phases of successful tree farming. A plantation can be wiped out in a short time by a single wild fire. Here are some of the major things to remember about protection against fire:

Be particularly watchful during dry spells and during the fall and spring fire seasons. Be prepared. Have fire fighting equipment, such as an axe, fire rake, long handled shovel and water handy.

Don't Cut Daffodil Foliage After Flowers Fade

Daffodil foliage should not be cut after the flowers fade. It is through ripening foliage that enough strength is stored in the bulbs to produce flowers next year.

During the late spring many homeowners forget about their daffodils and fail to keep them weeded or watered during dry periods. It is important to remember that the foliage needs to be kept healthy as long as possible to develop good bulbs for the next flowering season.

Mulches are especially beneficial during the late spring to help conserve soil moisture. Bulbs often need to be dug and replanted. The time bulbs should remain in the soil varies but they should not be dug until after the foliage dies down. Separate them according to size and replant immediately. It is best to select a new location for the replanting of bulbs.

To insure color during the summer in the flower border where daffodils are located, set out annual plants such as petunias, zinnias, or marigolds. The summer bloom of these flowers will cover up the drab appearance of the dying daffodil foliage.

Experimental Grass Hybrids Produced

Quickgrass—a plague to many farmers for a long, long time—may have its uses after all.

U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists say hybrid grasses with highly desirable forage qualities have been produced experimentally by crossing created wheatgrass with the common weed, quickgrass.

The scientists are trying to produce a stable hybrid with the vigor and leafiness of quickgrass and the drought-resistance and better seed quality of created wheatgrass.

In a totally different area of research, scientists are using the sterile-male technique of insect control in this year's campaign against the Mexican fruit fly.

If the biological control technique is successful, it will eliminate the need for conventional pesticides in a cooperative U.S.-Mexican effort to protect fruits and vegetables.

The technique is similar to that being used in the southwestern campaign against the screwworm, a pest of livestock. It involves the release of artificially reared and sterilized male insects into infested areas to mate with native females of the species. Eggs from these matings do not hatch.

For each 100 patients in a short-term general hospital (one which admits patients with all types of illnesses), 237 employees are required.

4-H Activities and Events
C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"Progress is the activity of today and the assurance of tomorrow."—Emerson

Hello there! As we make plans for our summer 4-H activities, let's look back over the progress of the 4-H club members so far in 1964. It certainly has been a busy time for everyone—4-H members, leaders, and Extension Agents.

4-H Council is Active
The 4-H Council, which consists of the officers and junior leaders of the eight 4-H clubs in the City have planned and conducted four outstanding activities this past winter and spring. The Council banquet drew 40 members and parents. The Share-the-Fun program had 14 acts, 10 persons participated in the Public Speaking Contest, and the members readily served refreshments to over 250 people at the recent 4-H Steer Show and Sale. Chief planners of these activities included Donna Murphy, Sharon Brown, Theresa Pecsek, Joe Pecsek, Ruth Anne Oliver, Mary Burgess, and Lee Durham.

4-H Steer Show and Sale
The Chesapeake-Virginia Beach 4-H Steer Show and Sale, held at Tidewater City was an outstanding success. There were eight Holstein cows, the Tidewater area and 37 steers from the cities of Virginia Beach and Chesapeake. All of the club members had outstanding steers but special credit goes to Theresa Pecsek who had the Champion Hereford, and Reserve Champion steer of the Show; to Michael Ives, who had Reserve Champion Angus (I do hope you were able to see Mike's steer on display in front of the Black Angus Restaurant at the Beach); and to Stephanie Pecsek, who had the reserve Champion Hereford Steer. Also to Faye Frost, Jim Salmons, and Samuel Collins, who placed 1st, 2nd, and 3rd respectively in the Fitting and Showing Contest. Thanks are in order for the breeders, sponsors, buyers, and parents who made this project possible.

4-H Automobile Care & Safety Project
The 4-H Auto Project group has just completed its series of regular instruction meetings. Eleven club members participated in these meetings in which they learned about the rules of the road, highway safety, car care, and how an automobile functions. Summer activities are planned to include a visit to an automobile assembly plant, and a display of customized cars. The project will be conducted on a community basis this coming fall. The cooperation of the Police and Safety departments of the City, automobile dealers and salesmen, and service station owners make this project possible.

The 4-Hers of Virginia Beach were represented in District (Southeast Virginia) contests this spring. Thirteen 4-Hers from the City Participated in events from Public Speaking to Bread, Foods, Clothing and Dress Revue Demonstrations to Soil Judging and Livestock Judging.

To date, we have confirmation that six of these 4-Hers will participate in the State contests to be held in Blacksburg at VPI, during the State 4-H Short Course. They are: George Lee (Public Speaking); Ruth Anne Oliver (Share-the-Fun); and the Land Judging Team of Joe Pecsek, Jim Brickhouse, David Brodeur and Jerry Moulton. Word is not yet in yet but we hope that the Livestock Judging Team of Lee Durham, Butchie Parker, and Johnny Moulton will also be able to attend. Both of these teams placed third in the District Contests.

Community Clubs are Busy
This spring has seen much activity by the community clubs also. They have conducted project meetings in such areas as clothing, cooking, livestock production, safety, citizenship, and recreation, and have held such events as bake sales, and open houses to acquaint more people with the 4-H program.

Yes, the 4-Hers have been active and in doing so have developed responsibility, leadership, and a sense of fellowship with one another—across the street, across the community, across the city, and throughout Southeast Virginia. Let's continue to strive to make the best better.

right on top of modern, well-served Hampton Roads

Fly over Virginia's Tidewater area. You'll see plants like this on deep water channels. You'll see others beside Hampton Roads harbor, from which those channels radiate up to 100 miles inland. Either location could give your plant the competitive advantage of Southern manpower. And you'd be right on top of one of America's greatest ports. Served by 100 ship lines. Backed by five major railroads. And now crossed by the seventeen and a half mile Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel that brings your northern markets hours closer.

Girl Feels She Is "Courting" Trouble

By C. P. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "Do all teenagers have serious problems? I believe I am in love with a boy older than myself, yet wonder if it isn't just a physical attraction. We want, both of us, to further our education, but all he talks about is love and getting married. — love now, marriage later. I have been sneaking out to meet him, telling lies to my parents, who have been so good to me. He has even suggested I come and visit him when he is in another city. My better self tells me I am 'courting' trouble. And, I wonder if I am too weak to use good judgment. He thinks his suggestions are all right as far as modern morals are concerned." OUR REPLY: He wants you to think his suggestions are "all right." He knows better and so do you. Each individual sets his own concept of moral behavior. Your problem is not unique. You are, indeed, "courting" trouble. And, each time you "break out," tell a lie, or do something with which your conscience does not agree, you are paying another installment on future trouble and disappointment. "Modern morals" is a meaningless phrase. Right is right, wrong is wrong. It has been so since the beginning of time. The individual who breaks the law and gets caught, is certain to be punished for this offense. He may prevent what he considers a valid excuse when he has his day in court, yet the circumstances are not likely to be so extenuating that the judge will overlook the fact that the law has been broken and that he is required to pass sentence upon the offender. You have good judgment. Use it. If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COLUMBIA AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, MD.

Theatre Goes Into Rehearsals

Wedgewood dinner Theatre, Williamsburg, re-entered the repertory state of being, recently, as cast members of "Bus Stop" went into rehearsal of Henry Kurnitz's wily adapted satire on french fidelity, "A Shot In The Dark."

A comment made many times in the dressing room by actors moments before going on stage for the evening's performance, jokingly of course, is, "What play are we doing?"

Timothy L. Jones who plays Virgil in "Bus Stop" and Claudine Iddings, Sound Director, have the mountainous task of learning pun-type dialogue and developing characterizations which are slight deviations from the American norm, to say the least.

Claudine portrays a saucy french maid, naive to the point of near idiocy, caught in a web of murder intrigue where she is accused of killing her lover who incidentally happens to be her employer's chauffeur. It turns out that the lovely young maid had been laying an affair with her employer, Benjamin Beaurever, portrayed by Frank Sandoz, now performing as lecherous Dr. Lyman in "Bus Stop." His wife Arden plays his wife Dominique in "Shot," and drudge in the current show.

Timothy, as a young idealistic court magistrate, is handed the task of proving that Jeanie, the maid, is guilty of killing her lover, (she was found lying beside him by the bed with a gun in her hand, and that's all she was wearing), but he instead discovers her innocence, much to the chagrin of the chief prosecutor.

Marty Davis who now plays the bus driver in "Bus Stop," is seen as the magistrate's cynical assistant.

Sandy Wade transforms herself from a wide-eyed waitress of seventeen who is enthralled with life and love in "Bus Stop," to a slatternly sleepy-eyed prison matron in "Shot."

Paul Iddings, who has captured the hearts of Virginians with his direction of "Bus Stop," is directing "Shot" with double takes and double barreled attacks, designed to keep audiences in constant laughter.

The current run of "Bus Stop" is scheduled to end, May 23, and "Shot" will begin, May 25. Sunday will be dedicated to striking Grace's diner and erecting Sevinge's office.

PUGGY on PUPPY

Children Enjoy Princess Fare

The children of Virginia Beach have been taking full advantage of the past several months of the special children matinees being held at the Princess Theatre on Virginia Beach Boulevard. Each Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. the fun starts with "Uncle Jim" the clown as M.C. conducting "Kid" participation activities on stage, the "Beetle-Bugles" appear twice monthly, they are Bill Havi, Bill Sheely, Charles Curtis and Bob Chapman, local teenagers who pantomime the over zealous English group. Birthdays are honored each week as "Birthday Buddies" are called to the stage and sung to by the audience. Prizes are given and then cartoons, a serial and specially selected feature are presented and the children are ready to leave by 12:15 p.m.

Mr. Wannell, manager of the Princess has been working with young people over 15 years and has a remarkable grasp of their entertainment wants and needs. He says, "I try to play what the boys and girls want to see, and sometimes this conflicts with what Mom and Dad would care for. I have four boys of my own who are pretty tough critics, they let me know very quickly if I start 'tousing' up the shows." "Children," says Mr. Wannell, "are the most loyal of all audiences provided they are thoroughly entertained. They are also the most enthusiastic, and never get over the thrill of cheering the good guys and booing the villains. They are quick also to get you off stage if things get dull."

Most features are selected from the "Children's Film Library," which is a listing of pictures that have been approved by parents, clergy, and scholars over the years. The list is revised from time to time as parent and children outlook of entertainment changes.

After 12 years, a regular series of "Kiddie Matinees" has been revitalized in the area. If you feel they are not wanted, visit the Princess Theatre on a Saturday morning and watch the stampede of happy howling youngsters giving mom a three hour rest, and having a ball at "Princess Kiddie Time."

Beetle-Bugles pantomime English cousins during "Princess Kiddie Time". Local teenagers Bill Havi, Bill Sheely, Charles Curtis and Bob Chapman make up the group.

The Gateway Trio

THE SHADOWS OPENS TONIGHT

VIRGINIA BEACH — Big famous dance music of Lester Lanin. To complete the scene a Gay Nineties Room will open this year at the Shadows with Banjo and Piano, a room for reminiscing the Past.

Set against the brick stage and plush red carpeting of the Shadows the Gateway Trio offers a refreshing presentation; they are entertainers over and over, experienced, professional and dedicated musicians. Their Capitol recording "The Mad, Mad, Mad, Gateway Trio," was a tremendous success, receiving rave reviews in Variety and Billboard. The Gateway Trio make an evening with their plucky, swinging music and delightful comedy.

Across the country from the White House to California, people everywhere have danced to the rhythm of Lester Lanin. His talented bands can adapt to every musical taste and at the Shadows there is always room to dance.

Scheduled to play the Shadows are such renowned acts as the Serendipity Singers, Bud and Travis, The Phoenix Singers, The Gaslight Singers, and The Highwaymen. At the Shadows this summer there will always be something happening.

Rufe Davis of "Petitot Junction" turned pro after he won $5 as a barnyard mimic in a high school amateur contest in Magnolia, Oklahoma.

Rehabilitation and retraining methods can help restore the stroke patient to useful living, Tidewater Heart Association says.

 East won with the ace of hearts, returned a small heart, hoping to get West in again to lead through the king of diamonds. South trumped the second heart lead, cleared the trumps, ending in the closed hand, went on to establish the club suit by finessing West's king twice. Returning to his own hand once by trumping dummy's last heart and again by leading dummy's low spade, South took his good clubs, then gave up a losing diamond to make contract.

Are We Running Out of Water Fit to Drink? - Junior's First Bont
A Few Secrets for Travelers BY EDWARD STREETER

Suburbia Today

In This Issue . . .

Running Out of Water? . . . page 8

Why, when nature provides us with at least 12 times the water we need, are our supplies getting dangerously low? Just last summer in Lansdale, Pennsylvania, the fire department had to draw water through long hose lines from another town. And around Dallas, Texas, water has been sold for 50¢ a gallon at the supermarkets. It's a frightening situation in many fast-growing towns and a costly one—and here's what they are doing about it.

Home to Travelers . . . page 10

Planning to take your family abroad this summer? Here are some valuable tips from Edward Streeter, author of "Skool Scandinavia" and "Chairman of the Bored," who recently made a 4,600-mile motor trip along the ridge of mountains that run grandly across Europe from Spain to Yugoslavia.

Why, Mommy? . . . page 20

Ignorance can be bliss and Mother can come up with all the answers just by flossing with a few well-chosen words—that is, until her children begin to get wise to her. One mother looks back longingly to the time when all that her children wanted of her was an imagination as wild as their own.

Down to the Sea . . . page 30

The thrill of manning his own boat is a priceless experience for your child and one of the best investments you can make for him. Give him a small boat, of course, a triple-threat dinghy or a sailing board will do. And out to sea he'll go (not too far, naturally), every day, all summer, in the wake of Captain Ahab or Horablower, sir.

GETTING AROUND

... to Our Pleasant Places and People

AS WE WENT to press we heard that Mr. Fredrick Harting, President of the Potomac Horse Center in Gaithersburg, Maryland, was about to play host to 20 distinguished guests—the famous Lipizzaner white horses from Vienna. The troupe traveled to this country in two planes, so in the unthinkable event of an accident the line would not be wiped out (for your information, Lipizzaners are born black (!) and don't begin turning white till they are four or five years old). Only the stallions are on tour—the mares never leave home—and after a good rest in the suburban green pastures of Gaithersburg, the troupe was booked to take its marvelous and beautiful equine ballet to eight cities in the U.S. and Canada, flying home next month—in two planes—after a final appearance in Montreal.

What does conscience mean to you? Here's an old Indian's interpretation posted near a church in Scottsdale, Arizona: "It's a little three-cornered thing in my heart that stands still when I am good, but when I am bad, it turns around and the corners hurt a lot. If I keep on going wrong, by and by the corners wear off, and it does not hurt any more."

Reader Marti Cole has come up with an idea for teen-agers who are looking for a job for the summer. In Encino, California, a group of girls have established their own business known as "Pool Sitting." During the summer months these young ladies can get their sunbats and earn money at the same time by tending children around the many family swimming pools in Southern California. Nice work if you can get it!

Thanks for the tip, Mrs. Leo Fevner of Palatine, Illinois. For a special breakfast treat, serve your children pink pancakes (or any color you like). Just a few drops of food coloring in the batter will do the trick. But be sure your husband is sleeping late, she warns, unless he likes surprises early in the morning.

Another idea comes from Mrs. Monty Koslover of Reading, Massachusetts. Those white stains on red-colored brick steps caused by salts used to melt icy spots this past winter can be whisked away by applying liquid-wax shoe polish (or blood for red brick and brown polish for brown). It's great for improving the appearance of fire-place brick, too.

A whole bagful of Caribbean bargains

(Like Puerto Rico for $122. Jamaica for $159. Antigua for $161. Barbados for $189.)

That's all it costs to fly Pan Am to the Caribbean and back.

The Puerto Rico fare is Jet Thrift Express. The Jamaica fare is 17-day* Jet economy. The others are 21-day† Jet economy. All are round-trip from New York.

From Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore/Washington and Miami, fares run slightly higher in some cases, quite a bit lower in others.

Some more round-trip bargains from New York:

A 17-day Jet economy ticket to Nassau, $126.

21-day† Jet economy: Guadeloupe $167, Martinique $177, St. Lucia $181.

21-day Clipper® economy to St. Martin: $177.

30-day Jet economy: Dominican Republic $160, Curaçao or Aruba $220. Haiti $183, 30-day Clipper economy.

If you don't care for a ticket with a time limit, pick a Thrift Express and economy fare. Fly to St. Thomas, for instance, for $140, or St. Croix for $146 (including the cost of a connecting flight from San Juan).

And here's a bonanza of a bargain: up to 12 islands for the price of one on a round-trip ticket to Trinidad. 21-day† Jet economy fare: $209.

Ready to go? Just name your bargain and pick your flight. Pan Am has 59 Caribbean Jet flights a week from New York alone. Any one of them will give you the sure feeling that comes from flying the best there is.

ing space—"Go ahead, you're all right," she said. "Your fender will give."

A man would do this only to his wife, says Cheryl Hartman of Burbank, California. Recently at a party her husband Ross pulled her aside and whispered, "Your left stocking seam is crooked." Hastily, so as not to be noticed, she straightened it, then whispered, "Is the right seam OK?" "Sure," he replied. "It's seamless."

Is the din of jets, lawn mowers, tv sets, and autos bothering you? It bothered Victor Block of Bethesda, Maryland, and so he looked into the recent findings of acoustic expert Lewis S. Goodfriend. With sound-level meter and noise analyzer in hand, Mr. Goodfriend has systematically charted over 100 suburban communities on the eastern seaboard. His conclusion? The increase of neighborhood noises in the past 10 years has strained the tolerance of many residents almost to the limit.

Four-year-old Erich of Newton, Massachusetts, was overheard by his mother as he talked to his new puppy. "You mustn't chew me," he was saying. "Bones are for chewing. People are for lapping."

"Let me call you sweetheart," said Tom Sheridan, 85, of Marietta, Georgia, to Miss Alma Mayfield 62 years ago. No doubt she took him seriously because they've been going steady ever since, in what might be considered the longest courtship on record. He calls her daily, and they have a date together at least once a week, usually on Saturday, and Tom still hops the bus into Atlanta, where Alma lives. Has marriage been mentioned in all these years? "Oh, yes," says Mr. Sheridan, "but we always drop the subject. Guess I'm a confirmed bachelor." Could be, Mr. Sheridan... but it's leap year again!

He was a mighty mouse, but drink was almost his undoing. Early this year Richard Kaiser of Glendale, Wisconsin, returned to his basement workshop to pick up an open can of beer he had left behind. There he found seated on the top of the can a quite drunk mouse having the time of his life, completely unconcerned about Kaiser's presence. Kaiser claims (and we'll take his word for it) that the mouse spilled as it took one last nip before flipping off the can and staggering away across the floor. The tiny imbibor offered no resistance to being caught and carried outside where the cold, fresh air had the same effect it would have on anyone in his condition.

"If you're going to tell a good fish story, you'd better learn to talk like a pro," says a reader who has been known to tell a few in Arlington, Texas. "Take 'pole' for instance.

That's for hanging a flag on. Or clothes. Or beans. But once you're in a trout stream it's a rod—or you're lost. A fish 'smashes,' 'strikes,' 'busts,' or 'hits' a plug, but never 'bites' it. Bites and nibbles immediately suggest bait, and no successful trout fisherman would admit to using it. You'd better get your fish names straight, too. A 'speckled trout' in Florida is different from what's called a 'spec' in Ontario. And 'lake trout' is 'mackinaw' in the West—'togue' in the Northeast."

Now you're ready—next time you tell a whopper, they may not believe you, but at least they'll listen.

A mother herself, Adele Schweller of Kettering, Ohio, made up this Mother's Day prayer: "Let me never fail in being available, both in body and spirit, when the need arises, although that may be the moment of my greatest inconvenience. Never, never, please, God, let the immediacy of dust and dishes take priority over a five-year-old's excited invitation to come quick and see the robin hopping across the lawn. Let me learn before it's too late that listening with undivided attention to the happenings in the third grade is the spade work for the confidences I hope to share with a near adult later. Most important, let me hold my children's love lightly, never forcing or expecting great gratitude in return. Give me the capacity to adjust to that new phase of motherhood when the silver cord must be severed. Let them go freely and they'll return again and again. May I truly deserve to be called 'Mother.'"

"Not a word, please, until Ralph turns on the recorder. We are immortalizing every remark made in our conversation pit."

you get a better food freezer!

You get a better food freezer because of Kelvinator's experience as the world's largest producer of standard commercial ice cream cabinets. Ice cream requires precise temperature control. And Kelvinator uses all of its skill and experience in keeping ice cream perfectly frozen into the design of the food freezer. You get the same high quality, lasting performance and operating economy. Most cases of low temperature cabinets for ice cream and frozen foods depend on the same thing any other cabinet. Shouldn't you trust your investment in frozen foods to Kelvinator, the most trusted name?

ARE WE RUNNING OUT OF

FOR ONE WHOLE hot summer a few years back, 12,000 people in Chanute, Kansas, got water out of their faucets they didn't dare drink; it was re-treated outflow from their sewage-disposal plant.

Last summer, firemen at Lansdale, Pennsylvania, were spending their weekends forcing water with fire-truck pumps over long hose lines from nearby North Wales and Hatfield hydrants into the mains of their own towns. The water table had sunk so low in the Lansdale wells that the pumps couldn't reach it, and a reserve had to be developed in case of fire.

In Minnesota, the "Land of Lakes," people have had water rationed in the summer—no lawn sprinkling at the time grass needs it most. And around Dallas, Texas, during droughts, water has sold in the supermarkets at 50¢ a gallon.

Why are these things happening in a land where the people use less than 100 billion gallons of water a day, and lavish nature provides at least 12 times that much? Lakes are untapped and rivers flow unrestrained into the sea, but more than a thousand communities of 10,000 and more live under water-use restrictions at least part of every year. It's a mess, but by no means a hopeless one.

WHEREVER you see real-estate developments—and where don't you?—you see an increasing threat to the local sources of water. An estimated 15 million homes and 100,000 shopping centers are under way right now, in addition to the millions already built, replacing the "unimproved" stretches of woods, fields, and swamps which used to catch and hold the rain as it fell, so the earth had time to absorb it and replenish the underlying water table. Now, when rain comes, it runs rapidly off roofs, over close-cropped lawns, down macadam gutters, and is channeled to undammed rivers, while the level of the wells and other natural sources continues to sink lower and lower.

At the same time, households are demanding more water; more dishwashers are being installed, more clothes washers, air conditioners, and swimming pools. Private per capita use was 50 gallons daily in 1900, and it is 150 today. In only 10 years, industry's daily per capita use has moved from 560 to 849 and farming's from 664 to 766.

With the demand headed for orbit, we're literally troubling the water we have. Six times as much sewage is being dumped into streams today as there was 60 years ago. One quarter of it is raw, and one third has had only the settleable solids removed.

Sewage itself is getting worse. Think of the insecticides that ultimately find their way into our streams. Twenty-five years ago lead arsenate was the poison in general use; nicotinic sulphate and pyrethrum finished the list. Then came DDT, and now today there are more than 100 poison ingredients, and the use of sprays has increased tenfold. Pollution on this vast scale isn't easily filtered out to produce water that is fit to drink.

THE TROUBLE in Chanute, in 1957, was a drought that practically dried up the Neosho River, the town's only water source. With no alternative possible, an elaborate re-treatment system was set up at the sewage-disposal plant, and the outflow was pumped back into the mains. It was bacteriologically safe, but people made private arrangements to have drinking water hauled to them; some paid as high as $2 a gallon to tank-truck operators.

Chanute people knew what they were getting, but when radioactive material was poured into the waterways of the Colorado River by three uranium-processing plants, nobody knew how long the radioactivity would last; pollution properties of many of our new chemicals are not fully understood.

Our great municipal water systems are marvels of engineering and performance. But in other areas,

WATER FIT TO DRINK?

BY CALVIN
M. CRAIG

Assistant Editor,
North Penn Reporter, Lansdale, Pennsylvania

and especially in certain suburbs where building booms have lowered and contaminated the water table, there are real horror stories of what Americans have been and are drinking. Action is called for, and action on a big scale is being taken.

A typical case is in the North Penn Valley, where the town of Lansdale, as we have already seen, was finally unable to depend on its local water, even for fire protection. The towns and people in the area depend entirely on wells, and the wells, due to drought and the removal of natural cover, were going dry. And with the building of more and more houses, each with its own cesspool or septic tank (which is simply a refinement of the cesspool, settling out the solids), the threat of contamination was also increasing steadily.

THERE WAS a solution: To pipe water from the Upper Delaware, 25 miles across a watershed, lead it into the headwaters of a creek, and impound it behind a dam, creating a lake. Lake water could then be piped to the thirsty towns, and in addition the lake shore would become a park, as, on a much bigger scale, the land around our great national dams is developed into parks—man-made oases where the public and the birds and wild animals come to enjoy flowers and trees and sweet water. This was the civil engineers' solution to the problem of the sinking and contaminated local wells, but the cost, of course, was figured in millions. The needy towns could not meet it by themselves, and the county could not be expected to spend tax dollars from water-comfortable areas on North Penn's local problem. What to do?

Businessmen and industrialists of the area formed the North Penn Water Resources Association, financed a study of the situation, and laid the results before the county commissioners and the governing bodies of the 13 towns in the North Penn Valley. Realizing the project was vital to the towns' present existence and with an eye to new demands and new industries to come, the county commissioners did agree to set up a county park and lake in the undeveloped hills, on condition that the North Penn Valley did its part. Under the plan, the towns would pool and interconnect their water systems and form a North Penn Water Authority that would extend a nine-mile main to the proposed lake, and buy water as needed from the county. Their water supply would be assured, the county would get back the investment, and the new park would be a boon in an area where open space is disappearing fast.

BUT UP TO NOW, every borough and township board has been supreme in its own back yard, and the question remains: Will the towns be willing to surrender part of their domain for the sake of solving their water supply? The matter is now in the balance, and unless necessity becomes the mother of cooperation, the parching valley will be in a bad way in years to come. In water engineering they say, "Ten years from now is now." We haven't developed instant water yet.

In the township of Hempstead, Long Island, another bold new project has already begun, to improve the water supply and to solve a sanitation problem at the same time. Like the people who live in the North Penn Valley, people in Hempstead were faced with the problem of a shrinking water supply and a demand that was growing steadily; to make matters worse, they needed 250,000 gallons daily to operate their incinerators (Hempstead township, biggest in the country, has a population of 800,000). There was no Delaware River to draw on, but nearby was the whole Atlantic Ocean. Recently, the town approved the building of two giant plants to consume all their garbage and trash, and with the heat supplied by this unfailing fuel, they propose at the same time to operate a de-salinization "still" which will take the salt out of 420,000 gallons of sea water daily—more than enough to run the incinerators without taking a drop from the regular supply.

The idea persists that water ought to be practically free because it comes out of the ground. But so does oil! Dams, pipes, and engineers all cost money. The average American paid $7.86 for his water in 1950. Five years later he paid $10.65. This year's figure will come out to about $13.50. The cost would have been much more had it not been for cutting corners. Low rates are popular, but deferred improvements are expensive.

It is going to cost an estimated five billion dollars to correct the deficiencies already existing in the nation's water systems. Spreading it over 20 years, that would mean an additional annual expenditure of $250 million in an industry that must spend $500 million a year merely to keep going. And add on $810 million annually to extend facilities to the 3.5 million new water users that keep cropping up.

And all this for the kind of water we're drinking now! It would cost another $95 million a year for the next 20 years to clear up that chlorine cocktail and get around the unhealthful system of drawing our needs from rivers of sewage.

THIS IS THE SPACE AGE, and things are going upward and outward; they're going to keep on in that direction, too. When the water stored in the standpipes gets dangerously low, as it did in Lansdale, or a neighbor comes down with typhoid from a well close to our own, the price of water fit to drink may come high. We may have to go to sources safely removed from our busy towns, but there is good water to be had. We have the means and the enterprise and the know-how to bring it where it is needed and in this fortunate country, if we are careful—and only if—the reserves we can tap will continue to be way ahead of the demand.

Are you planning—or dreaming of— a family holiday in Europe? A famous rolling stone is home from a 4,600 mile tour with A Few Secrets for Travelers author of "Father of the Bride," "Steel Squidheads," "Chairman of the Board," etc.

BY EDWARD STREETER

WE COVERED approximately 4,600 miles in 53 days on an unusually beautiful and diversified automobile trip through the mountains of Europe, from Northern Spain to Southern Yugoslavia. Now 4,600 miles doesn't seem like a great distance in almost eight weeks, but motoring in Europe is quite a different story from motoring in the United States, where, on our great throughways and on the arrow-straight roads of the West, one is apt to average better than 60, unless a careful eye is kept on the creeping speedometer.

It was our failure to realize how slowly one travels that constituted one of our biggest mistakes. When we figured 125 to 150 miles in a day, we thought that we would arrive early enough in the afternoon to do some sight-seeing, but we found that these days stretched into seven hours and more of driving, and that after twisting the wheel around blind corners during most of the period, blowing the horn at each one, and being constantly on the alert for the care-free sports car that comes sweeping around in the opposite direction, there is little inclination left on arrival at the ultimate destination for anything but flopping on the bed and getting the winding road out of one's brain.

The other thing that bothered us along the route, particularly in northern Spain, is the distance between stopping points where one can be assured of a good bed and good food. The motel as we know it in the United States is just beginning to come into Europe, but it is not in existence yet in sufficient numbers to make casual traveling possible on a luxury basis.

The association of hotels known as relais, which started in France, is rapidly spreading over Europe, and the traveler would do well to inform himself of these delightful inns, situated as they are in old monasteries, castles, châteaux, and the like.

ILLUSTRATIONS BY ELISE ANNE MCCOMBS

We never saw one that did not have both excellent food and lodging. And they have the great additional advantage of being located outside the cities.

Our first experience of a relais, to give you a sample, was the House of the Grand Squire in the medieval hill town of Cordes in Toulouse. We began by lurching sumptuously in a paneled dining room looking out over the valley. The tables were covered with red linen cloths, and in addition to a good-looking waitress we were attended by the biggest nondescript white dog I had seen since "Peter Pan." He must have been the grandfather of all the Saint Bernards in the Alps with a strain of polar bear entering the family at some distant point.

We asked whether, by any chance, there were any vacant rooms, and after lunch we were led upstairs to a series of bedrooms whose walls were paneled with old oak. The blinds in the deep-set windows were carved oak planks. Each bed was covered by a huge canopy, something I have always craved to sleep under, probably due to an inherited cave instinct.

For 24 francs each we dined that night on tourin à la tomate, which was described as a soupe du pays; feuillelé au Roquefort, a kind of Roquefort puffed paste; tranche de gigot grillé, which was grilled slices of leg of lamb; a salad with cheese; and a dish called pâtisserie à la grande Écuyer. By that time I was in more or less of a stupor, so I do not remember what this last dish consisted of, but after that night in Cordes I became a roofer for relais.

I do not know the answer to the problem of distances. You can travel in two ways: one consists in stopping wherever there is anything of interest and exploring the countryside as you go along. This means that as the sun begins to set, you must take potluck in some little country inn that may or may not be good. The second method is to have a tight itinerary, as we did, which insures you of comfortable nights but which frequently involves long hours of driving and prohibits exploration, as a result of which you are bound to miss much of the color of any country.

Were I to take such a long trip again, I would most certainly take it during April,

May, and June or else during September and October. The drawback to the fall months is that the days grow shorter, and early and late in the year, if your route is over the mountains, you must take care to see that the higher passes are open. During July and August all of the countries through which we passed were in the tourist belt, which puts a strain on accommodations and makes sight-seeing much less pleasant.

During the off seasons I would be inclined to choose the bird-dog method of traveling, especially in Spain—dashing here and there as the spirit moved and taking my chances on accommodations at the end of each day.

If your route lies through Spain, as ours did, you will find that Spanish cooking, although unlike the French, can be equally good. There are taboos, unfortunately, connected with Spanish food and drink. The primary one is that the water is undrinkable. I believe that I was the only one foolish enough to brush my teeth in it. Nor must one eat raw vegetables or fruit that has not been peeled. Bottled wine is said to be safer than the raw wine of the countryside.

One-night stands are frequently necessary on a long motor trip, but they are an abomination at best, and if repeated for two or three nights in a row they can produce a road-weariness that would cause one to pass the Taj Mahal without a second glance.

We thought we had overcome this by introducing a large number of two-night stands, but these were also deceptive. Knowing that you have two nights in the same place, you unpack your bags and spread their contents all about the room, and then, before you know it, you are repacking. On a long trip such as ours, occasional three-night stands would be much more desirable, and in places where one can make side trips four-night stands would be even better. One needs free time, now and then, to go walking alone along mountain trails or out into farm country. No matter how blessed be the ties that bind traveling companions, they need to be loosened occasionally for better circulation.

WHenever you can, break the day on the road, stretch your cramped legs, and get to know the country a little better by having a picnic at noon.

On the way into Andorra, for instance, we ate lunch in a flower-strewn meadow on the bank of a snow-fed stream. On our right was the old stone bridge over which we had just crossed. All about us were mountains, tier upon tier of them, snow-capped and mysterious, rolling into the distance like the waves of a stormy sea. It was not a bad place for a picnic lunch.

The next trip, I may bring my own picnic kit from home, but it's easy enough to assemble what you need locally, and the marketing is a delightful job and a relief after being in the detached position of the sight-seer.

All these things take more time, of course, but having decided on how much time you want to spend on your European motoring trip, make your route fit your time, instead of the reverse.

For maps we used Halliway and Michelin, and for guidebooks we used Fodor's Modern Guide for the various countries, although I would strongly recommend that this be supplemented with Sydney Clark's excellent series All the Best of Spain, All the Best of France, All the Best of Italy, and so forth. Fodor is excellent for car reference. Sydney Clark's presentation is frequently more detailed and interesting.

For the Dordogne region of France, Freda White's Three Rivers of France is a must. H. V. Morton's A Stranger in Spain is a beautifully written and informative book. There are dozens of other books on sections of the countries which we visited. Many of these are excellent, and half the fun of planning a trip of this kind is to make up your own bibliography.

The important thing is that whatever you do and wherever you go, give yourself plenty of time; time to poke around a bit in out-of-the-way places, to have a leisurely lunch by some mountain stream, to sit in sidewalk cafe and watch the world pass by, to sit on a bench for half an hour and look at something just because you feel it is beautiful. This kind of time appears to be the rarest commodity in a traveler's life in spite of the fact that it is the most precious. It is from these odd moments, spent in accordance with your mood, that you bring back the sharpest and most lasting memories.

Buying a Food Freezer?

BUY FOOD SECURITY! BUY A FRIGIDAIRE FREEZER!

Hundreds of dollars worth of meat, fruit and vegetables will go into the food freezer you buy. So you need the sure knowledge that your freezer has the quality, features and built-in performance that can mean food security. Food security—that's what you get—with every Frigidaire freezer.

Who else could know as much about refrigeration? Who else has quality features like these for years and years of quiet, reliable zero-zone cold... years and years of food security.

REAL FOOD PROTECTION Frigidaire insulation is specially installed to prevent "warm spots" which can result in costly food spoilage. And the seal around the door edges has a continuous magnet built in to insure tighter door closing.

LOW OPERATING COSTS Every Frigidaire freezer has the Motor-Mixer, one of the most efficient types of refrigerating devices ever invented. And every model has the Frigidaire Non-Clog condenser which never clogs with dirt or lint, never needs cleaning, never uses extra electricity to overcome a clogged condition.

STURDIER CONSTRUCTION Cabinet corners are reinforced for extra strength. Doors are cross-braced inside to help prevent warp and to help keep them tight and true for years.

FAST, FACTORY-TRAINED SERVICE It's unlikely that your Frigidaire freezer will ever need servicing, but it's reassuring to know that there are factory trained servicemen throughout the country.

- 2 large tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ cup water
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce

3. Stir in the reserved pineapple syrup, beef broth, and one-half of the vinegar.

Cover the skillet and simmer until meat is tender, about 2 hrs.

4. Stir in the celery, onions, tomatoes, and pineapple chunks, reserving a few tomato wedges and pineapple chunks for garnish. Cook, covered, about 10 min.
5. Stir in a mixture of the brown sugar, cornstarch, water, soy sauce, and remaining vinegar. Add the green pepper. Bring to boiling and cook 3 min.

Beef Chunks Polynesian, Broiled Pineapple with Rum Caramel Sauce, and Bananas with Royal Pineapple Sauce, colorful dishes with exotically flavored sauces, epitomize the warmth and beauty of the Islands and the superb cuisine.

Below, favorite recipes of the S. S. Lurline's executive chef, Angelo Fusetti, who shared them with me, homebound TERIYAKI—Cut 1 lb. beef brisket tip into 2x1/2x1/4-in. strips; set aside. In a bowl, blend 1 teaspoon ground ginger, ½ cup soy sauce, ¼ cup honey, 1 clove garlic, minced, and 1 teaspoon grated onion. Add meat strips and marinate for about 1 hr. Remove meat, reserving marinade, and brown quickly in 3 tablespoons hot oil. Stir 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¼ cup water, and ¼ teaspoon red food coloring together in a heavy saucepan. Add marinade and blend well. Bring rapidly to boiling and cook 2 to 3 min., stirring constantly. Return meat to thickened marinade to glaze; remove and drain on a rack. Insert fried wooden picks into meat pieces; serve with the marinade.

SALMON (Lomi Lomi)—Remove bones and skin from 1 lb. raw salmon steaks and cut into small pieces (about 2 cups). Marinate in ¼ cup elder vinegar about 2 hrs. Drain and mix with ¾ cup finely sliced green onions and 3 large ripe tomatoes, peeled and diced. Blend together 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 1 tablespoon peanut oil, and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour over salmon and vegetables; toss lightly to mix. Chill mixture thoroughly before serving.

CHICKEN WITH COCONUT GRAVY—Coat chicken pieces with a butter and fry in equal amounts of butter and peanut oil. Serve with Coconut Gravy, sweet potatoes, and baked bananas. Coconut Gravy—Drain and strain 2 tablespoons chicken drippings; heat in a saucepan. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour and heat until mixture bubbles. Meanwhile, add ¼ cup milk and ¼ cup flaked coconut to an electric blender container; blend well. Add an additional ¼ cup milk; blend 5 min. Stirring constantly, gradually add to saucepan. Cook rapidly, stirring until sauce thickens. Cook 1 to 2 min. longer. Stir in ¾ cup cream and 6 drops yellow food coloring; heat thoroughly.

SWEET POTATOES IMPERIAL—Pare 1½ lbs. sweet potatoes and 1¼ lbs. cooking apples; cut into ¼-in. slices. In a greased, shallow 12x7x2-in. baking dish, alternate sweet potato and apple slices, standing slices upright in several rows. Brush 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine over slices. Sprinkle with a mixture of ¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar, 2 tablespoons sugar, and 1 tablespoon grated orange peel. Pour ¼ cup orange juice over all. Cover and bake at 350°F for 20 min. Remove cover and continue baking about 40 min., or until potatoes are tender. Serve hot.

Note: Pared sweet potatoes browned in lard and baked, covered, at 375°F 45 to 50 min. are also a fine accompaniment to the chicken.

MACADAMIA BUTTER SAUCE—Heat 3 tablespoons butter in a small skillet. Add ¼ cup coarsely chopped salted macadamia nuts to the butter and brown lightly, turning occasionally. Stir in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Spoon over cooked vegetables or fish.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING—Add 2 tablespoons pineapple juice, ½ cup sliced ripe papaya, and ¼ cup dairy sour cream to an electric blender container; blend well. Chill thoroughly before serving over fruit.

to cook evenly and brown lightly. (Do not overcook or fruit will lose its shape.)
4. Allowing one-half banana per person, serve at once topped with the warm pineapple sauce. Sprinkle with shredded coconut.

BRINGING UP BABY,*
HINTS COLLECTED

MOTHER OF FIVE

the busy fingers of babyhood

Fine teachers, fingers. They help your baby learn to grab, grasp, hold, poke —do a score of happy things. When do baby fingers begin to function? No set timetable for all babies but here are some "about" times:

3 to 4 months. Fists unclench. Charming finger-play gets under way.
5 to 6 months. Grasps in earnest. Holds on to toys for dear life.

6 to 7 months. Probably will hold bottle easily. Finger-explores everything.

8 to 9 months. May exchange toys from hand to hand with relative ease.
1 year. Pinch-holding with thumb and forefinger usually shows up now.

Food fanfare

When you want to give your baby a truly hearty "casserole" dish with built-in meal-appeal, consider Gerber Strained or Junior High Meat Dinners. Savory! Very! Because they have 3 times as much meat (and therefore much more protein) as regular vegetable-meat combinations. Flavorful! Indeed. This extra meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables and suitably seasoned for unusual flavor interest. Veal, Beef, Chicken, Ham, Turkey.

Memo from Dan Gerber

"When it comes to the development of new products, it takes a long time to satisfy our specialists. In the case of Gerber High Meat Dinners, it took two years and 72 different formulas before they had what they wanted to offer your baby.

"All recipes were carefully evaluated for nutritional quality and flavor. Two were finally selected for taste preference by a panel of 4,500 babies. The result? A product approved by babies, mothers and nutritional experts."

Finger exercises

To help speed your baby's manual dexterity, you might try these

"encouragers": (1) Put bright, safe objects within grasping reach. (2) Provide toys of various sizes. (3) Offer finger foods like Gerber Chicken or Meat Sticks.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods — infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods — to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"How Tall Is God?"

Mother had all the answers—once

BY BETTY BROWN PRESTON

THOSE BOOKS and magazine articles that decry the mental stagnation of a certain segment of American housewifery are talking about me. And they're not exaggerating when they spell out my horrifying preoccupation with children, supermarket specials, crash diets, and escape literature!

I'm no brain, let's face it. I've never read Kafka or stood in line at the Institute, and I'd rather see a good Doris Day movie any day than sit through a lecture at the club. For years, the League of Women Voters has struggled along without my membership—and if Sardinia, let us say, is currently the "in" place to visit, that's okay by me. I'd rather go to Santa Fe.

At dinner parties, I wear a basic black shroud and grin like crazy while that thin, outrageously chic redhead holds forth on modern jazz styles and Chagall's windows. What I know about fine wines, Freud, and modern sculpture could be packed loosely into a pint fruit jar—and if anyone ventures to speak French, I'm likely to break out in shingles.

Now you're wondering: how does it feel to be practically the last remaining member of an almost extinct species—the unenlightened wife and mother? What was I doing, for heaven's sake, when the ship of knowledge passed me in the night? (If you must know, I was reading Louella Parsons while the formula boiled over!) Am I not the slightest bit concerned in regard to my matronly morosity?

Well—yes and no. There are times when my eyelids get a little hot when I realize that I'll never, never be the first congresswoman from my district.

And it isn't always fun at parties when you sense that people are less than enthralled with your original recipe for mussels Tetraxini—not to mention downright sick, if you overdo your children's bright sayings.

However, there's a certain satisfaction in acknowledging that, although one is far from brilliant, one's heart is in fairly good working order. I'm plain nutty about my husband, children, and kitchen—and most of the time I like me, too. The truth is, I don't give a hoot if the lady president of the Suburban Symphony Society finds me as dull as a used scouring pad. What does bother me is what my children think—and honey, they've started thinking!

Just the other day my 14-year-old daughter came into the kitchen where I was ecstatically brushing two young brothers with garlic-and-tarragon butter. I glanced at her with my usual mixture of delight (because she's so beautiful) and apprehension (on account of she was lagging her homework). "What can I do for you, darling?" I asked.

"Mother, I'm stuck. What year was the Boxer Rebellion?"

"The Boxer Rebellion," I repeated vaguely. "Uh, yes. Well, you know me, sweetie. I rarely get around to reading the sports pages."

GIVING ME A LOOK that would have blanched almonds, she flounced her teased locks and stalked off to hunt up the dictionary. As I stood there dully contemplating my sins of intellectual omission, the voice of her 10-year-old sister belled out from the dining room.

"Mother, will you please stop what you're doing and help me with my homework?"

"I can't," I said. "I'm getting dinner."

"Then tell me from there. What does an auxiliary verb do? I need an example."

Now, I ask you. How should I know what an auxiliary verb does? That's its business! And anyway, it's been centuries since I was in fifth grade, not to mention the fact that teaching methods have been altered since my day. I told the child what any loving but mentally stagnant mother would have told her. "I don't know."

As if matters weren't bad enough already, my seven-year-old son chose this moment to enter the kitchen and inquire with taut urgency, "Mother, what year was the airplane invented?"

"How Tall Is God?"

"The Wright Brothers," I snapped, sliding the broilers into the oven.

"I didn't ask who," he muttered darkly. "I asked when!"

"Go wash your hands," I told him crisply.

"My hands aren't dirty."

"Wash them, anyway."

He went, but not before I'd caught that brief, veiled smile he's become quite good at. Believe me, he didn't fool me for a minute. I may be a boob in intellectual circles, but I can read the fine print in a small boy's face anytime. Obviously, the child wondered, "How can she be smart enough to know whether my hands need washing—when she doesn't even know when the airplane was invented?"

Oh, a pox on toes! I might have broken down then and there, but after a while the roasting chickens began whispering their ambrosial message, and I felt better.

Fulfillment and personal identity were mine once more. I poured a cup of coffee from the big pot that I'd polished only yesterday—when I probably should have been reading Edith Sitwell's poems. The kitchen was warm and fragrant, my husband was due home any minute, the children were safe in the nest, we didn't owe any money—and no one in the family needed an operation. If there's one thing I've learned, it's to enjoy the present. So I sat there, enjoying it. Ignorance is bliss, I guess.

In fact, I'm convinced of it. Otherwise, why should I have suddenly started feeling uncomfortable as I looked back to those golden days when I'd been queen bee in our house—before it became a gathering for the intelligentsia? Ah, those had been the days! I hadn't been a numskull in their eyes then, no siree!

Yes, I reflected sadly. Life had been pretty simple then. If a three-year-old toddler asks you if snowmen have their tonsils out, you simply don't need a degree in metaphysics in order to explain that snow people don't have tonsils. Even the liveliest of young, inquiring minds will accept that.

I BROODED, not unpleasantly. There had been a time when I had coped! Through breakfast dishes, bedmaking, laundry, marketing, ironing—even napping—I had answered their incessant questions with workmanlike skill and patience. Why then and not now? Is that what you're wondering?

I'm perfectly willing to pass on my old foolproof system—if you'll be kind enough to help me with my current problem.

Do we have a deal?

First of all, what's really important is that you love your children—deeply, unreasonably, and surely. Otherwise, it'd be a fairly simple matter to go ahead cleaning the oven and let the little rascals answer their own questions! ❖

Once you've got the love thing anchored (in your heart; forget your mind for once!) your Answering Service takes care of itself. In my case, it was pure duck soup as soon as I realized that small children aren't terribly concerned with accuracy. They don't care how far out you get, just so you let them know you're listening.

Here are a few samples of the types of questions my children asked when they were raises—and I was mighty, in their eyes. (Complete with the answers they got, if I recall rightly.)

Q. How tall is God?

A. Five miles. (Notice, I didn't say about five miles. It's important to be explicit, otherwise the answer will lead to further and more complicated questioning.)

Q. Why is God five miles tall?

A. He couldn't watch over everybody if he were shorter.

Q. How many windows are in at home?

 A. Seventy-two.
 Q. Did you count them?
 A. No.
 Q. Then how do you know there are 72?
 A. I look through them every day.
 Q. Are all grandmothers poor?
 A. Yes.
 Q. Why?
 A. They buy too many expensive presents for their grandchildren.
 Q. Is our car the size of a building?
 A. What building?
 Q. Is our car the size of the police station?
 A. Definitely not.
 Q. Do spiders have fathers?
 A. They certainly do.
 Q. If I was a spider, would I have a father?
 A. Of course you would! Spider fathers are hard workers and extremely fond of their families, by the way. (Embellishment helps, as it often times throws them into temporary silences.)
 Q. Does the ocean have a hole in it?
 A. Yes, a rather large one—about seven miles off Madagascar.
 Q. What's Mad-a-gas-car?
 A. That's an island, near the hole in the ocean.
 Q. How much do you love me?
 A. A box full.
 Q. How big is the box?
 A. Thirty-five miles high and a thousand miles long.
 Q. Is that a big box?
 A. The biggest.
 Q. What time was it last night?
 A. Nine o'clock.

Q. What time is it tomorrow?
 A. Seven.
 Q. What is time?
 A. Something most mothers wish they had more of.
 Q. Why don't I have enough time?
 A. You do. It's just your imagination that you don't.
 Q. What's imagination?
 A. Something that mothers can fall back on when their brains are undernourished.
 Q. What's a brain?
 A. It's what tells you that dinner's almost ready. So why don't you give me a big kiss before you go wash up?
 Simple? Is it any wonder that my children looked up to me for years, with blind trust and respect?
 I might add, the mere recollection of their faith in my mental powers reassures me now—aware as I am of my addled state!
 Okay, so I fumble historical dates and fracture fractions. So I can't recognize a Bach fugue if I meet one face to face, heaven forbid. So I don't know too much about what they're up to in Berlin.
 (The city, not the composer. Although come to think of it, I don't know too much about Irving, either!)

So I'm happy. And I was a mental mommy once. You can't take my memories away from me.
 If being a contented vegetable gets too uncomfortable, I can always let the teen-ager baby-sit while I and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

GEORGIA BEAUTY

Cecilia Upton was able to trim down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling your strength in 3 weeks!

These "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically new body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the amazed brawn of his team are dramatic proof of the results he gets—not to mention the steady stream of letters from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results makes a major, if not impossible, burden for so many of our best doctors, trainers and physical educators are coming to recommend the easy new approach to body fit and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down into a wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's following has the impressive support of several highly respected educational institutions, leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of successful athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

STRETCHING

Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his 6-second exercises. This remarkably easy routine keeps them in better condition than any other, old-fashioned exercise does."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg—because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute"—his XSXIM Program—built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took 1/4 of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3 1/2 inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30 1/2 inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you—and your children, too—can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. MORNING STRETCH

For Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg—because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Ariand Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took $\frac{1}{2}$ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmer down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Talking about cocoa shells

BY JOHN BRIMER

Garden Editor

IN SUMMER, a mulch insulates the soil from heat and hot air and saves enough water to bathe a herd of elephants; in winter, it acts as a coat to protect plants from cold and weather damage. A good mulch will smother or shade out weeds, and the few which do sprout may be easily twined out of the soft, open soil.

The idea was nature's to begin with. In the wilds, dead leaves and stalks fall to the ground around a living plant and form the protective mat which is mulch, and in the same way in the garden we place an insulating layer on top of the soil around the bases of treasured plants.

An ideal mulching material is loose enough to allow rain, hose water, and air to penetrate it, yet solid enough to cover and protect the soil from erosion. It should be good-looking and light to handle, and it should be available locally and cheap. In addition, it should be reasonably fireproof, especially if it is used near the house, so the whole thing won't go up some hot, dry day if a lighted cigarette is dropped into it. Natural mulching materials eventually decompose, enriching the soil with humus and often adding fertility, too. Long-lasting, useful mulches are also produced from man-made materials, though they do not usually contribute much to the soil.

Avoid using extra-fine textured mulches. They tend to pack down and actually prevent air and water from reaching the root area. Plastic or metal foil used as a mulch should have holes punched every few inches to allow water to drain into the soil. The dark-colored natural as well as plastic mulches should not come in contact with plant parts lest they cook or injure the plants; dark materials absorb a great deal of heat in hot weather. Because natural mulches take up nitrogen from the soil (some in great quantities), it is well to apply a light feeding of nitrogenous plant foods before placing your mulch. All-year mulches, coarse and slow to decompose, can have the plant food applied on top; watering-in will flush the food down to root level to replace the nitrogen that is extracted from the soil.

Your garden center will carry many of the common mulches listed below. Consult them before buying, to get the best kind for your purpose.

BUCKWHEAT HULLS: Open and light, water soaks in rapidly; long lasting. Mulch 1 to 2 inches deep.

COCOA SHELLS: Use 1 to 2 inches deep but not more, as high potassium content may injure certain plants; high in nitrogen, too.

COWPEE GROUNDS: Little nutritional value for soil; likely to pack and cake, keeping moisture out. Use lightly or work into soil.

CORN COBS: Use 2 to 5 inches deep ground or chopped. Light color may be a problem.

LAWN CLIPPINGS: Dry well and mix with leaves or other coarse material to prevent matting. Mildew may result if packing occurs; also, if used green, heat from decomposition may injure plants.

LEAVES: Norway and sugar maple and poplar leaves are better composted. Elm and maple leaves are alkaline in reaction; oak, beech, and some others have the acid content wanted by laurels and evergreens. Leaves are more slightly if broken up or ground with a rotary mower; use 3 to 6 inches deep.

NUT SHELLS: Some fertilizing properties; some may have acid reaction. Peanuts break down rapidly and are ideal mulch for tomatoes.

PEAT MOSS: May be combustible when dry. Some gardeners spray it with detergent water (2 tbsps. per pail) to make it more absorptive. Use 1 to 2 inches deep, stirring occasionally to break up crust. Winter mulch may be up to 4 inches deep but should be cut down in depth for summer.

PINE NEEDLES: Excellent and inexpensive. Good for shallow-rooted acid-soil plants; apply 3 to 4 inches deep in summer; water soaks in readily.

POLYETHYLENE PLASTIC: Don't use clear film; weeds will grow better under it. Black plastic is a good weed killer, lasts up to four years; must be weighted with stones, etc., to prevent dislodgement by wind; also must have holes punched every 6 inches with a large nail or screwdriver to permit water to drain into soil.

SAWDUST, WOOD CHIPS, AND SHAVINGS: Use up to 2 to 3 inches deep, but first apply nitrogenous fertilizer. Do not use elmwood chips because of disease.

SEAWEED: Has high mineral content, may have an objectionable odor at first, when wet.

SPENT HOPS: Obtainable locally from breweries; low combustibility, lasts about two years when used 4 to 6 inches thick. It has a slightly acid reaction.

CRUSHED STONE, GRAVEL, SAND: Good-looking permanent mulch, particularly useful around rock gardens.

SUGAR CANE: Obtainable locally from sugar mills or may be purchased; has high water retention and absorptive qualities, breaking down quickly into humus; use about 2 inches deep.

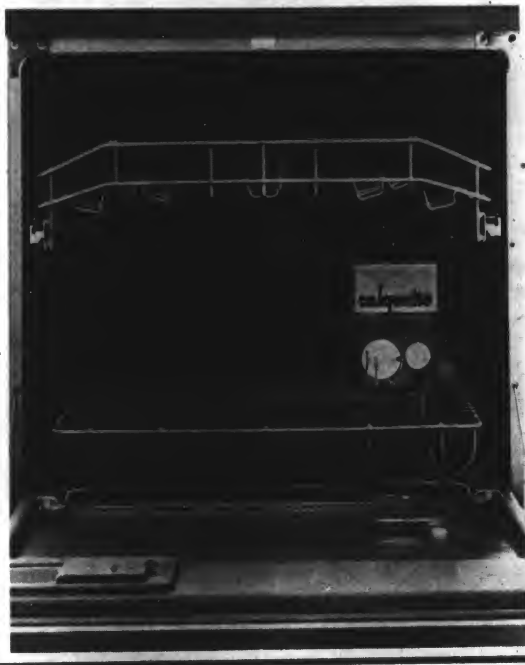

TOBACCO STEMS: Chopped up, makes a coarse mulch, allowing water and air penetration; may keep some insects away; do not use on tomatoes.

TREE BARK: Good, long-lasting; use 1 to 2 inches deep.

VERMICULITE: Processed mica; excellent water retention; may blow about in high winds, but good-looking, useful in flower beds; for lightening the soil, use 1 to 2 inches deep.

Owner on Board— Very Busy

BY CHARLES R. MEYER

GIVING your child a boat of his own is one of the best investments you can make for him. He'll learn more about sailing when he does it for himself than he ever will crewing on bigger craft, and being responsible for handling and upkeep is a happy way of building character.

"Soothing, too," as a wise old salt and father observed, watching a dinghy pull smartly away from the pier in Fox Lake, Illinois. "He's independent at last, out there with the air blowing over him all day, and not in any trouble at all."

What kind of boat is safest and best? A lot depends, of course, on the kind of water you're near, but you can't go wrong with a triple-threat dinghy. Under sail, these little beauties function as training hulls for young skippers and provide invaluable first-hand experience in seamanship.

Prices range from less than $100 into the thousands. Or, as a first boat you might consider a sailing board such as the Sailfish or Sunfish. These cockleshell craft incorporate all the skills of deep-water boating into hulls that are equally well adapted for inland lakes or for river sailing.

It's a great day when you become the owner of your first boat—like getting your first house or your first car—and most kids flaunt their emotions by settling on wild names like "Vulture" or "Rag Mop" or electing to paint their treasures pea green or black. But as long as the proper safety precautions are observed, let them do it their way.

And don't be too worried about children going out alone in small boats—concentrate, instead, on good safety practices. Before they go out alone they must understand how to right a capsized boat; how to signal for aid; how to use a life preserver (and always carry one afloat). Teach them respect for the weather. Always get the "course" before they go and find out when they intend to come in. Even if your sailors are just going out for the afternoon, send them off with hot soup or tea in a thermos, no matter how hot the day is, and sweaters, too. You never know when people may get thirsty or when the wind may turn cold.

Safety regulations have to be established by parents, of course, but otherwise remember the boat will belong to the child you have given it to. Ideally, there is only one captain and one owner of that first small boat, the best of all introductions to the joys of life on the water.

You're not the only one who'll like the way your Pontiac is built. So will the next owner.

Who'd ever think about selling his 1964 Pontiac now? Still, it's nice to know that the way we build a Pontiac for you is what makes it worth more to the one who buys it next. Look at styling. (Beautiful.) Pontiacs no more go out of fashion than money. Consider engineering. (Superb.) Pontiac's the car with Wide-Track ride, which flattens bumps as neatly as it unwinds curves. Then there's Trophy V-8 power. (Strong. Very strong.) It's better to think about all this coolly, beforehand. Once you see and drive the Pontiacs, things get somewhat emotional. (Fun.) Try it, at your Pontiac dealer.
